RADICALS IN RESOLUTION TAKE ACTION

IN OFFICE TWO YEARS

Present Cabinet Subjected To Fire Both Outside And Inside Government

PARIS, Nov. 6.— (INS) — The French cabinet resigned today as a result of the dispute over the new budget. Premier Raymond Poincare tendered the resignations to President Doumergue just as parliament met.

The Poincare ministry, or the government of National Union, as it was called, has been under fire from the radical socialists for some time. Edouard Herriot, minister of public instruction, led the fight inside the government while the radical socialist congress at Angers exerted powerful pressure from without. The socialists adopted a second resolution last night condemning the Poincare cabinet and demanding its resignation.

The cabinet was summoned to meet at noon today for consideration of the budget bill. Just before the ministers assembled M. Herriot; Minister of Interior Sarraut; Minister of Agriculture Queille and Minister of Colonies Perrier called upon the premier and announced their intention of resigning.

The Poincare government was originally formed on July 23, 1926. With but a few changes it had remained in power ever since. Usually it is customary for a cabinet to resign when a general election is held but the Poincare party won such an overwhelming victory in the French general election early this year that the old ministry remained in power.

Premier Poincare assumed stewardship of the government at a time when the French franc was gravely depreciated in value and general alarm was being felt throughout the republic over the financial and commercial situation. He forced bills through parliament providing new taxation, bolstered up the credit of the government and the Bank of France and began to buy gold for French account in the United States. Within a year he had completetly changed the financial position of the country, putting it upon a sound basis. His political group made its campaign at the beginning of the year upon a platform of further financial reforms.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—The condition of Mrs. Smoot, wife of the Utah senator, was "very low" today. She has been seriously ill for several days and the senator is at her bedside, disregarding all political matters.

PORTER GIVEN HIGH POST IN STATE CHURCH

The Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church here for the past ten years, revealed today that his resignation as pastor was tendered Sunday to permit him to accept the positino of superintendent of missions for Christian churches in the state.

Yesterday he concluded negotiations for taking over this important post. The retiring pastor said that the position virtually placed him in charge of all the business activities of the churches in the state.

Location of ministers in new charges and financial and other problems will come before him for solution, he said. Requests by congregations for changes in pastors and requests by pastors for a change in location will be filed direct with the superintendent, the Rev. Mr. Porter said, in explaining that preachers in the denomination are not assigned by conferences, as is the case in many other churches.

A. H. FARRAR, OF TUSTIN, DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Arthur H. Farrar, 48, rancher, residing at Holt avenue and First street, Tustin, was killed and Fred H. Lazenby, 46, of 1004 Kilson drive, Santa Ana, was seriously hurt when the automobile in which they were riding plunged off the state highway bridge, just north of Oceanside, last night.

The automobile plunged over a 75-foot embankment into the San Luis Rey river.

Farrar, who was driving the machine, was killed almost instantly, it is believed. Lazenby is in the Oceanside hospital, suffering from possible internal injuries, several broken ribs and severe cuts about the face and head.

Farrar was pinned beneath the

Late Election Returns

DENVER, Nov. 6.—(INS)—Herbert Hoover had a two to one lead over Smith in the city of Denver shortly after noon, according to unofficial figures received at Republican county headquarters here. While the state law prohibits giving out official figures until after the polls closed, an hourly count is kept in all city polling precincts.

MASHAPEE, Mass., Nov. 6.—(INS)—The Cape Cod town, the third town in Massachusetts to report complete election returns, this afternoon gave:

Hoover, (R) 83; Smith (D), 17.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Nov. 6.—(INS)—Forty-five scattered precincts out of 160 in the city counted up until 1 p. m. gave Herbert Hoover 2215 and Governor Alfred E. Smith 815.

The count is made possible at this time by the use of double election boards.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Herbert Hoover received 586 of the 941 votes cast here up to noon today. Governor Alfred E. Smith received the remaining 355.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 6.—(INS)—One precinct complete in Vance county gave Smith 32, Hoover 1,

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 6.—Herbert Hoover, citizen of Palo Alto, devoted himself today with boyish abandon to his vivid cardinal crysanthemums, his baby grand-children and his home.

"And whatever that decision is, it will be right."

That sentence, from the last campaign utterance of Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for president of the United States, is the story of election day in the picturesque Hoover home of San Juan Hill—a quiet, restful day literally squandered on living in happiness and peace amid scenes and people intimately associated with a long and successful career.

Apart from the interruption for voting at 10 o'clock this morning, there was nothing on the list "things to be done today," in the Hoover home. Efficiency in the household of this man celebrated the world around for administrative efficiency in large affairs, was measured on this epochal day in the Hoover chronology in the stark terms of children's laughter.

Five votes from San Juan Hill await the tally clerks in the Stanford Union precinct of Santa Clara county tonight. In the old red box with the ballots of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will be found those of Herbert jr., of his wife and the first vote of Allan Hoover, second son who has only recently celebrated his twenty-first birthday.

The polling place, rigged with elaborate equipment to record in talking-movies, the act for which Hoover traveled across the continent, drew the family to a building Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were themselves largely instrumental in estiblishing. It took Mr. and Mrs. Hoover to a spot they knew together for 37 years ago as sweethearts in college, when Hoover was an orphan student in engineering and his wife a campus belle.

Along the mile drive from San Juan Hill to Stanford Union lay the landmarks which link that almost forgotten era of work and struggle with the day when Hoover awaits the verdict of the nation upon his call to leadership by the Republican party. On the campus Hoover prepared himself for life; here he found his life companion and helper; here at 23 he concluded negotiations with Australian owners for his first venture in mining, here he returned time after time in his journeys to remote corners of the world as engineer, "master of emergencies," and statesman. More than 200 times during the last 40 years has Herbert Hoover returned to Palo Alto. This has been the base of operations for his entire career—a career without a parallel, perhaps for variety of achievement and diversity of experience. Here, at his home within the limits of Leland-Stanford university campus, where he enrolled in 1891 as the first student in the newly founded college, will he receive returns on the presidential election which may call him to the White House.

But while workmen ripped and pounded with hammer and saw in stalling telegraph wires for the news service, election returns extensions, Hoover walked in his flower garden, lounged in his library with books and memorials gathered from the four corners of the world, resting as calmly as if a new shaft had been sunk yesterday to pay dirt in the Antipodes. Regardless of the political forecasts of his advisers that victory is assured, Hoover finds his security today, according to his intimates, in the knowledge that he has builded this campaign strictly to the blueprint he set down for himself in the beginning.

If the blueprint does not work, the fault is with the engineer, he believes. And in this case, if the engineer is wrong, patriotism makes defeat the victory. Here are the words Hoover himself used last night in his last talk to the voters over a nation-wide radio

Hoover Leads 2 to 1 In Early Counts

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Herbert Hoover led in the presidential race at noon today insofar as votes had been counted by a ratio of more than 2 to 1. Two "rockribbed" Republican strongholds and one equally "rockribbed" Democratic precinct had reported at that time.

GOV. AL SMITH IS CONFIDENT OF ELECTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith today is awaiting the couting of the ballots. He visited his old haunts on the "sidewalks of New York" today and expressed and radiated confidence in his election within the gift of the people of the nation.

His confidence in the outcome of the balloting was expressed in his final speech, from the broadcasting studio at Carnegie hall. He presented the records of his accomplishments as governor of New York and promised to follow the same principles if he gets to the White House.

His last words of the campaign was a promise to use all his energies for better government. Concluding the speech he said:

"At no time during my public career in elective office did I ever trade a promise for a vote. I have made no promises to any man or group of men. Nobody was authorized to make any promises for me, and, in fact, none has been made.

"I can enter upon the duties of that great office with a mind single to the best interests of the country, and I promise you that in return for your vote of confidence tomorrow, I shall give this country the best that is in me to bring about a constructive, progressive and forward-looking administration."

The governor's speech was delivered at 10 p. m., E. S. T. After he had listened to the speech of his republican opponent, Herbert Hoover. Smith said none of his appointments had been rejected by the legislature and no breath of scandal had ever touched the vast state expenditures.

The governor devoted much attention to the part women played in the campaign. He related what he had done for them in securing protective laws for them here. He thanked them for their campaign efforts, for their entertainment of Mrs. Smith during the campaign trips and urged them to vote.

The governor had no plans for election day, except his visit to the polls. John J. Raskob, his campaign managers and a few

INSURGENTS IN SENATE APPEAR CERTAIN TO WIN

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6,—The insurgent bloc of the senate appeared riding today to victory and two more years of control over the legislative policies of the nation.

A final check of probable results in congressional contests indicated the election of a Republican house and senate, with the insurgent bloc again dominating the upper branch of congress. As the senate has the power to veto any legislation enacted by the house, to ratify all treaties and confirm all presidential appointments, the insurgents seemed likely to exert considerable influence on the nation's business during the tenure of the seventy-first congress, which will meet for the first time in special session next March 5.

Republicans Favored

The Republicans, meanwhile, were favored to retain nominal control of the senate, simpy because they had an easier task to hold their present paper majority than the Democrats faced in winning control of the 34 seats to be filled today. Twenty Democrats, 13 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite were to be returned on replaced. The International News Service survey indicated the certain election of 14 Republicans, including four insurgents, and of 11 Democrats, with eight contests in doubt, and the Minnesota senatorship again conceded to Henri K. Shipstead, the Farmer-Laborite.

The insurgents, with six members among the "holdover" senators and four others certain of re-election, will have 10 votes at all times in the seventy-first congress. They will be aided, too, from time to time, by a number of Democratic senators, who received insurgent indorsement in the campaign just ended.

The senatorial contests to be decided today and the probable outcome, as indicated by the International News Service survey, are:

NO VIOLENCE IS REPORTED OVER NATION

WOMEN TURNING OUT

First States to Close Are Kentucky and Tennessee At 4 O'clock This P. M.

(By United Press)

THE HOOVER-SMITH presidential election battle brought record breaking voting today. There had been few reports of violence to shortly before noon. Four persons died suddenly today. One man died while voting at Jamaica, L. I.; a woman died similarly in Newton, Mass.; a man died of alcohol poisoning in Kansas City, Mo., as he was being moved from a polling place to the police station, and another died at Coal Fork, W. Va., when about to vote.

Two startling developments marked the early hours.

State troops were ordered by the West Virginia governor into the Logan county mining area to forestall possible mob violence. A Democratic judge there charged the sheriff had deputized 200 special deputies and he retorted with charges of Democratic massing of armed forces.

In Chattanooga, Tenn., Democrats claimed some Negroes had been improperly registered; and the Republicans retorted that the Democrats' threat of prosecution was merely intended to keep Negro voters from the polls.

In many cities, heavy guards were massed. New York City, had all its police on steady duty, but early reports indicated mainly only heavy voting without special incident. Chicago reported a similar situation, and city after city followed with advices of record voting, by long lines waiting at an early hour.

Women were reported as unusually strongly represented.

The first states to close their polls tonight will be Kentucky, Tennessee and South Carolina, where voting ends at 4 p. m., central standard time. South Carolina is assumed to be overwhelmingly Democratic as usual. If Kentucky and Tennessee are at all close as many expect, the result in those states may not be known for many hours because of the delay in getting returns from the isolated mountain districts. Generally in both these states the cities will lean toward Hoover and the country districts towards Smith according to expectation of politicians. Smith votes will be slower coming in therefore than Hoover votes.

Other key states in the voting today include New York, where polls close at 6 p. m. eastern time; Massachusetts, closing from 4 to 8 p. m., eastern time; Missouri, closing at 7 p. m. central time; and Maryland, closing at 5 to 7 p. m. eastern time. When the results in those states are known it will be fairly certain who has won. This group is expected to hold the balance of power unless there should be a landslide.

34 PER CENT VOTE CAST UP TO NOON HERE

Santa Ana today crashed into a new high record for forenoon voting, a check of 10 polling places in the city up to noon revealed.

With the casting of 966 ballots the precincts registered a vote of 34 per cent of the total registration of 2795 votes. The previous high record was about 20 per cent.

Precinct No. 2, in the Frances Willard junior high school, was the leader, more than 50 per cent of those eligible to cast ballots in that precinct having marked their ballots by 10:30. The recorded vote at that hour was 121 out of a registration of 226 .

Election board officials commented on the fact that more women than usual voted this morning, it being quite evident, the officials said, that many women had dropped their morning work temporarily in order to get to the polls before lunch time.

Republican and Democratic headquarters and headquarters of the get-out-the-vote committee received many calls for automobiles from voters who did not have transportation of their own.

It was pointed out that the heavy voting in the morning would make it possible for working men and women to have full sway at the polling places in the late afternoon. The polls will close at 7 p.m.

Precinct No. 2, Frances Willard school, 121, 226.

No. 11, Lincoln school, 104, 315.

No. 45, Jefferson school, 124, 310.

No. 41, Drake's garage, 1059 West Sixth, 86, 286.

No. 39, Franklin school, 80, 272.

No. 34, McKinley school, 83, 259.

No. 36, Lowell school, 76, 248.

No. 6, Spurgeon school, 103, 295.

No. 18, Roosevelt school, 78, 256.

CONTRACT FOR NEW FACTORY AWARDED SOON

The Vitalite piston, already on the market, is making rapid strides as one of the leading pistons in the country and has already been adopted by several airplane manufacturers as standard equipment, it was declared today. It is now being manufactured at the Kinslow machine shop.

The new plant will be ready for occupancy by January 1, Kinslow said, and will start with a working force of 35 men. When the new plant opens, the machinery of the Vitalite company will be transferred. The machine shop will continue in business of retailing automotive replacement parts.

RECORD VOTE BEING POLLED OVER NATION

Voters will crowd around the 125,000 precincts throughout the United States, taxing election machinery in many places, and delaying the closing of the polls and the count in many precincts.

The election picture today of this tremendous nation, with its millions choosing their next president, their next house of representatives, one-third of the United States senate, 34 state governors, many state legislatures and state and county officials, is a record-breaker. It represents the rapid rise of the nation from the first election in 1789, when there was a popular vote for president only in five states. Only persons with property or other special qualifications then could vote. Pennsylvania cast a total of less than 6000 votes in that election. There are more than that many election precincts in Pennsylvania now.

This year New York City alone will cast nearly 2,000,00 votes, equal to half the total population of the United States at the first election.

The presidential and vice presidential candidates were to vote in their respective homes today—Hoover in the women's club house on the campus of Leland Stanford university at Palo Alto, Calif.; Smith in a stationery store at 34 East 48th street, New York; Senator Curtis in a schoolhouse at Topeka, Kas., and Senator Robinson in a drug store at Little Rock, Ark.

Three large unknown factors give this election a greater element of doubt than any since 1916 when it was not known for many hours whether Wilson or Hughes had been elected. The greatest element of uncertainty arises from the tremendously increased registration. It amounted to 28 per cent in Boston and 22 per cent for Massachusetts as a whole. In Kansas, for instance, women equalled men in some precincts. In some places, women outnumbered men in registrations. New York City has an increased registration of roughly 500,000 or 33 per cent of the former registration.

A second element of doubt is the uncertainty as to how many wet Republicans will vote with Governor Smith because of liquor and how many dry Democrats will bolt him. Party fences have been trampled this year but nobody knows just which way the net balance will go.

A third element is the religious feeling. It is the hardest of all elements to estimate because so many are reluctant to discuss it openly. Politicians agree Smith will lose many votes among those with strong anti-Catholic. If he loses Maryland it will be due to the religious feeling of Democrats in the eastern shore counties. His difficulties in the south are partly traceable to this element. On the other hand Smith may gain Republican votes in states like New Mexico where half of the vote is composed of Mexican immigrants who are Catholic Republicans.

State Vote Heavy

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6—(UP)—Balloting started off briskly today in the general election in most of the 9086 precincts throughout California.

Fair weather prevailed in all parts of the state and party workers were busy early getting out the vote.

In many precincts lines of voters were waiting when the voting booths opened at 6 a. m., and the number of ballots cast during the first hour was unusually heavy.

With a total of 2,313,816 registered, party leaders and election officials predicted the percentage of those registered who cast ballots would be the largest in the history of the state.

Intense interest was aroused in the presidential race by the whirlwind finish of Herbert Hoover and Gov. Alfred E. Smith, and by the return of Hoover to California to cast his ballot.

A vote for the Prohibition electoral list will be a vote for Hoover, as the Prohibition party in California endorsed the candidacy of Hoover and picked the same electoral candidates as those already named by the Republicans.

Optimistic statements were forthcoming from both Democratic and Republican state headquarters as the campaign ended and the party workers turned to the task of getting the vote out.

In the senatorial race Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Republican encumbent, was opposed by Minor Moore, Democrat, Los Angeles; Charles H. Randall, Prohibitionist, Los Angeles, and Lena Morrow Lewis, Socialist, San Francisco.

G. O. P. SLECTION OFFICIALS SEIZED IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—(INS)—Eight Republican election officials, including a member of the city council, were arreted this afternoon on warrants worn out by members of the legal taff of the Democratic city committee.

There was a stream of complaints flowing into city hall as the ballotting became heavier.

A number of fit fights and wrangling wa reported in the south Philadelphia wards. All the warrants were for election officials in this section of the ciyt.

At 10 o'clock it wa estimated 300,000 of the 700,000 votes registered had voted.

CHICAGO'S ELECTION MOST ORDERLY IN HISTORY

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The most tremendous and orderly election in Chicago's history was recorded today.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon, seven hours after the polls opened, election officials estimated 1,000,000 ballots had been cast. At poll closing time, 4 o'clock, it was estimated, more than 1,500,000 ballots will have been cast.

Election commissioners forecast a 95 per cent vote, which would give Chicago 1,317,299 votes, the biggest in the city's history.

Only minor disturbances marked the rush to the voting booths. One election judge was charged with intoxication and less than half a dozen attempted vote frauds were recorded.

County Judge Edmund K. Jareski, head of the board of election commissioners, declared the election was by far the most orderly ever held in Chicago. He said the hundreds of policemen and thousands of watchers had succeeded in keeping perfect order in all wards.

South Vote Heavy

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Polls throughout Southern California drew heavy early morning crowds in the balloting on local, state and national issues.

On the basis of the early turnout, Registrar of Voters Kerr predicted that 650,000 votes will be cast in Los Angeles county. Refistered voters total 925,000.

ASHEVILLE ,N. C., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Two men were under arrest today charged with conspiracy to prevent "an American citizen from the free rights of the ballot."

The two, Harry Gruver, business man and Doak Davis, farmer of Reem Creek were held after an investigation into their activities in connection with absentee coter ballots which they are alleged to have marked for the Republican presidential elector and the state and county Democratic ticket.

friends were to drop in during the afternoon for a talk. He had no political conferences arranged and will issue no statements, he said.

In his radio speech, last night, Smith summed up his appeal to the voters of the nation. His opening sentences urged the equality of man as exemplified on election day and said "a man or woman who is not sufficiently interested in the welfare of the country to take the trouble to cast a ballot cannot be said to be a very good citizen."

His appeal, he said, was to his radio audience alone—an "intimate one," he termed it.

Smith described his own record as governor of New York and cited his non-partisan appointments as a demonstration of his sincere interest and efforts for the good of the state and its people. In every department of his cabinet, Smith pointed out, he had made appointments of those best fitted to carry on their tasks. This was a policy that would be his if elected to carry on the national administration, and one fundamentally essential for the efficient government of the country.

The democratic nominee told his radio listeners that his always had been a policy of conservation of the state's natural resources for public benefit. This he said would be his national policy as president.

Smith voted shortly before 1 p. m, after making his way through a veritable mob of admirers. Voting with him were his wife, whose birthday wish today was for his election; his son and his daughter-in-law. Sixty police guarded him and opened the way as he walked from his hotel to the polling place at 34 East 48th street.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Buddhism tries to short-circuit the problem of pain and grief with a theory that man suffers to balance wrongdoing in some previous existence. The theory does not satisfy man's reason.

To the Christian pain remains a mystery; yet he has learned from the Christ that, instead of merely enduring, man may transform heartaches into the means whereby he rises into co-operation with his Master and becomes a spiritual giant.

PROPOSAL FOR PURCHASE OF FAIR GROUNDS TO BE TAKEN UP BY FARM BUREAU BOARD

At its next regular meeting the board of directors of the Orange County Farm bureau will consider what action it will take on the proposal that Orange county buy the fair grounds between Santa Ana and Anaheim for a recreational center, it was announced today.

No indication as to what the board's attitude will be has been made public, but the body referred the matter to the farm centers throughout the county some time ago when the suggestion first came to the board's attention. It was pointed out at that time that the board was desirous of observing the reaction of the various centers to the matter before committing itself to a definite policy.

According to Norman M. Blaney, secretary of the farm bureau, practically every active farm center in the county now has acted on the proposition and has drafted a resolution setting forth its belief that the fair grounds purchase should be made by direct appropriation. Centers in West Orange, La Habra, Garden Grove, Cypress, Villa Park and El Modena have given support to the movement, Blaney stated. The resolutions point out that the location is the most logical one in the county for a general recreation center.

Some time ago the property, consisting of 39 acres, was offered to the county by the fair association at the price paid for it several years ago. It was pointed out that inter-sectional football games, big league baseball training schedules and county-wide events could be staged there.

SEAL CAMPAIGN PLANS ARE LAID BY COMMITTEE

Preliminary plans for the annual Christmas seal sale conducted by the Orange County Tuberculosis association are under way today as a result of a meeting of the executive committee of the organization, held yesterday noon at the Rose Arbor Inn.

H. A. Lake, of Garden Grove, president of the organization, presided at the session, at which it was revealed that the Foster-Kleiser company will donate 25 bill boards for advertising the campaign.

Alma Overholt, who will assist in the campaign this year in publicity work, was at the meeting, and was introduced to the gathering. Those present included the Rev. St. John O'Sullivan, of San Juan Capistrano; Mrs. C. C. Violet, Mrs. John Bichan, Mrs. Hewett Smith, M. C. Maloney and Vernon King.

Plans being worked out today call for a seal campaign rally to be held November 26, at which final and definite plans for the movement will be mapped out and committees announced. The meeting will be attended by committee chairmen.

H. B. CHAMBER SALARY HELD UP BY BOARD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov 6.—That the action of the city council in paying the salary of the assistant secretary of the chamber of commerce is irregular and illegal, was declared at the meeting of the council last night. The salary was originally paid to the secretary, who also was termed city advertising manager. When the office was refilled the new appointee was never made assistant secretary. The council is holding the checks of Mrs. May Jackson and L. C. Denslow until after the chamber takes action on the election of new officials Friday night.

Mayor Bowen and Councilman Harris went on record as believing that some radical changes should be made in the chamber of commerce. Harris believes that the positions of secretary and assistant secretary should be made one, with an increase of salary, half to be paid by the city to the secretary as advertising manager and the other half to be paid by the chamber. Bowen stated his conviction that the chamber would never be a success without the aid of an organized board of directors.

The plans for a big traffic signal to light the corner of Main and Ocean were referred to City Engineer Rosson. The cost is estimated at $3000.

The purchase of a touring car for the police department was authorized at a cost of $532.70.

The rent on the bait and fishing tackle concession located on the end of the pier was reduced from $25 a month to $5 for the period from November to April 30.

On the plea of the need for $50 more for band expenses L. H. Gallienne, the council awarded the amount in addition to the $190 already pledged.

On the recommendation of Fire Chief Sargent, the salary of L. E. Hill was raised from $150 per month to the second year salary of $165.

The derrick on Eleventh street near Palm was ordered torn down at once. If the request is not complied with the council will take action by declaring the derrick a nuisance.

The meeting was adjourned until November 19.

Jack Fisher, general chairman for the first annual military ball of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war, to be held December 5 at St. Ann's inn, announced today the names of committee chairmen who will arranged details of the affair.

The executive committee met last night at Fisher's home, 707 Spurgeon street, and made further arrangements for the dance, which is expected to be the most brilliant affair of its kind ever staged in Orange county. Enthusiasm and determination to make it a success were evident at last night's meeting.

The executive committee is composed of Mrs. F. E. Coulter, president of the Ebell club; Mrs. A. G. Flagg, F. C. Drumm, former superior judge and Linn Crawford.

Eugene Kahen, who took an active part in arrangements for the recent aeronautical breakfast at the Martin airport, has been selected as chairman for entertainment, Fisher announced. It is planned to have some of the best acts available in the interlude between dances.

The orchestra which will play for the hundreds of noted guests, uniformed military and naval celebrities and hundreds of Orange county citizens, is to be selected by Linn Crawford, and may be chosen by the end of this week. Crawford also was named publicity chairman. The orchestra will have the honor of playing the grand march which may be led by General John J. Pershing, who has been invited to attend the affair and is expected to be the honored guest.

Mrs. Fannie Reeves was named chairman of the committee on decorations and will be assisted by Mrs. R. L. Bisby in developing the color effects which are to be the background for the affair. Massed colors will be featured in the arrangement, it is expected. The Legion auxiliary will co-operate in carrying out the decorative scheme.

As soon as the orchestra is selected Mrs. A. G. Flagg will arrange a suitable program of music and dances for the affair, beginning with the grand march.

Carl F. Burns was selected as chairman of the ticket selling campaign and will select a group of other members of the organization to work with him. A. G. Flagg is to be in charge of all printing for the dance. All committee chairmen will select those who are to work with them.

A large group of patrons and patronesses will be chosen by the executive committee to aid in making the affair a success and in welcoming the honored guests who will be at the dance.

CITY COUNCIL GETS PETITION FROM CITIZENS

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 6.—A petition asking the removal of all oil derricks and the plant of the Orange County Refining company near the western entrance to the city was presented to the city council last night. The petition characterized the refinery and the oil wells and the conditions existing around them as unsightly and requested that they be cleaned up. The papers were signed by owners of more than 500 lots in the West Newport section of the city and held nearly 1000 signatures.

E. A. Russell, of Newport Beach, presenter of the petition to the council and spokesman for the signers, stated in a short talk to the council that the signers of the petition did not wish to do anyone in business any harm. He later stated that if the refinery could be induced to move and would sell its holdings for a fair price the signers of the petition might purchase the property.

The petition voiced the belief that oil used at the refinery is not produced in Newport Beach but is hauled to the plant from Huntington Beach. The main protest against the refinery, according to Russell, is the stench which comes from the plant. The odor is said to be so strong at times that residents of the West Newport section are unable to sleep with the windows of their homes open.

That many persons have refused to build in the section because of the unsightly conditions was the declaration of Russell, in pointing out that present conditions are hindering the development of that district of the city. Russell said that pet cats and dogs had been trapped in the sumps.

The matter was placed in the hands of the city planning commission.

PLANNING BODY IS BACKED BY C. OF C.

SUNSET BEACH, Nov. 6.—Unanimous support of a planning commission for Orange county was given at a meeting of the chamber of commerce here at its last meeting.

The need of such a commission was brought out in a discussion that occupied the greater part of the session. Among the reasons advanced for the forming of such a body was the rapid increase in population in Orange county and the many improvements that are planned for the immediate future.

Two of the improvements contemplated are the widening of the Coast boulevard and the conservation of water and flood control.

The motion to place the organization on record as favoring the forming of the commission was made by Director Earl and was seconded by Director Drake. The secretary was instructed to communicate with the Orange county board of supervisors informing them that the local chamber of commerce favored a master plan for the county.

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 6.—Plans and specifications for the building of two new bridges on Balboa island were approved by the city council last night and the resolution declaring the intention of the city to do the work was passed for its first reading. The two bridges will cost approximately $89,640, according to an estimate submitted by R. L. Patterson, city engineer. A permit was issued for the bridges by the government and the war department some time ago.

One of the new bridges will connect Balboa island with the mainland. The structure will cost approximately $62,680, according to the report. The other bridge will connect a small section of Balboa island known as Channel island to Balboa island proper and will cost $26,960. Protests on the proposed improvements will be heard by the council at its next meeting, November 26.

A communication from the Airport Chamber of Commerce was referred to a committee composed of Harry Williamson and Paul Ellsworth. An appropriation of $300 was made by the city council to the advertising fund of the Orange County Coast association. The appropriation was made at the request of the local chamber of commerce and was made on the condition that other cities along the coast donate a like amount.

A resolution waiving city claims to the section of Central avenue which is to be improved was adopted by the council.

The Golden State Holding company, of Los Angeles, again renewed its request to be permitted to fill in its holdings in the bay, and asked for a hearing before the council. The city clerk was asked to write a letter to the company informing it that the council was unalterably opposed to allowing the fill to be made and informing the company that its representatives could appear at any council session.

W. L. King, of Pasadena, praised the city camp ground in a communication to the council.

Another communication referring to the unsanitary conditions prevailing near the pier where fish is sold was read by the council. The letter was from the state department of public health. Paul Ellsworth and Lloyd Claire, appointed to investigate the matter some time ago, gave a report on conditions and were reappointed to investigate the matter further. A communication from K. I. Fulton regarding parking and traffic conditions in Corona Del Mar was read and filed.

Health Authorities Urge Precaution to Prevent Epidemic

If all colds were checked at the beginning, influenza, pneumonia and grip would be greatly reduced.

It takes quick action to get ahead of the germs of these dread diseases. Many cases of flu start from germs breathed in. The effective way to attack them is direct—with vapors of Vicks VapoRub.

When rubbed on the throat and chest, the ingredients of Vicks are released in the form of vapors which, being breathed in, carry medication to the inflamed air-passages and lungs direct and instantly. In addition, it acts like a poultice and helps the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

While grip and influenza are so prevalent, local people are urged to keep Vicks VapoRub ready at all times for instant use.—Adv.

NEW PRESIDENT OF FULLERTON CLUB ELECTED

FULLERTON, Nov. 6.—Ted Corcoran, young business man of Fullerton, has been elected as president of the Fullerton Kiwanis club for the coming year, it was announced today by Louis E. Plummer, president for the past year. The new president was named by the board of directors of the club. Corcoran will be installed at a future meeting of the club.

The main speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday at McFarland's cafe was Dean Thomas G. Burk of Occidental college. He talked on "Psychology of Business."

The outstanding factor in business success is memory, the speaker declared. Memory should be idealistic, helpful, progressive and clean, he said. Imagination was another factor that was emphasized by Dean Burk. This, he said, should consist of ideas to link up the past with the future and should be a perpetual challenge to the young man or woman to become what they wish to be.

Dean Burk was introduced by Dr. Arthur Coons, executive secretary of Occidental college, and a former instructor in Fullerton union high school. Dr. Coons was introduced by Dean W. T. Boyce of the local junior college, program chairman.

Is the WRINGER really obsolete?

WILL the modern woman continue to slowly feed clothes... piece-by-piece... through an old-fashioned wringer, when the EASY Wringerless Washer will whirl the water from a whole tubful of clothes in less than two minutes?

Just watch a woman as she slowly feeds clothes through the ordinary wringer . . . wringing out piece-by-piece, first, the soapy water . . . then the rinse water . . . and finally the blue water. A total of 300 or more laborious hand operations for the average family washing!

Then watch the modern woman as she quickly transfers her clothes, altogether, from the washing tub to the drying compartment of the EASY Damp-Dryer. A flip of a lever and, in less than two minutes, the soapy water is whirled from the entire tubful. In the same way she handles the rinsing and bluing operations.

No more torn clothes

No more buttons off

And how the EASY Wringerless Washer does save clothes! No more torn clothes. No more buttons off. No strain on fabrics; no cracking of silk or rayon garments; no stretching nor distorting of blankets and woolens.

Removes more water, too, and drying in the sun is quicker. Evenly damp and free from deep, hard creases, the clothes are easier to iron. Feather pillows, blankets and bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer are easily handled.

Washes like human hands

Famous for its gentle washing action, the EASY Vacuum Cup Principle has never been equaled.

Up and down and around . . . sixty-six times a minute . . . its three vacuum cups move. Like human hands, they cleanse away every particle of dirt and grime.

Speedy, because it does two things at one time. Eight full-size sheets, or their equal, are washed in the wash tub, while eight other sheets are quickly dried in the drying tub. Clothes are on the line earlier. You are less tired.

No more buttons off

There are still EASY Washers with wringers . . . good, efficient machines equipped with every known safety device. But no wringer-equipped machine, not even our own, can compare with the EASY Model R, with automatic Damp-Dryer.

Week's washing done free

Simply call us. We will bring the new EASY to your home and show you a miracle in washing clothes. You can own an EASY on easy terms, with low monthly payments.

HE HAD TOOTHACHE, BUT HE ARGUED OVER WHAT DENTIST WANTED FOR 'PULLING JOB'

If there is any time when a man will not fuss about price, its when he has an old molar rocking inside his gums and feeling like the nerve in it is as big as a Russian revolution—and yet there actually are persons, who, when a tooth starts aching, go from one dental office to another, shopping for prices.

"Say Doc, I gotta terribul toothache. How much is it going to cost me to have the tooth yanked out?" asked one would-be patient as he walked into a dental emporium here yesterday.

"From $2 to $3, depends on the tooth," the "doc" answered.

"Nothing doing. I read in the papers where I could get—ouch, this thing hurts—it yanked out for $1. Guess I am in the wrong office."

"There are scores of persons who shop for their dental work," stated the dentist. "Every day we have persons come into the office in pain and walk out, still in pain, because they do not feel they can pay the price. At the same time many teeth are extracted free of charge, because I size up the patient and understand that payment would work a hardship on him.

"These people we are only too glad to help, but at the same time we have our eyes open to the professional shopper."

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last chapter of "The Presidential Parade" series, reviewing politics of other days.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The presidential year 1924 is famous in political history for the bitter battle of Madison Square Garden, the unprecedented third party protest vote polled by La Follette and the overwhelming endorsement by the people of Calvin Coolidge and prosperity.

It was remarkable for the fact that the voters, provided with evidence of the most wicked administrative scandals in recent years, saw no use in punishing the Republican party for the corrupt acts of a few of its discredited leaders.

If President Harding had been renominated he doubtless would have been defeated, for it was Harding's most intimate friends who betrayed his trust and the country's. It is supposed that Harding, shortly before he died, realized the perfidy of his friends.

Coolidge Untainted

Calvin Coolidge, however, bore no taint. While the oil, Justice, alien property, veterans' bureau and the other scandals presumably would have beaten any president who tried to run on such a record, the Democrats failed utterly to make political capital of them against Coolidge.

Even more importantly, while hard times and great unemployment had marked the early part of the Harding-Coolidge administration, the country was riding on a high tide of prosperity late in 1923.

Coolidge was easily and enthusiastically renominated. Senator Hiram Johnson had entered the field, but Coolidge swamped him in the primaries; even in California. The Cleveland convention was peaceful.

The senatorial Old Guard finally picked Charles G. Dawes to run with Coolidge, after Frank O. Lowden had been nominated and refused to accept.

Democrats Bitter

William Gibbs McAdoo, a strong progressive with a strong record as secretary of the treasury and director of railroads during the war, had long before started after the nomination. Unpopular with the New York politicians, he had moved to Los Angeles so that he might have a home state delegation behind him. His strength was great in the dry south and west. The Klan made him its candidate.

In the east Gov. Al Smith of New York was being groomed to stop McAdoo. He had run a million votes ahead of the national ticket in 1920, had been overwhelmingly elected in 1922 and had made a spendid record as governor.

Suddenly McAdoo's campaign for pure politics and against the corrupt interests was robbed of much of its steam. E. L. Doheny testified before the Walsh investigating committee that he had hired McAdoo for a yearly $50,000 retainer for five years after he left the Wilson cabinet.

The Democrats could hardly nominate Doheny's high-priced lawyer in a campaign with administrative corruption as the big issue, even though McAdoo had not been connected with any dishonest transaction. The Doheny retainer really killed him, though his followers doggedly stuck by him and he cleaned up in the southern and western primaries, charging Wall street plots.

The galleries were packed to holler "Oil! Oil! Oil!" at McAdoo whenever given the word and to provide an hour's claque demonstration for Smith, but the climax came and the cops were called when a resolution was introduced denouncing the Ku Klux Klan by name.

Beaten by One Vote

Again Bryan took the platform before a howling, cursing mob of eastern politicians. He opposed the resolution and again he told them that the issue was not religion but Wall street and the trusts vs. the people. The convention was in no mood to heed him. The resolution was voted upon and beaten by a single vote, 542 to 541.

The cleavage made, the east was more than ever determined to beat McAdoo. The first ballot gave him 431½ to Smith's 241, with 17 favorite sons in the field. Bogged in religious hatred, the convention staggered on for 16 days, breaking all records in a terrific heat. The vote for a choice was 732. Neither McAdoo nor Smith ever had a majority.

There were 103 ballots cast and McAdoo led by 93. On the 30th McAdoo was down to 415 and Smith up to 323.

Smith offered to withdraw if McAdoo would. He wouldn't. McAdoo told Senator Underwood of Alabama that he would make him the nominee if he could get two southern states beside his own. Underwood asked for 24 hours to get them and failed.

Reaching their peak of 530, the McAdoo men were frantic for a majority. They went after the 24 Virginia delegates, who were voting for Senator Carter Glass and could have given McAdoo more than the majority, but Governor Byrd of that state held it tight—Glass might yet be the compromise.

About the 80th ballot the candidates agreed to release all delegates from their instructions and see what happened. McAdoo suffered. Still leading but dropping on the 86th, he was passed by Smith on the 87th—368 to 333½, only to regain the lead on the 94th and hold it for six ballots. Smith passed him again on the 100th and as California, Tennessee and Washington finally left him, McAdoo withdrew. The two-thirds rule had defeated him.

Swings to Davis

The convention swung to John W. Davis, an estimable gentleman removed from party squabbles, with no blemishes and yet no popular appeal. He won on the 103rd ballot.

Leaders then offered the vice presidential nomination to Walsh, Meredith, Newton D. Baker and others to conciliate the McAdoo faction. When those men refused, they nominated Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska.

Disgusted at the two "Wall Street" candidates, progressives met at Cleveland in national convention to nominate Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, a Republican and a Democrat. The platform demanded numerous progressive reforms, proposing a congressional check on the supreme court.

Davis, excellent presidential timber, was a poor man on the stump. Presumably he would have had more votes if the conservatives hadn't instilled a widespread fear of La Follette. He was enormously handicapped by the sorry Madison Square Garden spectacle.

Prosperity was the dominant issue and the great majority, led by business, wanted no change.

La Follette polled nearly 5,000,000 votes, five times as many as any other protest party had received before. Davis had the solid south, with Oklahoma and Tennessee; La Follette only Wisconsin.

The vote, popular and electoral:

Coolidge	15,725,000	382
Davis	8,386,000	136
La Follette	4,823,000	13

If the old progressivism of the Roosevelt, Bryan and Wilson days figured at all, it took bad lickings both in June and November.

SPORTS through Edgren's EYES

By Robert Edgren

Joe Dundee, somewhat synthetically welterweight champion of the world, fights Young Jack Thompson of San Francisco in Mr. Rickard's garden November 16. Should Jack Thompson knock out Dundee again as easily and quickly as he did in Chicago, or for that matter should he knock Dundee out at all or even take a 15 round decision, Thompson will become a somewhat synthetic world's welter champion.

The Dundee-Thompson affair is a bit scrambled. Dundee has been pottering around safely for a couple of years by dodging dangerous matches or making his opponents sign a cast iron agreement to fatten up and come in overweight so that "the title won't be at stake."

The fattening process works two ways. It slows a man up. Usually this operates to Mr. Dundee's entire satisfaction, as he had at least avoided being laid on his shoulder blades. It didn't work with Thompson in Chicago. The lusky welterweight fattened up according to agreement and weighed in a pound over the limit in the afternoon, but dropped to his normal weight of about 143 pounds an dregained his normal activity in time to knock Joe out in two rounds.

Many people regarded Thompson as the champion after that fight, because he is a real welterweight when not compelled to fatten up and he was a real welterweight in the ring, a few hours after the "official" afternoon weighing. The public knows the only true test is ringside weight.

But a couple of weeks or so later Mr. Thompson disregarded all the usual practices of those who find themselves suddenly "up in the money," and kept his agreement to meet Jackie Fields in a 10 round San Francisco bout. And although Thompson is a corking fighter against a slower man like Dundee. He was badly beaten and barely able to stall through without being knocked out by Fields, who is the fastest and most aggressive welter of the season.

Gig Rooney, Fields' manager, is going around claiming the welter title for Fields. And there is enough justice in his claim to at least force the winner of the Dundee-Thompson mill to meet Fields. This works in well with Tex Rickard's regular campaign. Tex is a wonder in the art of making two gates grow in place of one. He never puts on the real event until he has cleaned up with the preliminary matches leading to it. At that the Thompson-Dundee fight will probably be worth the money.

Warner, Here, Tells Why Cards Lost

FAMOUS COACH SAYS TROJANS WERE PERFECT

Stanford, defeated by U. S. C. in Los Angeles Saturday, 10 to 0, is the best team developed at Palo Alto by Coach "Pop" Warner. Such was the verdict of the famous Stanford football magician himself as expressed here and at San Clemente where Warner has been visiting since the big Coliseum contest.

"Only one Stanford team that I have coached, the 1925 eleven, approaches the versatility of the present varsity," Warner declared. "The 1925 team beat U. S. C. but the 1928 squad didn't because it erred on several occasions while its opponent played perfect football, a full game without a single mistake.

The Perfect Eleven

"U. S. C. on Saturday was the perfect eleven, or as perfect as football teams can be made. In fact, it was the most perfect game of football from a Trojan viewpoint that I have ever seen played. There were no mistakes. The team was well coached and was efficient in all departments. The work of Don Williams at quarter was above reproach. Linesmen were working in unison, Hibbs punted like a veteran and the pass attack and offense were all that could be asked of such modes of the game."

Pop Warner

Warner was loud in his praise of the sportsmanship of the Trojans and lauded the coaching ability of Howard Jones, whom he said had perfected a strong second half defense for Stanford's running attack.

"The battle at Los Angeles," continued Warner, "did not reveal any weakness in my new offense. Formation B as it's known. Many of the sport writers wonder why I shifted to this style of attack. Having big, strong men to work with I was forced to develop a formation that could use them to the best of their ability. There is nothing radical to the formation, either in construction or execution, and it is simply one of a number of good offensive formations."

Will Make No Changes

"Pop" declared that he will make no changes in his lineup or formation. Outside of the fumbles and one or two errors in judgment he was satisfied with the playing of his men, he said.

"One thing the Trojan game revealed," he mused. "It showed that when two teams evenly matched take the field errors of judgment, fumbles and a few costly mistakes can easily swing victory to one side or the other. The Jones eleven played perfect football, Stanford made mistakes so victory went to U. S. C. All year we have had but few fumbles. On Saturday fumbles came in bunches and we lost. That's how it goes."

The veteran mentor had little to say of the California or Army games coming up.

COMPTON J. C. HAS BIG, FAST SET OF BACKS

Santa Ana junior college, twice tied but still tied for the first spot in the Southern California Junior College conference football race, will find out next Monday, Armistice Day, whether it has a team of championship caliber.

Coach Bill Cook's formidable Dons, just beginning to hit the stride which it has been thought they should hit, play Compton junior college at Poly field here on the holiday date and if Santa Ana gets by the Tartars it will see a pennant floating in the distance.

Compton has the best backfield in the conference, a veteran line from tackle to tackle, and an imposing array of reserve material. Herb White, 230-pound fullback, has knocked the stuffing out of every line he has bucked this year and the Don forward wall will have to be in top condition to slow him down. Vic Williams, Southern California's premier quarter-miler during the track season, plays one of the halfback berths. The other halfback job is attended to by "Goldy" Holmes, who was a crack sprinter himself while attending high school at Compton and who was an All-Conference back in 1927.

White, Williams and Howard give Compton a world of power and speed and their attack is deceptive and dangerous. Coach Cook has a real task in front of him preparing his charges for this next heat.

Compton lost a tough one to Fullerton early in the conference race, White fumbling on the goal line and Jewett, former Covina back who is quarterback for Fullerton, picked up the ball and raced 102 yards for a touchdown. The following Saturday the Tartars were held to a scoreless tie by Pasadena. Last week, however, Compton got going and beat by a large score Long Beach, which Santa Ana defeated, 6 to 0.

In practice yesterday Cook put "Venus" Harvey, who has been holding down the fullback berth during Bill Dugger's absence, back at his old position of guard on the line and in all probability will have Harvey there to stave off the Compton charges. Harvey, a bulky man, is good wherever he is put and has turned in some mighty fine performances both at fullback and guard. With Dugger back in the lineup, backing up the forward wall, it is expected that the Compton eleven will have difficulty penetrating very deep into Don territory on off-tackle plays or center smashes.

Ace Marks, knockout conqueror of Jesse Ayala, completed training today for the match which is his last obstacle before a much-sought match at the Orange County Amateur Athletic club with Zenaydo Chavez, sensational Santa Ana welterweight.

Marks, a colored boy from Long Beach with a world of boxing skill and a stiff punch in right or left hand, will battle Leo Hernandez in the "main" at Henry T. Foust's fancy place of business tomorrow evening. If Marks wins, he gets Chavez, according to a definite statement by Major Anderson, business director of the O.C.A.C. If he doesn't, he'll have to start all over again.

Hernandez is rated as a pretty tough sort of a hurdle, not a pushover by any means. The lanky welterweight votes at San Gabriel and he has knocked over all the opposition in that region as well as in other sections and he did all that could be asked of him here last week when he lulled the black Earl Long into unconsciousness in 30 seconds. Leo is a hard hitter, probably more dangerous with a right hand than Marks, but he probably lacks the all-around timing of blows and footwork of the flashy darky.

Two changes in the Wednesday card were announced today by Manager Anderson. The semi-windup between the popular Jack Gilbert, Western Amateur Athletic association champion at 125 pounds, and Richie Thomas, Hawthorne, stands. They fought a darby of a bout here recently and their rematch is by demand.

Unable to satisfy the management that he was in proper condition to make a proper showing, "Red" Blankmeyer, Anaheim light heavyweight, has been scratched from the card and that throws off also his proposed opponent, colored Louis Wilson.

In place of the Blankmeyer-Wilson shot, the O.C.A.C. signed Tony Morino, Placentia's gifted publistic prospect, and Morrie Nathan, a little Los Angeles workman who has always looked capable in previous appearances here.

Archie Mitchell, Garden Grove, also has been replaced by Max Hernandez, who will take Mitchell's bout with Romeo Lemon, the aggressive Fullerton high school Spaniard who will hake his first appearance at the Foust arena this week. Lemon's previous local starts were made at the Delhi "Barn."

TROJANS MEET ARIZONA TEAM NEXT SATURDAY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Football season at the University of Southern California, which came to a mid-season climax Saturday in the Trojan-Stanford game, will let down this week and start building for the 1928 gridiron grand finale, the Southern California-Notre Dame contest to be played at the Los Angeles Coliseum December 1. Building up for the new climax will start this coming Saturday, November 10, when the men of Troy will meet the University of Arizona Wildcats in the local Coliseum.

Four more games remain on the Trojan schedule, these being Arizona, November 10; Washington State, November 17; Idaho, November 24, and Notre Dame, December 1. All of these games will be played at home and at least one of them, the battle with the Irish, will be a sell-out.

Coach Howard Jones worked his regular so hard and speedily last week in an attempt to get them ready for the powerful Stanford machine that it is expected that he will let them coast along most of this week. The Arizona game Saturday is expected to be no push-over, but Jones will not risk causing his best men to go stale by trying to keep them on edge for the coming game. Although he has not yet announced his plans, it is considered likely that he will use numerous second string men against the Wildcats.

If Jones does use reserves for the most part in the Arizona game, the contest is expected to have more interest than it would have otherwise as the Arizonans may then have the edge and make the going tough for the local boys. The Wildcats have a great line plunger in Chief Stofft and a splendid open field runner in Captain "Silverheels" Diebold. On the fast Coliseum turf these boys may prove plenty of worry to the Southern Californians.

CHARITY SHOW BOUT CARD AT 'BARN' TONIGHT

They go to the polls at Boyd Ellis' Delhi "Barn" again tonight. This time for the benefit of the Orange county children's health camp, a second charity boxing show will be conducted by Orange post No. 132, American Legion, to whom Ellis has turned over temporary possession of his arena.

Jimmie Rivers, who has not lost a bout at his favorite fistic retreat for many months, again headlines the program. He goes against Young Dempsey, the ace of the Main Street Athletic club's amateur stable in Los Angeles. They weigh 142 pounds or thereabouts.

In the first main event, Howard Johnston, undefeated locally in half a dozen starts, boxes Battling Rice, another Angeleno, at 158 pounds. Johnston is a real drawing card and should be ready for a top spot if he gets by Rice.

The rest of the card follows:

Mike Canneles vs. Young Franco 125 pounds.

Lavie Gatton vs Dannie Stewart 142 pounds.

Joe Garcia vs. Leo Dominguez 118 pounds.

Harry West vs. Kid Jalisco 112 pounds.

Mrs. Jones Leads L. A. Golf Tourney

FIGHT RESULTS

Chan, Fish And Game Man, Is Transferred

After two years of faithful and tireless effort in the Orange county district, E. A. Chan, deputy state fish and game commissioner, has been transferred to Long Beach where he will have headquarters at 1773 Orange avenue and from where he will have charge solely of ocean pollution investigations for the state.

While located at 615 North Bristol street in Santa Ana, Chan's duties necessitated that he work on game patrol as well as pollution cases and he was highly complimented on numerous occasions by his Sacramento superiors. Chan has been here two years.

CHAVEZ STAND IN RIVERS GO ROW EXPLAINED

BY RINGSIDER

"Please get us straight on this. Jimmie Rivers can have a match with Zenaydo any time he qualifies a san amateur and all that he has to do to be a legitimate amateur is to register with the Western Amateur Athletic association and box at houses officially recognized by that far-reaching organization."

This was the answer today of Major Anderson, business manager of the Orange County Amateur Athletic club, to the published desire by Boyd Ellis, matchmaker for Rivers, "for a four-round contest between Rivers and Charvez anywhere and at any place in Southern California except the O. C. A. C."

"We shall not enter into a controversy with anyone over this proposition," Anderson said. "This shall be our final word in the matter. Our stand is the same as it has always been.

"We are licensed by the Western A. A. A. as is every other amateur arena in Southern California except Mr. Ellis' arena. We use on our programs only boys who carry licenses of that body. Those who appear on cards at other arenas are not eligible to box in any of the some 20 houses under the Southern California district's jurisdiction. Rivers is a good boxer. We should like to have him with the Western A. A. A. But he is not at the present time and he will not be allowed to meet Chavez or any other Western A. A. A. boxer, of whom there are more than 400, until he qualifies with that organization."

Rivers, a Fullerton lad, and Chavez, a Santa Anan, are natural rivals and efforts have been made for weeks to have them matched. Rivers is a weekly main eventer at the Delhi "Barn" while Chavez often appears on the cards at the Orange County A. C. Both have a big local following.

DISILLUSIONED CARD SQUAD BACK HOME

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 6.—The disillusioned Cardinals, still smarting because of their defeat by Southern California, today began practicing for the Santa Clara game here Saturday. The Santa Clarans trimmed the Cards last year.

NO CHANCE THIS YEAR

For the first time since Harry Kipke made the All-American team in 1921, Michigan hasn't a player this year who is likely to receive that coveted football honor.

CRITICAL WEEK IS REACHED IN PREP FOOTBALL

Now that "bye" week has passed on in the Coast Preparatory League football circles, interest centers around the eight teams in four games slated to take place Saturday or Monday afternoon.

Glendale and Santa Ana will clash at Glendale next Monday. After losing to Long Beach by two breaks which the alert Jackrabbit crew gobbled up and turned into touchdowns, the Glendale Dynamiters may prove the undoing of the Saint eleven. Santa Ana has a scoreless tie with Long Beach as the only blot on its record, except a 14 to 12 defeat by Covina in a non-conference contest last week.

Alhambra will battle Pasadena in the headline attraction. The Moors and Bulldogs are deadlocked at the to pof the Coast league parade with a perfect record. Each team has annexed three games in three starts. The game probably will decide the championship of the league unless a series of upsets breaks forth during the remainder of the ssason.

This game, to take place on Horrell field in Pasadena, will find the Moors against stiff opposition, bu the fast-traveling Riff squad is favored.

The Moors, tutored by Coach George Hobbs, have by far the most impressive record in the Coast Conference. Like Compton of the Bay league they have run amuck in every league start this season and Alhambra should walk off the field Saturday afternoon on the long end of the count. The three victims of the Moors are San Diego, Long Beach and Whittier. Four touchdowns in every league game so far this season is insurance enough to install Alhambra a prime favorite to take Coach John Thurman's Bulldogs into camp and continue on to a Coast prep title.

Cellar division honors will be at stake in a game to be played at Whittier when Coach "Mike" Morrow escorts his San Diego Hilltoppers to the Poet institution. San Diego may pull a surprise and thrash Coach Madden's Poets as eac hgame that the San Diego eleven plays is an improvement over previous battles.

Coach Sprong will take his Long Beach Jackrabbits to the lair of the South Pasadena Tigers Saturday afternoon in what promises to be a close argument. The Tigers have dropped all three of their league starts and are due to take on a new lease of life with the Long Beach game in the offing. After the loss of three games Coach Merle Green is conducting a shakeup which may strengthen the team for the Jackrabbit-Tiger tiff.

Emanuel Invades East In January

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Armand Emanuel, Pacific Coast heavyweight, will go to New York in January in quest of an opportunity to meet the leading heavyweight contenders for the championship vacated by Gene Tunney, he said here today.

THREE IN THIS RACE

All-America fullback honors for this year, according to most critics, will go to either Toffman of Stanford, Nagurski of Minnesota, or McLain of Iowa, with Hoffman having the choice.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 6.—Colonel Ed Fletcher may think in terms of millions for himself, but he thinks first of his sons' health when it comes to family matters.

As a result, all of his sons except the youngest are six feet tall or taller and all are proficient athletes. The youngest, Eugene, who is 14, already stands five feet, 10 inches in his socks and bids fair to beat his daddy at altitude.

The colonel, who has owned or controlled more real estate and water systems in this county than any other two persons, began early to plan his boys' physical career. He started early as a football player and breast stroke swimmer. Apparenfly the breast stroke idea "caught," for all the boys have demonstrated their proficiency in this sport.

Ed jr., now 28, won several medals in California for swimming before graduating from the University of California. Charles, 26, won and held for a year the national breast stroke title for 220 yards while a student at Stanford. Lawrence, 24, former member of the Stanford swimming team, won medals for the breast stroke and added basketball as a minor accomplishment. Willis went north to the University of Oregon, and now, at 21, has won his colors for breast stroke swimming at that institution. Steve, 19, enters college this year. What is his record? For two years straight he has won the Pacific Coast 220-yard breast stroke championship. He entered the University of Oregon. Even Ferdinand, 17, and Eugene, 14, have their quota of medals for breast stroke swimming in high school and grade school.

There's no secret formula for this family's phenomenal record. They're athletically inclined at the outset and the colonel has encouraged all of his boys to take plenty of rigorous exercise. Sickness here is not known.

The championship in swimming they hold number into the dozens. Charles possibly has won more fame than any of the others as a member of the star Stanford university swimming and water polo teams of 1923-24.

The younger ones are coming along, however, and Colonel Fletcher promises to give the world a few more broken records during the next few years.

FAST ON THE BASES

Wally Shaner, rookie outfielder bought by the Reds this year, showed plenty of speed on the bases in the Southern league this year. He pilfered 27 bases.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

By Henry L. Farrell

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Although Michigan is a bust in football this year, its wrestlers are the favorites to win the conference wrestling championship . . . The old stage coach at West Point has been condemned . . . And the victorious football players have to take their ride of triumph up the hill in a motor bus . . . Johnny Risko has raised his rate to 25 grand per show . . . Al Schacht and Nick will stay with Walter Johnson in Washington . . . Although "Bucky" Harris wanted to take Al to Detroit with him . . . Hornsby will get a swell bonus to help moving expenses to Chicago . . . "Bud" Sprague, the Army captain, tried to find out who busted his nose with the first punch in the Harvard game.

ON WITH THE ARGUMENT

It has been demonstrated again this season that players make a football coach. And it has been demonstrated also that a coach makes his players. So the argument stands as it always will stand.

There have been some pretty good examples this year, however, to support the contention that the greatest coaching skill cannot function without some good material.

Pop Yost took one good look at the squad which reported the first day at Michigan and decided he was not coaching the team. Tad Weiman, he decided, was to be the coach of that bunch.

Knute Rockne knew last spring that there weren't going to be any horsemen or horses at Notre Dame this fall and he interviewed himself plenty to that effect. He admitted modestly that he couldn't do anything with the boys.

RIGHT ON THE CHIN

Grand Old Man Stagg must have known that there was only a slight chance for Chicago to win a game, but there was no out for the grand old man. He said nothing and went into training to take it.

Michigan, Notre Dame and Chicago had no material to work with, it is apparent, but Harvard and Navy had much better material than the early season scores indicated and the old grads whimpered.

Lou Little at Georgetown and Chick Meehan at New York university continue to produce winning teams without any abundance of spectacular talent and Bill Roper somehow manages to win some games season after season at Princeton.

MOVE OVER, YOU WOWS!

"Red" Cagle, some able critics believe, is as great a football player as Jim Thorpe, Eddie Mahan and George Gipp and a better player than "Red" Grange.

He has shown that he can carry the ball in the open field with as much skill as the other red head and in addition he can charge, kick, pass, block and tackle as well as the immortals with whom he is being mentioned.

There is no doubt that Cagle gets help past the line of scrimmage and well through the secondary by magnificent interference, but the Illinois "77"

WALSH THINKS PAOLINO, OTTO BOTH TERRIBLE

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Among those present at Madison Square Garden last night, for no reason at all, were 14,356 persons who won't be heavyweight champions of the world. At that they didn't differ very radically from a couple of chumps they were looking at, except in one detail. The chumps didn't pay their way in. One of life's minor absurdities is that they didn't have to pay their way out, either.

As a matter of fact, everything was taken in good part as Paolino Uzcudun, the well-known human being, just managed to stap in front of Otto Von Porat at the bell, ending the tenth and final round, for the chumps had put on a good show, even if it was strictly five-a-day stuff heavyweight champions in prospect—not even in sarcasm.

Paolino never will be champion because a champion must fight and this guy can't. As for Otto, he can't fight because he won't. He simply was afraid to let a punch go until Paolino was in there with one eye and then it was the eighth round and too late for anything practical to be done about it.

He Hit Floor Nicely

They said before the fight that Otto was the hardest hitter in the world and maybe that is so. Personally, I want to know about the way he hit the floor for the second of two knockdowns scored by Paulino during the fifth. I have seen a lot of weak hitters sock the floor much harder than that.

Otto undoubtedly has come a long way since that night in the same ring several years ago when he decided to tender his resignation in the eighth or ninth round because that awful rough fellow, Martin Burke, was dusting him on the porcelain with his brutal finkertips. But that's one thing about Otto. He could come a very long way and still be approximately nowhere.

The meek may possess the earth, but never the heavyweight championship.

The conspicuous commentary of Paolino's ability is that, even though he scored a knockdown in the first few minutes of play and obviously had his man thoroughly impressed, he needed the bell in the last round to make him the winner. Another round, maybe another punch, might have changed everything, except the writer's mind. Chumps, they were, and chumps, they remained.

Otto let the Basque maul him vigorously for a minute or so of the first round and then made the first of two mistakes. I think the other was that he ever went in there in the first place. Anyhow, he slipped a long left swing and then remained with his chin teed up, instead of countering or covering.

"Ooz" Lets One Go

Paulino, just a swinger, let a right go from the shift he found himself in and the punch propped up Otto's delicate chin for a left hook. Upon which, he forsook the perpendicular for a count of eight.

Then he got up and up and rode rapidly away on his kiddie kar. He was still sight-seeing at the end of the round. Some prefer walking tours in Europe, accompanied by popular novelists.

Anyway, Otto visited everywhere for the next two rounds before he discovered that this strange looking specimen in front of him, and maybe I mean behind, had nothing but a grimace. He ventured to let go a right hand near the close of the third round. Two more followed and neither was of great benefit to the recipient. Whereupon, Otto's heart expanded to its maximum limit of an inch and a half and he won the fourth round away off by himself.

He also was doing well in the fifth, having stung the human being with a left hook, when he nearly blocked a left with his countenance, accepted another in the same place and then took careful aim at the floor. His accuracy was beyond reproach.

Sight-seeing, in consequence was Otto's program for the next three rounds. He was just about to climb forward to the driver's seat with the megaphone man when in the eighth a hard right hand closed Uzcuzzdun's eye.

Thereafter he couldn't go wrong and didn't. He won the last two rounds without a contest. Maybe some day this will turn out to be not quite so terribly unimportant as it seemed last night.

FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(INS)—Fordham and West Virginia, two young elevens which have been travelling at top speed after receiving a disastrous but valuable baptism of fire early in the season, clash at Yankee stadium today in the leading gridiron engagement of the day. West Virginia is a slight favorite, owing to its impressive victories over the strong Pittsburgh and Lafayette teams.

Fordham has defeated Holy Cross and Washington and Jefferson, but lost to New York university. The attack of the Maroons is based on the sensational forward passing of Quarterback Larry Dallaire, who has averaged three successful passes out of every five attempts this season. This is the first meeting between the two teams.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Despite the fact that Army is favored to defeat Notre Dame decisively in New York next Saturday, Coach Jones is not taking the Hoosiers lightly. The Soldiers, all of whom are in perfect condition, will get plenty of hard work this week in preparation for the classic. Only a light kicking and passing drill was held yesterday.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 6.—Harvard's football warriors are practicing several new running and passing plays for use in the Penn game Saturday. Arnold Horween, head coach, saw the Penn-Chicago game and has explained to his men just what kind of an offensive they can expect.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Leon Westgate, Penn varsity center, has recovered from a finger injury and will start against Harvard, but Gene Kuen has supplanted Ralph Monk, injured guard.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 6.—While Navy rooters are cheerful because of the team's excellent showing in its last two games, the coaches realize that the Midshipmen will have a tough customer on their hands next Saturday in Michigan. Two Navy scouts saw the Wolverines trim Illinois and were greatly impressed by their showing.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—Georgetown, which defeated one unbeaten team last Saturday when it vanquished New York university, is working hard this week to defeat another unbeaten eleven, Carnegie Tech. All the Hilltoppers are in good shape.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 6.—The tables have been turned on the Gopher "Bone Crushers." Practically the whole team is suffering from major or minor injuries. Coach Spears was forced to abandon practice yesterday.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 6.—Michigan's reborn football team is drilling with zest for the Navy game Saturday. Coach Tad Wieman, taking advantage of the new spirit since the Wolverines defeated Illinois, is trying to build up the passing attack for which Michigan teams have heretofore been famous.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 6.—Despite the fact that Chicago has lost every important game this year while Wisconsin remains undefeated, the Badgers are taking no chances on an "upset" when they meet the luckless Maroons here Saturday, the Badgers are training hard.

CALLAHAN KNOCKOUT IS ALMOST FATAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Billy Showers, St. Paul middleweight, who was carried from the ring unconscious last night after being knocked out by "Shuffle" Callahan, was reported resting comfortably at a hospital here today. Showers' improved condition fostered the hope of friends that no serious consequences would result from the terrible beating he received.

Callahan, a Chicago boxer, was taken in custody by police following the bout and held pending the outcome of Showers' injuries.

The bout, scheduled for 10 rounds, ended dramatically in the sixth when Showers slumped from his chair to the floor in a coma after his seconds had thrown a towel, signalizing defeat. In that round the St. Paul fighter had been floored for three nine-counts.

Thompson is a wicked puncher and he may put it over on Joe again.

Ad Wolgast, recently in a sanitarium, has recovered and is out again, and working on a farm.

Jimmy Coffroth, racing magnate at Tijuana and Tanforan, likes to talk about the days when he promoted championship boxing. Jim says the best fight of his time was between Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast at Point Richmond in 1910. Wolgast was nearly out in the twenty-third, but recovered and had Nelson helpless in the forty-second, when Referee Eddie Smith gave Wolgast the decision on a technical K. O.

"Nelson was so far gone I was afraid that if he did go down he would never get up again," Smith sai dafter the fight. The Dane was a physical marvel in the matter of assimilating blows and there seemed no limit to his endurance, until that Wolgast bout. It's possible the strain of that long struggle wrecked both men. Nelson was afterward knocked out by Owen Moran, and Wolgast was twice hammered up by little knockout Brown and then lost the title to Willie Ritchie.

Coffroth recalls that he paid elson the big purse of $12,500 to fight Wolgast, and that although Nelson was a little shy of a Wolgast match "he couldn't resist grabbing all that dough." This sounds funny in a day when champions of half Bat Nelson's reputation and ability think their services are worth at least four or five times as much, an dthen insist that their opponents must come in overweight so there will be no title "risked."

A funny thing in Western football developed recently when U. S. C., two to one favorite, played a 0-0 game with California. Next day appeared a vociferous alibi. U. S. C. claimed that California had sprinkled the gridiron too liberally the night before, so that the fast U. S. C. backs would slip too much in the mud to play their usual game. This sounds funny in the east, where any college football team expects to play in rain and mud, and perhaps slush an ice, sometime during a season. A team that must have a hard dry field to play on wouldn't do much scoring through a season east of the Rockies.

The film, "Football Common Sense," directed by "Chick" Meemam, famous football coach, revealed the play, now illegal, that enabled Georgia Tech to win from the University of Georgia last year. The play, which is very complicated, was made clear by the use of slow-motion photography.

Another feature of the picture was the showing of the work of each linesman. As each play was shown, the particular player was dressed in white. The use of slow-motion was also helpful in making these plays clear.

CLASS HONORS EVEN IN AQUATIC TURNOUT

Class honors are just about even as far as representation is concerned in the girls' swimming turnout at Santa Ana high school. In fact, the seniors have only one more team member than the other two groups, which are tied.

Out of the 25 mermaids competing, nine are seniors, and the juniors and sophomores have eight apiece. This looks good for the "Lady Saints," especially for the next season of tank competition. Interclass rivalry is very strong at present and many matches are being scheduled.

Fernandez Scraps Mancillas Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Joe Mancillas, undefeated Mexican featherweight, will make his debut as a head-liner here tonight when he clashes with Ignacio Fernandez, the Filipino, in a 10-round bout.

GREAT ON DEFENSE, TOO

Tad Jones says that Cagle has football sense to an amazing degree and that on the defense he is uncanny in placing himself in the path of a play or a pass. West Point records show that he has knocked down and intercepted more passes than all the other Army players combined.

Cagle can throw a ball with such precision that an observer remarked about the Harvard game that if each man at whom he had tossed a pass had stood at attention the ball would have hit him between the eyes. That's shooting.

From the evidence and testimony then it would seem that Cadet Cagle is really very good.

IT DID BUST UP

Years ago in the infant days of the Walker boxing law, the New York Boxing commission was asked to join the National Boxing association. Joseph Johnson was then chairman of the New York commission, and he declined.

"Those things always end up with an inside political fight," he said.

The national association seems to have ended just that way.

Before the recent annual meeting of the association, which caused the internal dissensions, one of the officers asked a prominent sports writer for some suggestions to place before the meeting.

"Bust it up and all of you mind your own business," the writer suggested.

		TOTAL ELECTORAL VOTE—531								382	136

Here is a radio score card for your use as election returns come to you over the radio. It tabulates the states, their full electoral count, and leaves blanks for the Hoover and Smith votes.

As a state seems certain for either candidate, its apportionment of electoral votes may be inserted into his column, and so the national trend may be discerned.

In order to make this more interesting and instructive, the electoral votes for the candidates in 1924 are given alongside, so that comparisons can easily be made.

GREAT RADIO HOOKUP ENABLES FANS TO REMAIN AT HOME AND LISTEN TO ELECTION RETURNS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The nation will be able to remain at home tonight and listen to the greatest coverage of an election ever attempted by air.

From 4 p. m., coast time—when the first returns are available in the east—until the presidential election is determined, the National Broadcasting company will report to the remotest regions of the United States the progress of the voting.

A coast-to-coast network has been established for this major reporting effort, with KFI the official broadcasting station in Southern California. Several other stations, however, will broadcast returns.

From returns received from the United Press, Associated Press and International News, a large editorial staff, assembled by the NBC under the direction of David Lawrence, noted political writer, will edit the election news into a form easily understandable over the air. Figures will be kept to a minimum, according to NBC officials, the accurate interpretation of returns being the chief consideration of the radio news staff.

The New York studios of the NBC will be transformed into a huge "news room" for tonight. In addition to the editorial staff, a corps of tabulators with adding machines and huge ruled-off sheets will keep close check on the progress of the voting. Four leased wires of the United Press have been installed in the rooms where ordinarily prima donnas and violin virtuosos hold forth.

The United Press was the first American press association to permit its returns to be broadcast. In 1924, WEAF and a small network of stations in the east and midwest broadcast United Press returns of the Coolidge-Davis campaign.

The list of stations broadcasting the NBC election program tonight includes, in the far west, KOA, KPO, KGO, KFI, KGW, KOMO, KHO, KSL.

British Scribes To Be Guests Of Breakfast Club

The 14 visiting British newspapermen will be guests of honor at tomorrow morning's meeting of the Los Angeles Breakfast club, but whether they will make a few remarks over the radio from the meeting had not been revealed today.

However, the musical program arranged for the meeting and radio broadcast therefrom promises to be an exceptional one with the following artists representing the various nations:

France, Mme. Mureal Real, famous dramatic - tragedienne; Sweden, Mrs. Lalla Hicks, notable Swedish contralto; Spain, Senorita Gaby Koppes and Senor Ermino Valdez, dancers; Mexico, the famous Mexicon prima donna, Alma Real; Russia, Simon Gest, tenor, and Mme. Tumanova, contralto; Italy, Ludovico Tomarchia, leading tenor of San Carlo Opera company; Hawaii, Pauline Steele, composer, and "Lana," solo dancer and Hawaiian chorus; America, Mrs. Hennion Robinson's famous Madrigal Octet.

If some one tells you that he saw it in the Register's Classified section, it was well advertised. Phone 87.

Santa Ana Boys' Band Of 50 Pieces To Be Organized

RECALLS TRIP TO OLD WORLD AT CLUB MEET

Transported by Mrs. Samuel P. Nau's gift for description and happy phrasing, members of the Business and Professional Women's club yesterday in fancy trod the highways and byways of the Old World, pausing to enjoy the quaint sights of Madeira, gazing out over the Straits of Gibraltar from that huge fortified mass of stone, the Rock of Gibraltar, looking with awe into the famous Valley of the Kings in Egypt, and comparing the Amalfi Drive with the Grand Corniche.

Mrs. Nau has appeared at several meetings of the B. and P. W. so announcement that she was to tell of her most recent journey, when she and Mr. Nau and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Boyer took the famous "Mediterranean Cruise," attracted a large attendance yesterday at the weekly luncheon in St. Ann's inn.

After entering the Mediterranean, the party stopped first in Spain, where, according to the speaker, they felt decidedly at home, since the country was so similar to California. One point in particular reminded them forcibly of Brea canyon, so they were scarcely surprised to reach a little hamlet and see "Brea," as the name of the village.

Crossing from Algeciras in Spain, to the African coast, the Santa Ana travelers visited Algiers, which has developed into a very modern and beautiful city. But for the sake of contrast, the travelers visited the native portion whose squalid sights were only equalled by its terrible odors.

Sicily, Naples and the famous "Blue Grotto," the Adriatic and Venice the beautiful, to the eastern coast and Dubrevnik, to Athens (where they were made homesick by eating Sunkist oranges from California) and the Holy Land, Mrs. Nau led her hearers in fancy.

While all details of her trip were of much interest to her hearers, Mrs. Nau's account of the Madeira Islands was of especial charm, and it was easy to picture the quaint bullock carts, the rock inclines of the mountains, a visit to the inn high on a mountain top, and a thrilling descent to the coast again, via a toboggan slide whose tracks were kept greased by a native with a can of grease!

To complete her talk, Mrs. Nau presented each member with an artistic post card of some Italian scene, and showed examples of various kinds of handwork.

Mrs. John Tessmann, president of the club, made several announcements including that of the district meeting at Downey next Saturday afternoon and evening. At that time Miss Emily Knoubuhl of New York City, national executive secretary; Miss Annie Woodale of Berkeley, a national vice-president, and other distinguished women, will be present. A number of members from the Santa Ana club plan to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Mildred Reinhardt was introduced as a new member, representing the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, where she is in the cashier department. Two guests were also welcomed, Mrs. Barnard and Mrs. Frances Beeson.

MAY AND MITCHELL, HEADS OF G. O. P., DEMOCRATIC GROUPS HERE, BOTH CLAIM VICTORY

With 266 votes in the electoral college necessary to win the presidential election, Herbert Hoover will catch at least 336 ballots as a result of the nationwide voting today. That's the way W. C. May, in charge of Hoover headquarters here, outlined the situation on election day. On the other hand, May predicted, Hoover may gain as many as 382 electoral votes.

Over at the Democratic headquarters John G. Mitchell looks at the figures and they tell him another story. Al Smith will hook 290 electoral votes, leaving 100 to Hoover and placing 141 in the doubtful column, Mitchell declared.

Both men agree that Herbert Hoover will carry Orange county by a safe majority, May placing it at 15,000 and Mitchell hooking his estimate on the 8000 notch.

May predicted a majority of 250,000 to 300,000 in California for Hoover. But Mitchell stated that he believes the contest will be very close with Smith carrying the state by a small lead.

Both estimators claimed Nebraska, which has been regarded as a contested state since Senator Norris gave his support to Smith.

POSTMASTER EXPLAINS WHY EARLY CHRISTMAS MAILING IS MORE URGENT THIS YEAR

The postoffice this holiday season will have more reason than ever before to shout its Christmas battle-cry, "Mail Early," it was stated at the Santa Ana post office.

The reason is that Christmas comes on Tuesday.

"The day of the week on which Christmas falls has quite a lot to do with deliveries," said T. E. Stephenson, postmaster. "Christmas coming Tuesday means a heavy concentration of deliveries on one day. Everything that comes Sunday and Monday will have to go out on Monday or hold over until Wednesday, for the postmaster general has issued an order to all post offices that there will be no deliveries on Christmas day excepting special delivery. Postal employes are to have the whole day off, just enough force being kept on hand to make the regular dispatches of mail.

"In our office, arrangements will be made to make complete deliveries every day of the holiday period, excepting Sunday and Christmas. We will meet whatever congestion occurs. However, anyone sending mail from Santa Ana must keep in mind the probability of delays along the way and delays in securing delivery at the other end. I'd advise everyone to mail their parcels early enough to reach their destination not later than Friday, December 21. Greeting cards for Santa Ana delivery should be in our office not later than the evening of Friday, the 21st."

The postmaster urged that everybody who has not his mail address on file at the post office should immediately write a card to the office giving the address. He said that scores of newcomers have not filed their addresses, and trust to luck that their mail will reach them. It is especially important, said Stephenson, that all changes within the city be listed in the post office directory.

DON AWARDED HIGH HONOR AT JAYSEE MEET

The paper rated second in front page makeup but as San Mateo, which received first place, is situated in the northern section of the state, the Don had the best in Southern California.

This is the second year of the association in California. At the election of officers, San Mateo was awarded the presidency and the next convention. Other officers were Compton, vice president; Long Beach, secretary, and Pomona, treasurer.

Among different things discussed during the meeting was the idea of developing news service by radio. San Mateo and Santa Ana have been transmitting college news regularly by radio and are making a success of the venture.

Santa Ana was represented at the convention by Ray Lindman, editor of the Don; Adelaide Mueller, news editor; Terry Stephenson, business manager; Ruth Ann Walker and Jane Stewart, associate editors; William Roach, sports editor; Carl Bergman, circulation manager; Myron Dungan and Dorothy McDonald, advertising managers, and Lois Allen, proof reader.

SUNSET BEACH, Nov. 6.—Clifford Neill is building an artistic studio on the ocean front. Mr. Neill studied painting a year and a half in Paris and in San Francisco. He was a newspaper artist three years in Los Angeles.

COMMITTEE TO BACK PLAN FOR VET HOSPITALS

The rehabilitation committee of the state organization of the American Legion passed resolutions urging the veterans bureau to locate two general hospitals in California, one in the northern section of the state and one in the south, it was revealed here today by Charles Van Wyk, immediate past commander of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, upon his return from San Francisco, where he attended the committee meeting as the only representative present from the southern part of the state.

Pointing to initiation by Orange county chapter 23, Disabled World War Veterans, of the movement to secure location of a general hospital in Orange county, Van Wyk said that American Legionnaires throughout the state have taken up the proposition and are solidly behind the program of more hospitals in California.

Agitation started by the county body, it was said, has served to impress upon the public and war veterans alike the fact that hospitalization in California is inadequate for the needs of men who have served the nation in past wars.

It also has served to reveal in an impressive way the fact that many wounded men have come into California because of the climate and better living conditions obtaining here. Many of the men need general hospital service at times, and Van Wyk said it is intention of the American Legion to work energetically for at least two more general plants in the state.

In the opinion of local men, Orange county will have an opportunity for selection as the location of one of the plants if favorable action is taken by the bureau and congress.

VICTIMS OF AUTO CRASH IMPROVED

The conditions of Walter Pixley, Orange furniture dealer, and E. E. Piper, 1014 West Walnut street, Santa Ana, a salesman in the Pixley store, are reported as satisfactory today. The men were injured when a car driven by Piper crashed into a parked truck on North Glassell street, Orange, as he avoided hitting a dog that ran in front of the car.

Pixley had just purchased a large new sedan and had had it less than an hour when the accident occurred. The car was wrecked. Both men were badly cut about their faces and hands. Piper was not so seriously hurt as Pixley but is suffering from shock and bruises. Pixley's leg was caught in such a way that the gears had to be shifted in order to release him.

Junior College To Have Outside Student Center

Planned to relieve congestion in the halls, the junior college is going to have an outside student center for the use of all students.

Cement benches and walks will be provided by the board of education and work will be started soon. The site for this campus improvement will be in the grove of trees east of the junior college building. In the center of the space, a glass covered bulletin board will be erected for general use. This will be protected from the weather and rain.

The cement benches will be placed at convenient places around the center. A small bench also will be provided for the use of the executive board and will bear a special insignia.

A student committee, consisting of Eleanor Turner, Algol editor; Ray Lindman, Don editor, and Helen Richards drew up specifications for the center.

COUNCILMAN DELAYED

SEAL BEACH, Nov. 6.—Councilman E. J. Hughes is detained in Kansas on account of the illness of his wife and was unable to return in time to cast his vote at the general election as he had expected to do. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and son left Seal Beach the first of August on a two-month visit with relatives in Kansas and Illinois, making the trip by auto. Mr. Hughes has been manager on the Bixby ranch north of Seal Beach for a number of years.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

ORANGE, Nov. 6.—A meeting of the American Legion auxiliary will be held Wednesday afternoon in the American Legion clubhouse to complete plans for the American Legion Armistice day parade. The auxiliary expects to serve between 250 and 300 at the dinner in the Legion clubhouse.

Plans Made For Student Loan Drive

Arrangements are being made for the 1929 student loan fund drive, to be held early next year, according to an announcement made today by E. M. Nealley, chairman of the student loan committee.

Since its establishment, in 1921, the student loan fund has made contributions of $5479.97 to 25 students. Five students have repaid $1200 to the fund. At the present time, $4,279.97 is out in loans to students.

Last year the high school penny drive for the fund netted $43.69 and the junior college drive netted $48.17. Loan officials have expressed the wish that the coming campaign will exceed previous attempts.

At the present time there are several students of superior ability who will be unable to complete their education unless assisted by this service and according to Nealley, there is no money in the fund at the present time.

JAYSEE ROUND TABLE TO HOLD MEETING HERE

Representatives from Pasadena, San Bernardino, Citrus, Santa Maria and Chaffee will meet for the first session this year of the Round Table, a junior college organization at the Santa Ana junior college Wednesday afternoon.

The San Bernardino representatives will discuss the question of the junior college as a two-year institution. Pasadena delegates will discuss the six-four-four plan of student classification. The topic chosen by citrus regards financial problems of junior college. Santa Ana representatives will talk on the Y. W. C. A.

Delegates first will meet in college hall at 3:30 and will adjourn at 5:30. At 6:30 the group will meet in Ketner's cafe for dinner and a second session.

KNX DEDICATION TO BE HELD SOON

Scouts Pass Out Election Handbills

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 6.—Newport Beach Boy Scouts are doing their part toward getting out the vote today. Troop No. 5 of the local Scouts recently had a large number of hand bills printed and today the Scouts were making a house to house canvass of the harbor district passing out the bills.

The bills read: "Remember to vote."

WANT OLD BLADES

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The British Isles have ceased worrying about what to do with old razor blades and graphophone needles. They send them to the Church Lads' Brigade. Blades still in good condition are resharpened and sold.

SOUSA HARP SOLOIST

When she joins the big "Sousa family" which travels in four luxurious Pullman cars whenever John Philip Sousa and his band appear in concert, Miss Winifred Bambrick, harpist with the organization, is accompanied by her mother, who comes from their home in Quebec to chaperon her daughter on her travels. Miss Bambrick will be heard as harpist when Sousa's band appears in the Santa Ana high school auditorium Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

SANTA ANA PREPARES FOR COMING OF SOUSA'S BAND TO AUDITORIUM THURSDAY

Word received here this afternoon from L. E. Behymer advised W. S. Spicer, president of the Santa Ana Lions club, that John Philip Sousa will not arrive in Los Angeles Thursday until 1 p. m., and that it would be impossible for him to be in Santa Ana in time to speak at the luncheon club meeting on that day.

Just two more days, and then Santa Ana is to have the rare privilege of hearing that master composer and director, Lieut-Com. John Philip Sousa, America's beloved "March King," who will appear Thursday with his band organization, in a matinee concert at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Polytechnic High school.

This nation-wide tour with which Sousa and his band are celebrating the conductor's fiftieth year as composer and conductor, is the twentieth transcontinental trip for the organization, and is proving the most popular in point of general interest. For wherever the band and its famous conductor pause to appear in concert, they are met with wild enthusiasm and interest.

It was in 1878, during the presidency of Rutherford B. Hayes, that Sousa, then a young man 24 years old, first wielded a baton as leader of a Washington orchestra. Two years later in 1880, Hayes appointed him as director of the United States Marine band. For 12 years, Sousa directed this famous organization, and then President Benjamin Harrison regretfully accepted his resignation that he might form his own musical organization, and ever since that time, Sousa has been appearing at the head of his own band.

Probably the most popular of his hundreds of compositions is the "Stars and Stripes Forever." It is interesting to learn the history of this famous march.

Sousa was returning from Europe and as he was pacing the deck of the steamship he sensed the rhythmic beat of a band. There was a sort of tom-tom cadence. It persisted. Gradually the march took form. Throughout the voyage the band seemed to be playing—ever taking on some definite march melody. Not a note was put on paper but when New York was reached the march was complete. He set it down on music sheets and "Stars and Stripes Forever" as it is known today by millions of people was written. Not a note was ever changed.

Harp Soloist Popular

Of the soloists and artists that accompany the Golden Jubilee tour of the composer, none is more popular than the harpist, Miss Winifred Bambrick. Miss Bambrick hails from Quebec, and is a soloist who has appeared with orchestras of leading musical comedy and operetta productions of New York City.

Thursday's concert in Santa Ana will begin at 3 p. m. and seats may still be obtained from the Santa Ana bookstore. The famous conductor is expected to reach the city in time to be guest of honor at the mid-day meeting of the Lions club at St. Ann's Inn. The club is making the luncheon an open meeting, and those wishing to attend may secure tickets by telephoning the Inn at 626.

CIANFONI PLAN IS INDORSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Organization of a boys' band of 50 pieces was authorized by the city council last night following presentation by D. C. Cianfoni, leader of the Santa Ana municipal band, of plans he has for creation of such a musical unit.

"Within five years I believe we can build here in Santa Ana a group of at least 250 good band musicians, in which event it will not be necessary for us to go to outside points to get good players to take places on our senior band when it is needed for a concert or parade," Cianfoni said, in explaining one of the features of his proposition.

Pointing out that it is expensive for the city to present the municipal band in public, the band leader said that with the organization of a musical unit of boys ranging from 10 to 20 years the city would have a band available for small celebrations and without cost to the municipality.

Boys Will Pay Dues

As outlined to the council, the band director proposes to charge the boys dues of 50 cents a week for identification with the band and for the instruction they will receive. The members also will have to provide their own uniforms and instruments—except, in the latter equipment, two or three pieces that the city will be asked to pay for because their cost is more than could be afforded by the boys who probably will play them.

Cianfoni explained that the dues will take care of the major costs of maintenance of the boys' band, and commented on the possibility of the council being asked for $300 to $400 a year with which to buy music and meet expenses of other types that would be too large for the boys to carry.

"A splendid proposition and one that will benefit the city in many ways," the council members chorused, as they voted unanimous approval and directed the bandmaster to proceed with the proposed junior band.

Adopt Paving Plans

Plans and specifications were adopted and a resolution was passed declaring intention of the council to order paving on a number of the streets in the eastern section of the city, the paving cost being estimated at around $40,000.

Asphaltic concrete, five inches thick, will be laid on the following streets; Poinsettie, Sixth to Washington; Garfield, First to Sixth; Sixth, Stafford, Brown and Vance, from Poinsettia to Garfield.

Application of J. A. Kyle, of 319 South Broadway, for permission to make improvements at 209-11 West Chestnut was referred to the planning commission.

Request of Guy Matics that the property at 1249 South Van Ness be changed from the residence to the neighborhood business zone was denied.

J. T. Van Why was granted permission to erect an oil station on the northwest corner of Fifth and French streets and Utt and May were granted permission to establish a nursery sales yard on property of M. Nisson, at Main and Santa Clara.

Yellow Dahlias Add to Charm of Pretty Luncheon

Using quantities of yellow dahlias, Mrs. W. F. Long of Laguna Beach decorated her house in charming manner for the pretty bridge luncheon with which she entertained yesterday in honor of her sister, Mrs. E. E. Keech of this city whose birthday anniversary it was.

Gay little doilies in yellow, blue, and green, completed the color scheme used at the luncheon table. Following the serving of a delicious luncheon, a large birthday cake, topped with 21 candles was presented Mrs. Keech. Each guest blew out a candle and made a wish for the honoree.

Bridge was enjoyed in the afternoon and resulted in attractive gifts being received by Mrs. E. M. Nealley and Mrs. Roy Hall, holders of high scores. After the hostess had awarded the bridge prizes she presented Mrs. Keech with a basket of lovely handkerchiefs which were the gifts of the friends gathered at the Long home for the luncheon.

Mrs. Long's guests included Mrs. E. E. Keech, Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh, Mrs. J. E. Gowen, Mrs. A. M. Gardner, Mrs. E. M. Nealley, Mrs. Roy Hall, Mrs. W. E. Otis, Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie, Mrs. Charles Carothers, of Santa Ana and Mrs. Ruby Hickox of Laguna Beach.

Executive Board Members Are Luncheon Guests In Placentia

Members of the executive board of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs were guests yesterday at a meeting of the Placentia Round Table club when several talks on the modern trend of art and music were given. The affair was presided over by Mrs. Joseph Thurston of Laguna Beach, vice president of the county federation.

County presidents were asked to tell of the outstanding programs that have been given by their clubs recently, which brought out the fact, that while women still enjoy programs devoted to music and the arts, they are beginning to study civic affairs, not only for their own community betterment, but for that of the state and nation as well. A number of the clubs had emphasized welfare programs, it was pointed out.

Mrs. A. P. Nelson of Santa Ana, who is state chairman of cooperation with war veterans, and law enforcement committee chairman, thanked the women for their co-operation, reporting that 18 veterans who do not receive any other compensation have been adopted by as many clubs in the district, that extend them cheer in many ways.

Mrs. Ida Randall Bolles of Laguna Beach, county chairman of art, brought an interesting and diverting message, showing the modern tendency of art. Mrs. Bolles said that she believed that the tendency to pervert and distort everything from the beautiful to woodenness was unhealthy. She added that from the present maze of socalled art there would emerge a school much better than anything that has gone before. She illustrated her talk with drawings of some of the best examples of the impressionist style, ending with an amusing one of her own.

Mrs. Harry Sears of Anaheim, county chairman of literature, read a group of modern poems, from different writers, and compared them to the older writers.

Following luncheon, which was served in the Presbyterian church, by the members of the Social circle, Miss Elnore May Spencer of Laguna Beach, recently of the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston, told of the modern trend of music.

Mrs. Albert Launer, county president, announced the Southern District convention which will be held at Del Mar November 19 to 24.

The Buena Park club will be hostess for the January meeting.

CHILDREN'S SANDWICHES

A fine sandwich to serve with hot milk or cocoa for children is toasted whole wheat or graham bread, spread with fig and lime mixture. Cook a quarter pound of chopped figs with a quarter cup of sugar and lime water to cover. Put through strainer when done.

BRIGHT COLORS FOR FALL

Bright colors are doing their share toward the glorification of the American girl this fall. Sportswomen have adopted a new medium of brightness that has the advantage of welcome warmth—the big woolen scarf, in checks, stripes or geometric designs. Frances Stevens, member of a Broadway musical show, displays one here.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

THE ADDED TOUCH THAT MAKES SOUP DELICIOUS

I think that cream tomato soup, tomato bisque if you would be real swanky, is just about the most insane flavor conceivable. I face it with the fortitude of a martyr and get the job over as quickly as soup acoustics will permit.

But—a delicate, thin cream of tomato soup with the subtle flavoring of a small quantity of minced clams is something else again. You taste it....taste it again....and wonder if the thick part is rice or corn.... and what IS that different and delicious flavor?....And then your sense of taste wakes up and announces it as nothing but a little bit of canned, minced clam added to the soup just before serving.

TODAY'S RECIPE
VEAL BIRDS

1 pound veal steak
Sliced bacon
1 tablespoon chopped onion
Flour, salt and pepper
Paprika and parsley

If you have a friendly butcher he will cut the pound of veal steak almost as thin as chiffon..if he isn't that kind, you'll have to pound it thin. A pound will serve three people.

Cut the veal in 2-inch squares and pound each piece as thin and flat as possible. Dust with pepper and salt and on each piece lay a strip of bacon just the length of the veal and over this a sprinkle of the minced onion.

Roll up and fasten with a tooth pick. Have some melted butter and bacon fat ready, dip the birds into seasoned flour, then into the melted fat. Have a frying pan hot with a little fat in it, brown the birds quickly, pour in enough hot water to nearly cover them, cover the pan tightly and simmer until the veal is tender. This takes 3-4 of an hour. Lift the bird onto a hot place, thicken the gravy, strain and pour over them, garnish with paprika and minced parsley.

The Veal Birds and the gravy that covers them have a calory value of 1500, or 500 for each of the three portions. Half of the quantity is found in the proteins, the rest in the bacon fat and the little bit of starch in the gravy.

THE SKIN ONE LOVES TO TOUCH

Have YOU that kind of skin? At some time in your life you did have, but as time went on and your habits of diet settled into place, something happened to that lovely skin—it was gone before you woke up to the fact. It took time to destroy it and it takes time to even partially replace the damage, but a good deal can be done by persistent use of iron-bearing foods, the tonic that produces good blood, pink cheeks, and skin that is NOT the season' newest shade in beige.

The very best of these foods is SPINACH, with its high iron content and its other mineral elements. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this valuable leaflet, GOOD COMPLEXIONS FROM SPINACH.

Founder's Day Committee Will Meet Friday

In anticipation of the annual Founders' day of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, which is an event celebrated with much enthusiasm each February, Mrs. H. L. Backs of Anaheim, chairman of that department in the Fourth District P.-T. A. (Orange county), has called a meeting of the Founder's day or program chairmen of all the associations comprising the Fourth district.

This meeting is to be held Friday afternoon, November 9, at 2 o'clock, in the Girls' League room of Anaheim high school, and is called for the purpose of starting plans for a program which the chairman hopes to make an outstanding event of the year. Mrs. C. C. Noble of Los Angeles, will be introduced as principal speaker.

Mrs. Noble is a favorite throughout the county organizations for it was she who was directly responsible for the founding of Parent-Teacher associations here. She was the "guide, philosopher and friend" of the Santa Ana organization, working here with Mrs. Earl Morris and other of the pioneers in the association.

Household Suggestions

SAL-SODA WATER

Sal-soda water is excellent for cleaning the tub and other bath porcelain.

VINEGAR RUB

Give your furniture a vinegar rub every once in a while. To do this dip a soft cloth in vinegar, wring dry and wipe the furniture with it. Polish with a dry cloth and you will get a fine gloss.

CURLED EDGES

If your rugs curl at the edges or if they have become ruffled by cleaning, you can resize them easily. Prepare a solution of one pound of glue and one gallon of water. Dissolve over hot water and paint the back of the rug with it. Using a large brush. Leave the rug on its face until thoroughly dry.

SOFT BLANKETS

If blankets, after being washed and dried, are beaten with an ordinary carpet beater, the wool will be light and soft.

Ryan-Walker Wedding Takes Place In Garden Grove

Miss Merle Ryan, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Ryan of Garden Grove, who has been employed in Santa Ana for the past two years became the bride Sunday evening of Earl Walker of Corona at a pretty ceremony which took place at her home.

The home was particularly lovely for the occasion as many bouquets of chrysanthemums in white, yellow and pink and smilax were used as decorations. Graceful candles provided the light for the service.

The bride was gowned in white satin with accessories to match. Her veil was of white tulle and she carried a shower bouquet of rose buds and maiden hair fern. Her father gave her in marriage.

Miss Ruth Ryan, the bride's sister, wearing coral pink satin, and Donald Walker of Oceanside, a brother of the groom, were the only attendants. The Rev. J. M. Ocheltree, pastor of the Garden Grove Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Frances Bragg sang "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied by Miss Eleanor Wisner who also played the wedding marches.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker are enjoying a honeymoon in San Diego after which they will return to Corona where they will make their home. Mr. Walker is connected with the Grand View Creamery in that city. He graduated from the Garden Grove high school.

Informal Evening of Cards Is Enjoyed

When a congenial little group of friends last night motored down to the ranch home of Mrs. Robert Jeffrey at Irvine, for an informal evening of bridge, the guests staged a little surprise on their hostess by appearing in curious and amazing costumes.

The effect, especially as the group gathered around the bridge tables, was amazing to say the least. Her Chinese costume seemed to bring good luck to Miss Beth Phillips, who took first prize, while prizes for second and third scores were presented Mrs. Henry Williams (Elaine Wharton) and Miss Janey Wilde.

To complete the evening, Mrs. Jeffrey served a two-course supper.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Come to think of it, have you seen a beautiful and delicate heroine rescued in the movies for a long time? Can you remember the first movies with the entire plot consisting of getting the fragile flower of womanhood off the track just before the fire-breathing limited snorted around the corner, or the stalwart hero dashing from one cake of ice to another just before the fainting bud of peerless womanhood was dashed over the waterfall onto the cruel rocks below, to say nothing of lusty firemen picking said buds off fiftieth story window sills just before the wall toppled over, and other trifling situations fraught with grave danger?

A New York newspaper comments that "movie rescues now are no longer necessary, and if they exist at all it is quite possible that the strong male is the recipient of the favor rather than the poor, weak, gingham-clad girl. For the fact is that the movies, in common with the rest of the world, have come face to face with the great feminist movement."

And again pops up the old question—are women, and men, too, happier now than in the day when it was a taken-for-granted thing that the fragile bud should be rescued by the strong oak in the last reel?

HER RING

There's a happy little housemaid in East Orange, N. J., these days for her fiance came over on the Graf Zeppelin as a machinist, bringing her engagement ring with him. Other girls, wealthy girls, have been busy all week buying the souvenir handkerchiefs and boutonnieres and other trifles that continental buyers sent home to their firms on the G. Z. But not Miss Dora Stoecke, wearing the first engagement ring ever so transported.

It just reminds one that it's becoming increasingly difficult to have a romance in an unusually romantic manner, what with captains refusing to perform marriages at sea, and with every Tom, Dick and Harry getting married at a world's altitude record height in an airplane. Now who'll go Dora one better?

Speaking of the Zep, the nonchalance with which women are clamoring for berths on the return trip, regardless of the S. O. S. call sent out because of the limping fin on the way over, is just one more evidence of modern woman's poise and preference for the adventurous to the safe.

Yesterday's woman wouldn't have ridden first on anything, even if she had the price of a ticket, and even if there had been anything spectacularly first on which to ride. She didn't yet have a background which fostered a yen for the unusual. Or, am I all wrong? Do reports of the first balloon trip, the first auto ride, the first airplane flight, include Women as passengers? I think not.

Shows Style

Now that so many girls are allowing their hair to grow again, this style of "bob" is to be seen, in increasing numbers, on Fifth Avenue daily! The lovely New York girl, illustrating the new style, is Myrtle Miller, of 325 West 89th Street.

She says, "I am certainly delighted that my hair has gotten so much fluffier and more vigorous. And I am not troubled with dandruff any more. At the time I started letting my hair grow, I began caring for it, the way which is all the rage among New York girls, now; and I attribute its improvement to this method. All I do is put a little Danderine on my brush each time I dress my hair. It makes my hair easy to arrange and holds it in place. It soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month, now. All my friends admire the way Danderine makes my hair look so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natureal color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes all dust and refreshes the scalp, gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the big 35c bottles. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl! —Adv.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinymites, high on the mast, all wondered, while the time flew past, how soon they'd be discovered by the captain down below. They felt that he would look around until the Tinymites were found. Then, what would happen to them all, of course they didn't know.

Said Coppy, "Well, we all can rest away up in this queer crow's nest. That's what they call this place we're in. My, what a funny name." Just then the captain shouted, loud, "Hey! Way up there! You Tiny crowd had better come down here on deck. Just what is this, a game?"

"Whoops! We're discovered!" Clowny said. "Oh, my, oh, my, I really dread to climb down to the deck again. I wonder what's in store. The captain sure will start a fuss, if he is still real mad at us." But Scouty snapped, "Oh, let's go down ere he begins to roar."

So, down they started, very slow. The captain watched and laughed, "Ho! Ho! You thought I wouldn't find you," he exclaimed. "Well, we shall see! I'm not a very ugly gent, but you deserve some punishment for causing me to take a flop, and playing tricks on me."

Soon they were down, right by his side, and promptly little Carpy cried, "We're really very sorry. Please forgive us, just this once." "Oh, no!" the captain answered. "You shall all have bits of work to do. If you should go unpunished, you would think that I'm a dunce."

So, everyone was put to work and warned he shouldn't try to shirk. "Now first of all," the captain said, "I'll have a job that's neat. 'Twill just take one, so Clowny can step out and be a waiter man." Thus Clowny served the captain bold, when he sat down to eat.

Fashion Hints

FULL BACK

A red, black and white homespun frock has a circular back to its skirt, with a curved and pointed bodice and skirt yoke in front. The cut gives it exceeding animation.

FUR FLOUNCE

A wine red velvet ensemble has its coat flounced in broadtail fur. The frock has circular bands of fur on the sleeves, posed at high cuff height.

SATIN BOW

A pearl grey satin scarf that completes a grey jersey silk sports suit, ties in a huge bow, with ends hanging, under the chin.

DOTTED PEPPERMINT

A peppermint green chiffon frock has polka dots of silver. They are of infinitesimal size in the bodice, larger over the hips and from the hem depth of the full skirt they grow to coin dots.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

How often do we hear parents say, "Our children are so discontented, always wanting something they don't have. We're doing everything in our power to make them happy but it seems they are never satisfied."

Perhaps they may be doing too much.

Just as hunger is the best sauce, a little wanting is likely to give the greatest zest to a present or a party or a new dress or a movie.

The children who are satiated with gifts are seldom happy. Yet take a child who never possesses a new toy from one month's end to the other and watch his eyes shine if he is given a ten-cent ball or a horn or a whistle.

I know a family of children who have been handed the good things of life on a silver platter. They have always been overdressed, overfed, overindulged, and waited on by their patient but mistaken parents to the point of martyrdom. Yet a more dissatisfied, pouty bunch of youngsters I have seldom seen.

The worst of such spoiling is that if by any trick of fate all these indulgences should be taken away, they would be miserable without them.

That is a dreadful tangle for life to get us into. To be unhappy with what we have and to be more unhappy without it.

Another thing—as indulged children get older, their demands increase. Their taste in toys will be their taste in cars, in trips, and week-ends, and fur coats and all sorts of extravagances. And with it all they won't be happy.

The thirst for thrills is only an aftermath of indulgence in childhood. It isn't the happy young people that go on madcap chases as a rule, but the unhappy ones, forever hunting the chimera that always seems just around the corner.

It's a great mistake to give children too many things, no matter how much money there happens to be in the family. And it is a mistake to plan too much for them. Let them have the thrill and effort of doing their own planning, at least part of the time. If you don't they will develop an inertia that is deadly.

All children should dress simply, and be kept busy. They should not be given new toys constantly. Their thrills should be few and far between.

America has a peculiar habit of boiling up from the bottom. It is safe to say that a large proportion of our leading citizens in 1950 will be from the children who today are learning to depend on themselves, to think for themselves. I wonder how many of today's satiated children, victims of their own inertia and boredom, will have places in the sun then.

AT THE THEATER

YOST BROADWAY

A neatly-wrought melodramatic plot, an exceptionally capable and well-chosen cast, and all the thrills which made the old-time play famous combine to make "The Whip," First National's current production at Yost's Broadway theater, one of the most entertaining of the season.

Based on the old Drury Lane melodrama first produced almost a century ago, "The Whip" is brought up to date in settings and dress and its multitudinous thrills are magnified by modern technical skill and photographic ingenuity.

It all revolves around a horse-race of course, as the title indicates, with a great deal resting on the proper horse's winning the big derby and a great many people interested one way or another in having it either win or lose.

Dorothy Mackaill brings her beauty and charm to the leading feminine role and Ralph Forbes proves an excellent foil in the masculine lead.

WEST COAST-WALKER

This ultra-modern Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture is a tale of a man without a soul; a super lover who stole hearts and stooped to knavery without a thought for ideals or religion.

Naturally his career comes to tragedy. As the young Viennese nobleman, he wins the love of the Countess Zellner, the wife of one of Vienna's social leaders. After winning her love he casts her aside in favor of the innocent young fiancee of his best friend, Manfred.

It is only when the Countess Zellner attempts suicide and blurts out that Gilbert is responsible for her downfall that tragedy arrives. Her husband attempts to kill the young aristocrat and is himself killed in the struggle. With his dying breath he calls Gilbert the devil himself. The subsequent climax makes "The Masks of the Devil" perhaps the most unique story ever brought to the screen.

WEST END

The Archduke Leopold of the Imperial family of Austria is seen in the role of Chief of Detectives in the Tiffany production "Night Life," which is now showing at the West End theater. His Imperial Highness has been in the United States for some time and was much intrigued with the making of moving pictures. While on the Tiffany lot during the filming of the scenes in "Night Life" with the action taking place in Vienna, he was asked by Director George Archainbaud if he would like to accept a small part. The Archduke accepted the offer with alacrity and was cast as the Chief of the Vienna detectives, playing the role to perfection.

Sixty miles an hour is considered fast enough for an express train at a steady gait. An automobile is going about its limit at seventy miles an hour, although under pressure they have reached the hundred mark. In the filming of "The Flying Fool," which features Dick Grace, with Wanda Hawley and Gaston Glass, the director, Frank Mattison, was compelled to employ the services of a racing auto with a platform built for the camera, the cameraman and the director, so that Dick Grace's change from an automobile to a racing airplane overhead might be properly photographed.

JULIA LATHROP

Club Day

Wednesday at Julia Lathrop was club day. With an omission of the regular sixth period classes the clubs were able to carry on their activities at this time.

Reports from the various club show that their work has actively begun. Miss Nora Reid's section of the Girl Reserves folded a large number of Christmas seal sheets, planned their part in the Armistice Day parade and arranged for an overnight hike to the county park.

Miss Foster's art and needlework club boasts of 38 interested girls who are already making hemstitched handkerchiefs, yarn purses, quilted and embroidered pillows, buffet scarfs, and felt, ribbon and bead flowers.

Members of the tennis club under Mr. Cain's direction have been playing a singles tournament in the form of a round robin. There are twelve members in this club. These twelve students enjoyed the privilege of going to the Southwest Tennis Tournament which took place in Los Angeles several weeks ago.

The Newspaper club, with Mr. Baker as advisor, is composed of seven boys, several of whom have fathers interested in, or working with the press. This makes the work of the club doubly interesting to the members who plan to make same visits to the Santa Ana newspapers sometime in the near future.

Since the Kodak club had such a large enrollment it has been divided into three sections with Mrs. Wolff, Miss Carl, Miss Swales and Miss Young as faculty advisors. Officers for Mrs. Wolf's section were elected at the first meeting of the club. These are: J. D. Parsons, president; Norma Thatcher- vice-president; Mary Eudaley, secretary; Clois Purvis, reporter. The second meeting of the club was a union meeting at which Robert Quail talked. He had many valuable suggestions to offer to amateur photographers, emphasizing especially the point that we must not cheat Mr. Eastman by putting two pictures on one film.

Cooks?

Mrs. Sinke's boys' cooking club is perhaps one of the most enthusiastic of all Lathrop's clubs. There are 27 high seventh grade boys who want to learn to cook. They have white aprons and chefs' caps to give their work a professional aspect and they have as an aim, to learn what foods should be eaten and why these are chosen; how to follow recipes and how to cook simple meals at home or out camping. Officers for this club are as follows: president, Leroy Levens; vice-president, Richard Holmes; secretary-treasurer, Marvin King; sergeants at arms, Preston Piper and Myrl Garner. These five officers with the assistance of Holmes Chambless and Willard Dolman form a governing board which will draw up rules and plans to be followed in the meetings of the club.

The section of the Drama club under Miss Blythe's direction chose four plays to be purchased with money earned from the candy sale and tried out for parts in the play, "Little Women" which will be the first one to be presented by the club.

Mrs. Drake's section of the Drama club read and discussed a play and later decided on parts to be taken by the various members.

W. H. SPURGEON TELLS ROTARY OF EUROPE TRIP

Reciting to the Rotary club today some of the highlights of his recent trip to Europe, W. H. Spurgeon, past president of the club, declared that he had found Italy a much cleaner country than he anticipated and asserted that cleanliness in the cities and suburban districts was due entirely to orders of Mussolini.

Asserting that he had been warned by friends never to mention the name of the dictator of Italy while in that country, Spurgeon said that there is no question but that Mussolini has effected a wonderful change in that nation. Pointing out that he saw Fascisti soldiers wherever he went, he said there are no policemen in that country except those officers.

Rural France the Santa Anan found to be many years behind the times in living conditions, as compared with the standard of the United States, the speaker commenting particularly on the custom there of housing domestic animals and families under the same roof.

Spurgeon gave interesting details on museums and historic points visited in Paris, Rome, Naples and other cities in the foreign lands. He will continue his talk at the meeting of the club next Tuesday.

PORTER GIVEN HIGH POST IN STATE CHURCH

selects its pastor," the superintendent commented, in pointing out that the congregation of the local church next Sunday morning would be given opportunity to vote on the selection of a pastor recommended to the church board by the standing committee on pastor. The name of the minister recommended has not been made public and will not be known generally until Sunday morning, according to the Rev. Mr. Porter.

The Rev. Mr. Porter will take up his new duties on November 14, and will have his headquarters at 302 Trinity building, Los Angeles. He and Mrs. Porter will move to Los Angeles just as soon as a suitable residence can be found.

Recalling that he came to Santa Ana from Salem, Ore., in 1918, the retiring minister said that the membership of his church had doubled in the period of ten years, the active members numbering at this time 724.

The minister said that his associations in Santa Ana had been of the most pleasant character and that harmony reigned supreme in his church. Opportunity to be of service to the churches of the state was a factor influencing him in decision to accept the position

NECESSITY OF WAR DEBATED BY HI-Y

Seven Hi-Y groups of Santa Ana met at the Y. M. C. A. at 6:30 p. m., yesterday, for a dinner and monthly program, at which considerable interest was taken in a debate based on the necessity for war in the modern world.

Although the affirmative was upheld by able speakers, Lecil Slaback and Cardwell Oglesby, the negative triumphed in the argument. The judges awarded the decision to Wesley Wallace and William Hawk, who argued that war is a necessity. Following the announcement of the unanimous decision a vote was taken among the boys present and 50 per cent stated their belief that war is necessary, thus dividing opinion equally.

Judges for the a ffair were Homer Cain, Leon Lauterbach and R. H. McArthur, club leaders.

car and his death may have been caused by drowning, it was said.

A coroner's inquest will be held in Oceanside tomorrow, after which the body will be returned to the Smith and Tuthill Funeral parlors here for funeral services.

Lazenby's relatives here reported that he left Santa Ana early yesterday morning with Farrar for San Diego. The two were returning to Santa Ana at the time of the accident. Lazenby is an automobile salesman here.

EXCHANGEITES EARLY VOTERS, POLL INDICATES

All but two members of the Santa Ana Exchange club had cast their ballots and had registered their choice for president when the organization met at noon in Ketner's cafe. When Gene Douglas, president, asked all those who had voted to stand up, only two men remained seated and they headed straight for the polls as soon as the session adjourned.

Considerable political banter skipped into the meeting and then skidded out again the early stages of the session.

The club decided to hold a bridge party on November 14. The idea was introduced by Stanley Clem and approved by the members.

Sol Gonzales, who has been absent for several months, was welcomed back to the meeting.

After the regular session, the nominating committee met and made plans for announcing the candidates for club offices at the meeting next week.

MESA AND TUSTIN 4-H CLUBS MEET

The Costa Mesa and Tustin 4-H clubs held meetings yesterday and last night at which enthusiasm for the coming year of activity was evidenced. At Costa Mesa 21 boys and leaders were present.

Movies of the recent trip to Davis, participated in by 45 Orange county 4-H representatives, were shown by Eric Eastman, assistant farm advisor. Plans for the coming year were discussed.

Boys of the Tustin club featured a swimfest in the high school pool at their session. Approximately 25, including Eastman, enjoyed the "splash."

ELECTION RETURNS

according to reports filed at Democratic state headquarters here today.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Eight precincts in scattered wards of Oklahoma City on an unofficial count at 1:30 p. m. gave Herbert Hoover 582; Alfred Smith 453.

Four other precincts without definite figures reported Hoover in the lead. Smith led in three precincts and broke even in another.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Governor Smith was leading his Republican opponent by a vote of 363 to 37 in the second district of the 11th ward here when the voting machine was opened at noon because of mechanical trouble. There are 751 registered voters in the district.

HOUSTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Houston and Harris county, long a Democratic stronghold, appeared to be giving Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential candidate, a majority over Governor Alfred E. Smith.

At noon the unofficial and incomplete count from 44 of the 133 precincts gave Hoover 1929, Smith 1753. At the same time the total vote, all of which had not been counted, was 7198 in 65 precincts.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Democratic campaign headquarters here said the first tabulation of votes at Sandersbille, Ga., at noon today gave Smith 201; Hoover 15.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Casaba, first state capital of Alabama, gave Governor Alfred E. Smith a majority of four votes today, it was learned when complete returns from the little town were announced.

Smith received five votes to one for Hoover. Casaba was practically deserted many years ago because of floods from a nearby river.

REHEARSAL FOR PLAY ARRANGED FOR TOMORROW

Tomorrow night's rehearsal of "Seventh Heaven," November dramatic offering of Santa Ana Community players, will take place on the stage of Yost's Spurgeon street theater, where the members of the cast will be given the opportunity to familiarize themselves with the surroundings in which they will make their public appearance on the nights of November 22, 23 and 24.

"Seventh Heaven" promises to be one of the best drawing-cards in the history of the players, for various reasons. One is that the stage version of the play by Austin Strong, with Helen Mencken as "Diane" and George Gaul as "Chico," achieved a tremendous success. This was equalled if not surpassed by the screen presentation when Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor made such an appealing pair.

Naturally Santa Ana theatergoers are interested in seeing what their own young people are able to achieve in the same dramatic roles. Then to add the final touch of interest, the play will serve to introduce a whole group of young people who have never before appeared in a Community play. Aside from Valmer Clark in the feature role of "Chico," and Mona Summers Smith as "Nana," every member of the cast will be new to the general public!

To Miss Clara Kate Owens has been entrusted the part of "Diane," playing opposite Clark. Miss Owens has appeared in different plays at Santa Ana high school, where she is a student. Probably one of her greatest incentives to present an outstanding characterization, will be the fact that she has a family standard to maintain. She is a sister of Mrs. Maurice Enderle, who as Harriet Owens and later, as Harriet Owens Enderle, has starred in various Community plays, including "The Country Cousin," "R. U. R.," and most charming of all, as "Moonyeen" in "Smilin' Through." Another sister, Mrs. Horace J. Howard, formerly Miss Kathleen Owens, showed a pronounced dramatic ability in minor roles.

Miss Loretta Spangler, another young student, will make her bow as "Arlette." One of her teachers, Miss Mabel Whiting of the mathematics department of high school and junior college, also is taking her first part with the Players, although she has been a member of the organization for a long time, and her sister, Mrs. Edith Thatcher, has played in different successes.

Mona Summers Smith in the character role of "Nana" is no stranger to local audiences, but her part will be a far cry from her brilliant characterization in the title role of "Enter Madame," and her work as principal in other successful Communtiy plays.

Frank Lansdown, while a member of the Players' association for a number of years, is making his dramatic debut as "Pere Chevillon." Albert E. Stuelke will play "Boul;" Wylie Carlyle will play "The Rat," and William Holman will take the part of "Maximillian Gobin."

Harry Edwards will play "Recan;', Kenneth Adams will take the role of "Brissac;" Wilbur Hoke will play "Blonde," Jack Baker, "Sergeant of Police;" Lawrence Phillips, "Uncle Georges," and Robert Quail, "August Margo."

TELL POSITION OF RIVERSIDE IN SIERRA'S FIGHT

Norman M. Blaney, secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau, announced today that he has received information which makes clear the position of the Riverside County Farm bureau in regard to the proposed right-of-way htrough Orange county of the Southern Sierras Power company.

This position, Blaney explained, has been in doubt since reports were published recently to the effect that the neighboring county bureau had indorsed the present route on which the power concern is seeking condemnation.

H. W. Postlethwaite, vice president of the Riverside Farm bureau, informed Blaney that "we were very careful not to indorse any particular line in our resolution but merely requested the Orange county board of supervisors to cooperate with the Southern Sierras Power company in securing the necessary right-of-way to build a transmission line along a route which will not be financially burdensome to the company and consequently to the Riverside county farmers."

Blaney pointed out that this action, taken by the Riverside organization, does not necessarily constitute an indorsement of the line now under consideration, to which farmers in the Garden Grove region are strongly opposed.

ORDINANCE No. 857

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SANTA ANA GOVERNING THE PLANTING, PROTECTION, PRESERVATION, REGULATION AND CONTROL OVER TREES AND SHRUBS PLANTED, GROWING OR PROJECTING UPON THE PUBLIC HIGHWAYS, STREETS, PUBLIC SQUARES, OR PARKS OF THE CITY OF SANTA ANA; CREATING THE OFFICE OF CITY FORESTER; AND PROVIDING HIS DUTIES; AND PROVIDING A PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION OF THIS ORDINANCE.

Section 1. That there is hereby created the office of City Forester of the City of Santa Ana, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the City Council and who shall perform his duties under the supervision of the City Planing Commission of said City. That until such time as an appointment shall be made for said office, the Street Superintendent of said City shall serve ex-officio as City Forester.

Section 2. It is hereby declared to be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, or their agents or employees, to cut, trim, remove, mutilate, injure or in any way impair the growth of any tree, shrub or plant being or growing in or on any of the parking strip, business square or public park in the City of Santa Ana, or to cause or permit the same to be done; provided, however, that in the event any person, firm, association or corporation desires permission to cut down, trim, remove or in any way interfere with the natural growth of any tree, shrub or plant within the places hereinbefore mentioned, application shall first be made to the City Forester for a permit therefor. Upon receipt of such application the City Forester shall cause an inspection to be made, and may thereafter issue or refuse to issue a permit for the execution of said work; provided, further, that whenever it is deemed necessary by the City Forester he may require the work specified in said application or in any part thereof, to be done under the supervision of the City Forester, and the cost of such supervision shall be borne by the applicant, if so determined by the City Forester.

Section 3. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation to plant any tree, shrub or plant in or upon any of the avenue, parking strip, public square or public park, without first having obtained permission from the City Forester, who shall subject to the Supervision of the City Planning Commission of the City of Santa Ana, designate the kind, variety and size of the three, shrub or plant to be planted as aforesaid.

Section 4.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation to attach or to be attached to any tree or plant in a business street or highway in said City, or to the guard or stake intended for the protection of such tree, shrub or plant, a rope, wire, placard or any device.

Section 5. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, without the written permit of the City Forester to place or maintain, or cause to be placed or maintained, upon the ground in a public highway of or in said City of Santa Ana, any stone, cement, or other sidewalk, or any stone, cement, or other substance, which shall impede the free access of water and air to the roots of any tree or plant in such highway. Unless otherwise provided for in such written permit, there must be maintained about the base of the trunk of each said tree or plant in the streets of the City of Santa Ana four (4) square feet of open ground for a tree of six (6) inches in diameter, and for every three (3) inches of increase of such diameter, there must be an increase of at least one (1) square foot of open ground.

Section 6. Every person, firm, association, or corporation, having any wire charged with electricity running through a public highway in said City, shall securely fasten such wire so that it shall not come in contact with any tree or plant therein; and no person, firm, association or corporation shall, without the written permit of the City Forester, attach any electric wire, insulator or any device for the holding of any electric wire, or for bracing the poles which carry the same, to any tree growing or planted upon any public highway of or in the said City of Santa Ana.

Section 7. In the erection or repair of a building or structure, the owner thereof shall place such guards around all nearby trees on the public highways as shall effectually prevent injury to them.

Section 8. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, to place, or allow to be placed in or upon any parking strip, parking area, or public plot, any salt, oil, herbicide, or any other material deleterious to the growth of plants, or in close proximity to such public square, parking area, or public plot that such deleterious material will permeate the soil thereof.

Section 9. That any person, firm, association or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00) or by imprisonment in the County Jail of the County of Orange, not exceeding thirty (30) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 10. That all provisions of ordinances that conflict with any portion of this ordinance are hereby repealed. In case of litigation regarding the validity of this ordinance, any section or portion of this ordinance found to be invalid shall not invalidate the balance of this ordinance.

Section 11. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this ordinance and cause the same to be published three (3) times in the Santa Ana Daily Evening Register, a daily newspaper printed and published and circulated in the City of Santa Ana, and said Ordinance shall take effect thirty (30) days from the date of its final passage.

EVENING SALUTATION

Wouldst thou fashion for thyself a seemly life?

THE CONTEST WILL CONTINUE

We are glad that the campaign is over. We believe that the politicians of the committees, those who have been endeavoring to make issues and to declare what the issues are, and what they are not, have not realized themselves what has transpired in the country.

The contest has been one over issues that the politicians have had little to do with. They have tried to stress the issue of prosperity and tariff, and have been harking back to the traditions and history of the parties. But the millions of the voters have been considering matters that enter into their personal, their social, and their religious life, things that had to do, in their minds, with deep convictions upon what the one side felt was moral conviction and the other an interference with personal liberty.

It has been a contest really between two civilizations, the Latin and the Anglo-Saxon, taking it by and large. There has been a marked change in our country during the past 150 years. The great cities have reared themselves on the plain and by the rivers, and into these cities masses have congregated. Very largely these masses have represented entirely different ideals than the Pilgrim fathers or than those the Covenantors brought to our country. There has been this contest going on—personal actions, conduct, habits of life, soberness as a virtue, personal responsibility, all of these are involved. The fight will not be over at the conclusion of today's battle. It will go on in some form or other continuously. It must go on as long as there are any who disagree with the majority, either to the end of them becoming converted or of them converting the major portion.

Neither side can rest upon its oars, nor will they by the victory of today. If the side that had won in getting prohibition enacted had not more or less imagined that it had won a victory simply because it had obtained legal enactment, the character of the campaign which has been going on for the past few months would have been different. The form of the campaign may change, but the character of it cannot as long as there are these serious differences in our country.

Neither candidate fully typifies or represents the complete views or the more pronounced of either side. We will gain lessons from the contest and learn more from it as we see it in prospective; as time passes, and as we study it further.

Scientists find that the earth has speeded up, making its accustomed rotation in less than 24 hours. Probably it's only trying to shake off the effects of a few political speeches.

A BOMBSHELL IN THE SILENCE

When Sacco and Vanzetti were electrocuted in August, 1927, after a delay of hearings and reprieves stretching over seven years, there were many who believed that the last word had not been spoken on the case. The leading papers of Massachusetts said when it was all over, "Let us drop it. The men are dead, and what is the use of keeping the matter stirring among the people." But there were many who felt that a great injustice had been done by a sovereign state, and that no stone should be left unturned to make it clear.

In the last issue of the Outlook, under a spreading cover lead, we read, "Vanzetti was innocent!" We read it with eagerness and some doubt. But after reading it, we are moved to say that the next move is for the officials concerned to make. A keen and well-known newspaper man, Silas Bent, who has written quite copiously on the modern newspaper, got a clue. The clue was followed up. Now it is known who engaged in the hold-up which ultimately sent Sacco and Vanzetti to the chair. It is a story that every open-minded man and woman should read. They owe it to themselves and to the abstract cause of justice to become familiar with the story.

We have no sympathy whatever with the political and social philosophy of the executed men. They were embittered and misguided fanatics. But the feeling will not down that the murder theory was only a pretext to send these men to the chair for their opinions. It will be a sorry day for any state when it kills men for holding opinions which may be uncomfortable, but which are not illegal. Such a violation of liberty will only eventuate in other men being framed when their opinions are not in accord with the great majority.

We would like to believe that even justice has been done in this case which aroused the interest and protest of the world. But if justice miscarried the quicker it is known the better, and they who were blind or prejudiced in the matter should be visited with that condemnation which a sense of outraged justice always administers when the truth is known.

A British publisher told an audience in Winnipeg that he found Chicago a nice and orderly city. Sure, you've got to be nice and orderly in Chicago—if you don't, the gangsters'll get you.

LOW BIRTH RATE IN BERLIN

There are some people still hounded by the bogey of Germany as the enemy of the world, preparing a come-back which will culminate in another war when circumstances are ripe. They will be relieved by the announcement of Dr. Burgdoerfer at the Eugenic Congress in Berlin that that city's birth rate is the lowest among world capitals. Though 2,000,000 children were born in Germany in 1900, the present total has dropped to 1,160,000 although the population has increased by 7,000,000 in the intervening period. The birth rate in Berlin was 9.9 per 1000 population, whereas that of London was 17 and that of Paris 16.

The figures evidence a terrific economic pressure in Berlin.

BROKERS' LOANS

We are hearing a great deal about Brokers' Loans these days in the discussion and news of the stock market. The Federal Reserve reported last week that they had reached a new peak. Nearly $4,700,000,000 have been loaned on stocks and bonds to holders of them. What would happen if the stock market should experience a radical slump? Would it create a financial panic?

There is a great deal of speculating going on. Never was the public at large so much inclined to stock speculation. Prices of stocks are high when judged by dividend returns. Some stocks are selling at prices that hardly yield much over 2 1-2 per cent. This does not seem to be hopeful. Yet there are financiers who are not appalled by it all. They tell us that the loans are so broadly scattered that even if all investors should lose, it would hardly be felt by the people at large. It would simply mean that the experience that some men have had of losing money is the experience that many more are having.

The only question that arises is, how much farther can it go? What will be the normal limit to which these loans can soar? There must be a limit, for it cannot go on at the present rate indefinitely. In the meantime it might be well to say to those who are in deep already that wisdom dictates caution if the crash is to be avoided.

HORSES FOR AIRPLANES

A Chicago-Omaha air mail plane made a forced landing the other day at Cedar Rapids, Ia. Heavy rains came up, and when the pilot tried to resume his flight the plane was to deeply mired in the muddy field. He could not budge it.

How was the problem solved? With the aid of the horse! A farmer brought a team, which was hitched to the plane. A little sturdy pulling and the plane was dragged out to dry ground, from which it was able to take off successfully.

San Bernardino Sun

A radical and easily discernible change has come over the mind of mankind as to its attitude towards new and revolutionary ideas. The treatment accorded to Copernicus, Gallileo, Serverus and others who have given new and revolutionary thought to the world we have been accustomed to ascribe to religious bigotry. Such it was, but only secondarily. Primarily it was a manifestation of a universal human trait. We are all prone to hold that our own beliefs and the things we have been taught to be true are absolute. In consequence we are intolerant of anything to the contrary, whether it be in religion, art, music or science.

Perhaps men of science have been as bigoted and as intolerant of revolutionary thought as men of religion. Every new scientific theory—and they are all merely theories, no matter how much we may accept them as settled facts—has had to make its way against a solid wall of scientific conservatism and intolerance. The X-ray was scouted. Marconi's radio was doubted by all save a few of the leading scientists. The great change is that now a new theory—like the Millikan ray—is received with respectful attention if it comes from a really scientific source, no matter how much it may upset what has been considered fixed natural law. Theories long and steadfastly held have been overthrown in such numbers during the present generation, that both the scientific and the lay mind are expectant rather than repulsive in their attitude.

Just now we have two revolutionary claims. One man claims to be able to communicate with Mars and the other asserts he can neutralize the law of gravitation, and thus prove that it is no law at all as an absolute and unvarying rule. At least the claim as to gravitation has been received with so much respect, tolerance and absence of former ridicule, even in disbelief, that it indicates a great change in our instinctive attitude.

Radio Tricks Added to List of Great Hoaxes

San Francisco Chronicle

American campaign methods seem tame compared to what happens in Germany, if the kidnaping of a Berlin radio orator may be taken as a sample. Herr Schwartz was scheduled to talk for the Socialists on "Is Peace Possible?" Evidently it isn't. At any rate, that is what the radio audience must have felt as they listened to the speech of the alleged Herr Schwartz.

But, as the gentle reader has already guessed, Herr Schwartz did not speak. He had been spirited away and a bogus Herr Schwartz stood at the microphone. Herr Schulz, a Communist deputy—for it indeed was he—was delivering an impassioned denunciation of everything that the Socialist party stood for. He blasted the League of Nations, predicted bloody revolutions, praised Russia, and altogether made peace seem a remote prospect.

It seems incredible that he could have crowded so much into a brief quarter of an hour. Then he announced his identity, took a hurried departure and went into hiding in the Reichstag building while the police searched futilely. When the time limit permitted him, he came forth, claimed immunity as a member of the Prussian Lantag, suffered a black eye and a pair of broken eyeglasses and was challenged to a duel.

But beefsteak reduces black eyes, opticians are plentiful in Germany, and Herr Schulz doesn't have to fight a duel if he doesn't want to.

New York Times

Stilts are generally regarded as toys for children, absorbing but hazardous. Their nearest approach to usefulness has been when they have supported some exalted type of sandwich man parading up and down Broadway to advertise a restaurant or a play. Now they have actually entered industry. A firm of Toronto contractors has discovered that by putting six-foot stilts on their carpenters the cost of expensive scaffolding is saved.

The carpenters were both surprised and indignant. Two of them threw up their jobs rather than mount the stilts. The question is now being investigated by the Secretary of the Building Trades Council to see if the use of stilts is a "contravention of city or provincial statutes."

Probably the carpenter has not found himself in such an equivocal position since Lewis Carroll put him in a poem with the walrus and set him to eating friendly oysters. Carpenters apparently do not wish to have their trade confused with athletics or stunts. If the enterprising Toronto contractors should introduce movable traffic towers, several stories high, to reduce still further the expense of temporary scaffolding, they would probably find their entire force walking out.

Those Anxious Moments---Just Before the Verdict!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

EXPERIENCE

As a child I was told
That to gain a firm hold
On the things that
Are really worth while
I must never give way
To despair or dismay
But wear a contin-
Ual smile.
I was led to assume
That the shadow of gloom
If it fell on a young
Person's face
Would destroy every chance
That he had to advance
And eventually lose him
So I went through my work
With a gay, trustful smirk.
Which for years I
Habitually wore,
And, believe me or not,
Not a sou have I got
And the wolf sits and barks at
My door.
While the men of affairs
And the big billionaires
Wear deep furrowed scowls
All day long.
So I'll pass on to youth
A most valuable truth;
That stuff about smiles is

Dr. Frank Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

TRAGEDIES OF MISUNDERSTANDING

In the South, a few years ago, a toll-gate keeper in a lonely section of the country was awakened by a banging at his door late at night.

A series of robberies had been committed near the place so he shouted from an upstairs window:

"Get away from that door or I'll shoot," he warned.

The pounding went on. He fired and the black shape by the door fell without a sound.

Later it was learned that the man knocking at the door was a deaf mute, lost in the woods, seeking to learn the direction to town.

He had heard nothing, and if he had he would have been unable to make a reply.

When we come to cope with the needs and actions of others, we too often fail to see the struggle or handicap that has shaped them as they are.

A man irritated all who met him by a supercilious way he had of looking at people through his glasses. It turned out that it was all caused by the way his spectacles were focused.

An actress who had a reputation for being "stuck-up" said it all came about because she was near-sighted. When she passed people on the street without speaking to them it was because she could not recognize them beyond a few feet.

A man who was thought stern and cold had spent most of his lift fighting the bad blood of his father. He had risen from nothing by his own efforts and had lived a clean, respected life by virtue of eternal vigilance and conquest. It took iron primness to do that.

The more we know of others the more we find to sympathize with, and the less to criticize harshly.

Charles Lamb was once asked if he didn't hate a certain man and he said he didn't because he knew him, and you can't hate a man if you really know him.

The real reason we are more lenient with our own mistakes and shortcomings than with those of others is not because we are not unfair. It is because we know ourselves better than we do others and see all the extenuating circumstances.

It is a good thing to get into the habit of othering ourselves, that is to say, imaging ourselves to be in the place of another person.

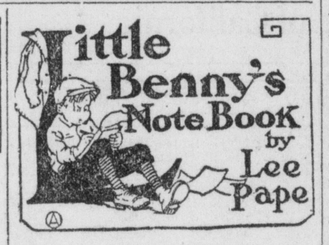
Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape



This afternoon my sister Gladdis was tawking to ma in ma's room, saying, Well mother, Harvey and I had a hart to hart tawk last nite, it was my suggestion and we told each other all about our former love affairs as far back as we could remember, a real hart to hart tawk, so now we have nuthing to hide from each other, I think thats the best way, dont you, mother?

Why yes I do, because now if anything crops up it will be a twice told tale insted of soiled linen, ma sed. Did you tell him about that army officer that gave you the diamond ring and insisted on having it back wen you broke off with him? she sed.

Well yes in a way. I dident axually mention the ring, Gladdis sed. It seems Harvey has had 3 affairs, it seems 2 were serious and one was serious on her part but not on his, she was a shameless little vamp and use to kiss him in frunt of peeple and all that sort of thing. Id like to slap 'her face for her even today.

Diskusting, did you tell him about that Sam Shepperd boy that I cawt kissing you under the apple tree at the picknick and you sed you were just going to call for help but you hadent quite started? ma sed.

Well yes, I mentioned him in a sketchy way, Gladdis sed. It seems Harvey was just on the point of marrying one gerl but his parents dident think she was good enuff for him and I dont sippose she was, she sed.

Of course not, ma sed. How about that Lew Black boy that you use to get ingaged to every spring as reguler as a cold in the hed, did you tell him all about him? she sed, and Gladdis sed, Well I dident go so far as to mention being axually ingaged to him but of corse I told him about him in a genrel way. We were both quiet relieved wen we'd finished telling each other about everything and all the details and everything, but I think its the best way, dont you mother? she sed.

Yes I think it was a very wise ideer. I think you did quite rite, ma sed.

And her and Gladdis went over the list of peeple to send announcements to, being about the 10th time they had went over it.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

KNOWING WHEN TO QUIT

I have just spent an evening with a gifted Spaniard who brought back to me a delicate and delightful message from that brave exiled spirit, Miguel de Unamuno, the Spanish philosopher, to whom I had sent an invitation to spend a few weeks in an American university.

We talked of Spain, its history, its art, its literature, its days of greatness and its days of decline, the architecture of Seville, the harsh invasion of exquisite Spanish skylines by American office buildings, the spirit of Don Quixote, and the doings of Spain's dictator.

We talked of the forces of tradition and change that have marched across the soul of Spain during the thirty-two years since the Spanish-American war.

Finally my guest told this Spanish tale:

In a Spanish city where affairs were ordered with military precision, for years a sentinel had been assigned to patrol an area around a certain bench in an official court yard.

Years came and decades went, and sentinels accepted without question the duty of patrol around this bench.

Finally a military youth committed the heresy of thinking about the order that had been given to him by his superior officer.

He had been ordered to patrol the area around the bench.

He asked why it was necessary to patrol this area.

"It has been done for generations," he was told.

"Can we not find the original order?" he asked.

After weeks of arduous search in the archives, it was found that one hundred years before this bench had been painted and a sentinel had been placed there to prevent anyone from sitting down in the fresh paint.

By some oversight the order had not been recalled when the paint had dried, and for one hundred years sentinels had paced back and forth to keep men from sitting in paint that had dried the day after it was spread.

Progress consists in knowing when to quit patroling newly painted benches.

I leave it to the reader to figure out the number of useless sentinels we are supporting in church and state and school—men who are guarding benches on which the paint dried a hundred years ago.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"PICK THAT UP"

More trouble than a little has been caused between children and parents, between children and teachers by that irritated, angry demand, "You pick that up."

When a child is angry and throws something out of his hand, or shoves something crashing to the floor, he is too angry to hear what you say. Anger tenses the body and closes the mind. The more you hammer at the closed door the tighter it shuts. There is no use in shaking or beating the child. You will have to hurt him sufficiently to reduce him to submission and that is a very dangerous thing to do every way you look at it.

To beat a child into submission when he is angry and defiant is to rouse in him a resentment that rarely dies. For years and years that affront to the personality stirs the whole being to resentment. No good ever comes of that method, but much harm.

Frightening a child when he is in excitement only clamps the power of his mind down tighter. Fear renders him helpless. Anger and fear combined create such a storm within the child that he cannot hear your voice of reason, cannot look ahead and see what the result of his conduct is to be. He is blind and deaf to consequences because he is unconscious of anything but the storm within himself.

When a child throws something on the floor go to him gently and look at him steadily, kindly, and pick the thing up yourself. Say nothing to him. Silence is the very best sedative for such excitement. If possible leave him alone. Show no anger, no impatience. Be truly sorry within yourself for the child's misfortune. Be truly loving and understanding. When the mood passes and the child is himself again he will be very sorry. Then you can talk to him and teach him how wrong such an outburst of temper is.

But, if you meet his demonstration with a worse one of your own you emphasize his error. You teach him that temper tantrums are the usual thing. You fasten his chains upon him. In trying to discipline the child you will truly discipline yourself if you go about it in the right way.

But what will you do with a howling, kicking, punching child? And all the neighbors looking on, listening, and talking about it. First disregard the neighbors. If they have children they have their own troubles with them. Nobody has a monopoly on troublesome children. All children are troublesome one time or another, or all the time, according as you view it.

Pick up the howler, only if you must. It is better to leave him, to howl it out but if he has selected a crowded street for his demonstration you'll be obliged to pick him up, carry or hustle him toward home, escort him to the bathroom and wash his face and arms with cool water. Always without anger. Always knowing that your task is to HELP this child to conquer a difficulty. Always in the attitude of service, as when he has a case of measles. Don't try to fight it out. Train it out.

Present Cabinet Subjected To Fire Both Outside And Inside Government

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(INS)—The French cabinet resigned today as a result of the dispute over the new budget. Premier Raymond Poincare tendered the resignations to President Doumergue just as parliament met.

The Poincare ministry, or the government of National Union, as it was called, has been under fire from the radical socialists for some time. Edouard Herriot, minister of public instruction, led the fight inside the government while the radical socialist congress at Angers exerted powerful pressure from without. The socialists adopted a second resolution last night condemning the Poincare cabinet and demanding its resignation.

The cabinet was summoned to meet at noon today for consideration of the budget bill. Just before the ministers assembled M. Herriot; Minister of Interior Sarraut; Minister of Agriculture Queille and Minister of Colonies Perrier called upon the premier and announced their intention of resigning.

The Poincare government was originally formed on July 23, 1926. With but a few changes it had remained in power ever since. Usually it is customary for a cabinet to resign when a general election is held but the Poincare party won such an overwhelming victory in the French general election early this year that the old ministry remained in power.

Premier Poincare assumed stewardship of the government at a time when the French franc was gravely depreciated in value and general alarm was being felt throughout the republic over the financial and commercial situation. He forced bills through parliament providing new taxation, bolstered up the credit of the government and the Bank of France and began to buy gold for French account in the United States. Within a year he had completetly changed the financial position of the country, putting it upon a sound basis. His political group made its campaign at the beginning of the year upon a platform of further financial reforms.

PORTER GIVEN HIGH POST IN STATE CHURCH

The Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church here for the past ten years, revealed today that his resignation as pastor was tendered Sunday to permit him to accept the positino of superintendent of missions for Christian churches in the state.

Yesterday he concluded negotiations for taking over this important post. The retiring pastor said that the position virtually placed him in charge of all the business activities of the churches in the state.

Location of ministers in new charges and financial and other problems will come before him for solution, he said. Requests by congregations for changes in pastors and requests by pastors for a change in location will be filed direct with the superintendent, the Rev. Mr. Porter said, in explaining that preachers in the denomination are not assigned by conferences, as is the case in many other churches.

A. H. FARRAR, OF TUSTIN, DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Arthur H. Farrar, 48, rancher, residing at Holt avenue and First street, Tustin, was killed and Fred H. Lazenby, 46, of 1004 Kilson drive, Santa Ana, was seriously hurt when the automobile in which they were riding plunged off the state highway bridge, just north of Oceanside, last night.

Farrar, who was driving the machine, was killed almost instantly, it is believed. Lazenby is in the Oceanside hospital, suffering from possible internal injuries, several broken ribs and severe cuts about the face and head.

DENVER, Nov. 6.—(INS)—Herbert Hoover had a two to one lead over Smith in the city of Denver shortly after noon, according to unofficial figures received at Republican county headquarters here. While the state law prohibits giving out official figures until after the polls closed, an hourly count is kept in all city polling precincts.

MASHAPEE, Mass., Nov. 6.—(INS)—The Cape Cod town, the third town in Massachusetts to report complete election returns, this afternoon gave:

Hoover, (R) 53; Smith (D), 17.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Nov. 6.—(INS)—Forty-five scattered precincts out of 169 in the city counted up until 1 p. m. gave Herbert Hoover 2215 and Governor Alfred E. Smith 815.

The count is made possible at this time by the use of double election boards.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Herbert Hoover received 586 of the 941 votes cast here up to noon today. Governor Alfred E. Smith received the remaining 355.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 6.—(INS)—One precinct complete in Vance county gave Smith 32, Hoover 1.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 6.—Herbert Hoover, citizen of Palo Alto, devoted himself today with boyish abandon to his vivid cardinal chrysanthemums, his baby grand-children and his home.

"And whatever that decision is, it will be right."

That sentence, from the last campaign utterance of Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for president of the United States, is the story of election day in the picturesque Hoover home of San Juan Hill—a quiet, restful day literally squandered on living in happiness and peace amid scenes and people intimately associated with a long and successful career.

Apart from the interruption for voting at 10 o'clock this morning, there was nothing on the list "things to be done today," in the Hoover home. Efficiency in the household of this man celebrated the world around for administrative efficiency in large affairs, was measured on this epochal day in the Hoover chronology in the stark terms of children's laughter.

Five votes from San Juan Hill await the tally clerks in the Stanford Union precinct of Santa Clara county tonight. In the old red box with the ballots of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will be found those of Herbert jr., of his wife and the first vote of Allan Hoover, second son who has only recently celebrated his twenty-first birthday.

The polling place, rigged with elaborate equipment to record in talking-movies, the act for which Hoover traveled across the continent, drew the family to a building Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were themselves largely instrumental in estiblishing. It took Mr. and Mrs. Hoover to a spot they knew together for 37 years ago as sweethearts in college, when Hoover was an orphan student in engineering and his wife a campus belle.

Along the mile drive from San Juan Hill to Stanford Union lay the landmarks which link that almost forgotten era of work and struggle with the day when Hoover awaits the verdict of the nation upon his call to leadership by the Republican party. On the campus Hoover prepared himself for life; here he found his life companion and helper; here at 23 he concluded negotiations with Australian owners for his first venture in mining, here he returned time after time in his journeys to remote corners of the world as engineer, "master of emergencies," and statesman. More than 200 times during the last 40 years has Herbert Hoover returned to Palo Alto. This has been the base of operations for his entire career—a career without a parallel, perhaps for variety of achievement and diversity of experience. Here, at his home within the limits of Leland-Stanford university campus, where he enrolled in 1891 as the first student in the newly founded college, will he receive returns on the presidential election which may call him to the White House.

But while workmen ripped and pounded with hammer and saw in stalling telegraph wires for the news service, election returns extensions, Hoover walked in his flower garden, lounged in his library with books and memorials gathered from the four corners of the world, resting as calmly as if a new shaft had been sunk yesterday to pay dirt in the Antipodes. Regardless of the political forecasts of his advisers that victory is assured, Hoover finds his security today, according to his intimates, in the knowledge that he has builded this campaign strictly to the blueprint he set down for himself in the beginning.

If the blueprint does not work, the fault is with the engineer, he believes. And in this case, if the engineer is wrong, patriotism makes defeat the victory. Here are the words Hoover himself used last night in his last talk to the voters over a nation-wide radio

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Herbert Hoover led in the presidential race at noon today insofar as votes had been counted by a ratio of more than 2 to 1. Two "rockribbed" Republican strongholds and one equally "rockribbed" Democratic precinct had reported at that time.

GOV. AL SMITH IS CONFIDENT OF ELECTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith today is awaiting the couting of the ballots. He visited his old haunts on the "sidewalks of New York" today and expressed and radiated confidence in his election within the gift of the people of the nation.

His confidence in the outcome of the balloting was expressed in his final speech, from the broadcasting studio at Carnegie hall. He presented the records of his accomplishments as governor of New York and promised to follow the same principles if he gets to the White House.

His last words of the campaign was a promise to use all his energies for better government. Concluding the speech he said:

"At no time during my public career in elective office did I ever trade a promise for a vote. I have made no promises to any man or group of men. Nobody was authorized to make any promises for me, and, in fact, none has been made.

"I can enter upon the duties of that great office with a mind single to the best interests of the country, and I promise you that in return for your vote of confidence tomorrow, I shall give this country the best that is in me to bring about a constructive, progressive and forward-looking administration."

The governor's speech was delivered at 10 p. m., E. S. T. After he had listened to the speech of his republican opponent, Herbert Hoover. Smith said none of his appointments had been rejected by the legislature and no breath of scandal had ever touched the vast state expenditures.

The governor devoted much attention to the part women played in the campaign. He related what he had done for them in securing protective laws for them here. He thanked them for their campaign efforts, for their entertainment of Mrs. Smith during the campaign trips and urged them to vote.

The governor had no plans for election day, except his visit to the polls. John J. Raskob, his campaign managers and a few

INSURGENTS IN SENATE APPEAR CERTAIN TO WIN

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The insurgent bloc of the senate appeared riding today to victory and two more years of control over the legislative policies of the nation.

A final check of probable results in congressional contests indicated the election of a Republican house and senate, with the insurgent bloc again dominating the upper branch of congress. As the senate has the power to veto any legislation enacted by the house, to ratify all treaties and confirm all presidential appointments, the insurgents seemed likely to exert considerable influence on the nation's business during the tenure of the seventy-first congress, which will meet for the first time in special session next March 5.

Republicans Favored

The Republicans, meanwhile, were favored to retain nominal control of the senate, simpy because they had an easier task to hold their present paper majority than the Democrats faced in winning control of the 34 seats to be filled today. Twenty Democrats, 13 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite were to be returned on replaced. The International News Service survey indicated the certain election of 14 Republicans, including four insurgents, and of 11 Democrats, with eight contests in doubt, and the Minnesota senatorship again conceded to Henri K. Shipstead, the Farmer-Laborite.

The insurgents, with six members among the "holdover" senators and four others certain of re-election, will have 10 votes at all times in the seventy-first congress. They will be aided, too, from time to time, by a number of Democratic senators, who received insurgent indorsement in the campaign just ended.

The senatorial contests to be decided today and the probable outcome, as indicated by the International News Service survey, are:

(By United Press)

THE HOOVER-SMITH presidential election battle brought record breaking voting today. There had been few reports of violence to shortly before noon. Four persons died suddenly today. One man died while voting at Jamaica, L. I.; a woman died similarly in Newton, Mass.; a man died of alcohol poisoning in Kansas City, Mo., as he was being moved from a polling place to the police station, and another died at Coal Fork, W. Va., when about to vote.

Two startling developments marked the early hours.

State troops were ordered by the West Virginia governor into the Logan county mining area to forestall possible mob violence. A Democratic judge there charged the sheriff had deputized 200 special deputies and he retorted with charges of Democratic massing of armed forces.

In Chattanooga, Tenn., Democrats claimed some Negroes had been improperly registered; and the Republicans retorted that the Democrats' threat of prosecution was merely intended to keep Negro voters from the polls.

In many cities, heavy guards were massed. New York City, had all its police on steady duty, but early reports indicated mainly only heavy voting without special incident. Chicago reported a similar situation, and city after city followed with advices of record voting, by long lines waiting at an early hour.

Women were reported as unusually strongly represented.

The first states to close their polls tonight will be Kentucky, Tennessee and South Carolina, where voting ends at 4 p. m., central standard time. South Carolina is assumed to be overwhelmingly Democratic as usual. If Kentucky and Tennessee are at all close as many expect, the result in those states may not be known for many hours because of the delay in getting returns from the isolated mountain districts. Generally in both these states the cities will lean toward Hoover and the country districts towards Smith according to expectation of politicians. Smith votes will be slower coming in therefore than Hoover votes.

Other key states in the voting today include New York, where polls close at 6 p. m. eastern time; Massachusetts, closing from 4 to 8 p. m., eastern time; Missouri, closing at 7 p. m. central time; and Maryland, closing at 5 to 7 p. m. eastern time. When the results in those states are known it will be fairly certain who has won. This group is expected to hold the balance of power unless there should be a landslide.

34 PER CENT VOTE CAST UP TO NOON HERE

Santa Ana today crashed into a new high record for forenoon voting, a check of 10 polling places in the city up to noon revealed.

With the casting of 966 ballots the precincts registered a vote of 34 per cent of the total registration of 2795 votes. The previous high record was about 20 per cent.

Precinct No. 2, in the Frances Willard junior high school, was the leader, more than 50 per cent of those eligible to cast ballots in that precinct having marked their ballots by 10:30. The recorded vote at that hour was 121 out of a registration of 226 .

Election board officials commented on the fact that more women than usual voted this morning, it being quite evident, the officials said, that many women had dropped their morning work temporarily in order to get to the polls before lunch time.

Republican and Democratic headquarters and headquarters of the get-out-the-vote committee received many calls for automobiles from voters who did not have transportation of their own.

It was pointed out that the heavy voting in the morning would make it possible for working men and women to have full sway at the polling places in the late afternoon. The polls will close at 7 p.m.

Precinct No. 2, Frances Willard school, 121, 226.

No. 11, Lincoln school, 104, 315.

No. 45, Jefferson school, 124, 310.

No. 41, Drake's garage, 1059 West Sixth, 86, 236.

No. 39, Franklin school, 80, 272.

No. 34, McKinley school, 83, 259.

No. 36, Lowell school, 76, 248.

No. 6, Spurgeon school, 103, 295.

No. 18, Roosevelt school, 78, 256.

Five freight cars overturned and tore up the tracks for a considerable distance. Property damage was heavy and traffic tied up for 10 hours.

CONTRACT FOR NEW FACTORY AWARDED SOON

Contract for the new building of the Vitalite Piston Manufacturing company, to be located in the 2000 block on South Main street, will be let within the next few days, according to H. M. Kinslow, one of the founders of the new Santa Ana industry.

The Vitalite piston, already on the market, is making rapid strides as one of the leading pistons in the country and has already been adopted by several airplane manufacturers as standard equipment, it was declared today. It is now being manufactured at the Kinslow machine shop.

The new plant will be ready for occupancy by January 1, Kinslow said, and will start with a working force of 35 men. When the new plant opens, the machinery of the Vitalite company will be transferred. The machine shop will continue in business of retailing automotive replacement parts.

Voters will crowd around the 125,000 precincts throughout the United States, taxing election machinery in many places, and delaying the closing of the polls and the count in many precincts.

The election picture today of this tremendous nation, with its millions choosing their next president, their next house of representatives, one-third of the United States senate, 34 state governors, many state legislatures and state and county officials, is a record-breaker. It represents the rapid rise of the nation from the first election in 1789, when there was a popular vote for president only in five states. Only persons with property or other special qualifications then could vote. Pennsylvania cast a total of less than 6000 votes in that election. There are more than that many election precincts in Pennsylvania now.

This year New York City alone will cast nearly 2,000,00 votes, equal to half the total population of the United States at the first election.

The presidential and vice presidential candidates were to vote in their respective homes today—Hoover in the women's club house on the campus of Leland Stanford university at Palo Alto, Calif.; Smith in a stationery store at 24 East 48th street, New York; Senator Curtis in a schoolhouse at Topeka, Kas., and Senator Robinson in a drug store at Little Rock, Ark.

Three large unknown factors give this election a greater element of doubt than any since 1916 when it was not known for many hours whether Wilson or Hughes had been elected. The greatest element of uncertainty arises from the tremendously increased registration. It amounted to 26 per cent in Boston and 22 per cent for Massachusetts as a whole. In Kansas, for instance, women equalled men in some precincts. In some places, women outnumbered men in registrations. New York City has an increased registration of roughly 600,000 or 33 per cent of the former registration.

A second element of doubt is the uncertainty as to how many wet Republicans will vote with Governor Smith because of liquor and how many dry Democrats will bolt him. Party fences have been trampled this year but nobody knows just which way the net balance will go.

A third element is the religious feeling. It is the hardest of all elements to estimate because so many are reluctant to discuss it openly. Politicians agree Smith will lose many votes among those with strong anti-Catholic. If he loses Maryland it will be due to the religious feeling of Democrats in the eastern shore counties. His difficulties in the south are partly traceable to this element. On the other hand Smith may gain Republican votes in states like New Mexico where half of the vote is composed of Mexican immigrants who are Catholic Republicans.

State Vote Heavy

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6—(UP)—Balloting started off briskly today in the general election in most of the 9086 precincts throughout California.

Fair weather prevailed in all parts of the state and party workers were busy early getting out the vote.

In many precincts lines of voters were waiting when the voting booths opened at 6 a. m., and the number of ballots cast during the first hour was unusually heavy.

With a total of 2,313,816 registered, party leaders and election officials predicted the percentage of those registered who cast ballots would be the largest in the history of the state.

Intense interest was aroused in the presidential race by the whirlwind finish of Herbert Hoover and Gov. Alfred E. Smith, and by the return of Hoover to California to cast his ballot.

A vote for the Prohibition electoral list will be a vote for Hoover, as the Prohibition party in California endorsed the candidacy of Hoover and picked the same electoral candidates as those already named by the Republicans.

Optimistic statements were forthcoming from both Democratic and Republican state headquarters as the campaign ended and the party workers turned to the task of getting the vote out.

In the senatorial race Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Republican encumbent, was opposed by Minor Meore, Democrat, Los Angeles; Charles H. Randall, Prohibitionist, Los Angeles, and Lena Morrow Lewis, Socialist, San Francisco.

G. O. P. ELECTION OFFICIALS SEIZED IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—(INS)—Eight Republican election officials, including a member of the city council, were arrested this afternoon on warrants worn out by members of the legal taff of the Democratic city committee.

There was a stream of complaints flowing into city hall as the ballotting became heavier.

A number of fit fights and wrangling wa reported in the south Philadelphia wards. All the warrants were for election officials in this section of the ciyt.

At 10 o'clock it wa estimated 300,000 of the 700,000 votes registered had voted.

CHICAGO'S ELECTION MOST ORDERLY IN HISTORY

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The most tremendous and orderly election in Chicago's history was recorded today.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon, seven hours after the polls opened, election officials estimated 1,000,000 ballots had been cast. At poll closing time, 4 o'clock, it was estimated, more than 1,500,000 ballots will have been cast.

Election commissioners forecast a 85 per cent vote, which would give Chicago 1,317,399 votes, the biggest in the city's history.

Only minor disturbances marked the rush to the voting booths. One election judge was charged with intoxication and less than half a dozen attempted vote frauds were recorded.

County Judge Edmund K. Jaroski, head of the board of election commissioners, declared the election was by far the most orderly ever held in Chicago. He said the hundreds of policemen and thousands of watchers had succeeded in keeping perfect order in all wards.

South Vote Heavy

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Polls throughout Southern California drew heavy early morning crowds in the balloting on local, state and national issues.

On the basis of the early turnout, Registrar of Voters Kerr predicted that 650,000 votes will be cast in Los Angeles county. Registered voters total 925,000.

ASHEVILLE ,N. C., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Two men were under arrest today charged with conspiracy to prevent "an American citizen from the free rights of the ballot."

The two, Harry Gruver, business man and Doak Davis, farmer of Reem Creek were held after an investigation into their activities in connection with absentee coter ballots which they are alleged to have marked for the Republican presidential elector and the state and county Democratic ticket.

friends were to drop in during the afternoon for a talk. He had no political conferences arranged and will issue no statements, he said.

In his radio speech, last night, Smith summed up his appeal to the voters of the nation. His opening sentences urged the equality of man as exemplified on election day and said "a man or woman who is not sufficiently interested in the welfare of the country to take the trouble to cast a ballot cannot be said to be a very good citizen."

His appeal, he said, was to his radio audience alone—an "intimate one," he termed it.

Smith described his own record as governor of New York and cited his non-partisan appointments as a demonstration of his sincere interest and efforts for the good of the state and its people. In every department of his cabinet, Smith pointed out, he had made appointments of those best fitted to carry on their tasks. This was a policy that would be his if elected to carry on the national administration, and one fundamentally essential for the efficient government of the country.

The democratic nominee told his radio listeners that his always had been a policy of conservation of the state's natural resources for public benefit. This he said would be his national policy as president.

Smith voted shortly before 1 p. m, after making his way through a veritable mob of admirers. Voting with him were his wife, whose birthday wish today was for his election; his son and his daughter-in-law. Sixty police guarded him and opened the way as he walked from his hotel to the polling place at 24 East 48th street.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Buddhism tries to short-circuit the problem of pain and grief with a theory that man suffers to balance wrongdoing in some previous existence. The theory does not satisfy man's reason.

To the Christian pain remains a mystery; yet he has learned from the Christ that, instead of merely enduring, man may transform heartaches into the means whereby he rises into co-operation with his Master and becomes a spiritual giant.

At its next regular meeting the board of directors of the Orange County Farm bureau will consider what action it will take on the proposal that Orange county buy the fair grounds between Santa Ana and Anaheim for a recreational center, it was announced today.

No indication as to what the board's attitude will be has been made public, but the body referred the matter to the farm centers throughout the county some time ago when the suggestion first came to the board's attention. It was pointed out at that time that the board was desirous of observing the reaction of the various centers to the matter before committing itself to a definite policy.

According to Norman M. Blaney, secretary of the farm bureau, practically every active farm center in the county now has acted on the proposition and has drafted a resolution setting forth its belief that the fair grounds purchase should be made by direct appropriation. Centers in West Orange, La Habra, Garden Grove, Cypress, Villa Park and El Modena have given support to the movement, Blaney stated. The resolutions point out that the location is the most logical one in the county for a general recreation center.

Some time ago the property, consisting of 39 acres, was offered to the county by the fair association at the price paid for it several years ago. It was pointed out that inter-sectional football games, big league baseball training schedules and county-wide events could be staged there.

SEAL CAMPAIGN PLANS ARE LAID BY COMMITTEE

Preliminary plans for the annual Christmas seal sale conducted by the Orange County Tuberculosis association are under way today as a result of a meeting of the executive committee of the organization, held yesterday noon at the Rose Arbor Inn.

H. A. Lake, of Garden Grove, president of the organization, presided at the session, at which it was revealed that the Foster-Kleiser company will donate 25 bill boards for advertising the campaign.

Alma Overholt, who will assist in the campaign this year in publicity work, was at the meeting, and was introduced to the gathering. Those present included the Rev. St. John O'Sullivan, of San Juan Capistrano; Mrs. C. C. Violet, Mrs. John Bichan, Mrs. Hewett Smith, M. C. Maloney and Vernon King.

Plans being worked out today call for a seal campaign rally to be held November 26, at which final and definite plans for the movement will be mapped out and committees announced. The meeting will be attended by committee chairmen.

H. B. CHAMBER SALARY HELD UP BY BOARD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov 6.—That the action of the city council in paying the salary of the assistant secretary of the chamber of commerce is irregular and illegal, was declared at the meeting of the council last night. The salary was originally paid to the secretary, who also was termed city advertising manager. When the office was refilled the new appointee was never made assistant secretary. The council is holding the checks of Mrs. May Jackson and L. C. Denslow until after the chamber takes action on the election of new officials Friday night.

Mayor Bowen and Councilman Harris went on record as believing that some radical changes should be made in the chamber of commerce. Harris believes that the positions of secretary and assistant secretary should be made one, with an increase of salary, half to be paid by the city to the secretary as advertising manager and the other half to be paid by the chamber. Bowen stated his conviction that the chamber would never be a success without the aid of an organized board of directors.

The plans for a big traffic signal to light the corner of Main and Ocean were referred to City Engineer Rosson. The cost is estimated at $3000.

The purchase of a touring car for the police department was authorized at a cost of $532.70.

The rent on the bait and fishing tackle concession located on the end of the pier was reduced from $25 a month to $5 for the period from November to April 30.

On the plea of the need for $50 more for band expenses L. H. Gallienne, the council awarded the amount in addition to the $190 already pledged.

On the recommendation of Fire Chief Sargent, the salary of L. E. Hill was raised from $150 per month to the second year salary of $165.

The derrick on Eleventh street near Palm was ordered torn down at once. If the request is not complied with the council will take action by declaring the derrick a nuisance.

The meeting was adjourned until November 19.

U. P. TRAINS TO GET ELECTION RETURNS

Election returns will be flashed to all Union Pacific through passenger trains at frequent intervals tonight. In the Wyoming or Oregon mountains, the Nevada desert, western Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Southern California and elsewhere the latest information will be waiting for the passengers and it will be posted immediately in the observation and club cars. For the portion of the system east of Ogden, the news will be assembled in Omaha and telegraphed from that city. For the other portions of the system it will be handled similarly in Los Angeles, Salt Lake City and Portland.

I expect that by Wednesday we will have this election business all settled and the people will have to look up something else to worry them. Well you don't have to worry about where to have your watch repaired. I'll get that all arranged for you.

Jack Fisher, general chairman for the first annual military ball of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war, to be held December 5 at St. Ann's inn, announced today the names of committee chairmen who will arranged details of the affair.

The executive committee met last night at Fisher's home, 707 Spurgeon street, and made further arrangements for the dance, which is expected to be the most brilliant affair of its kind ever staged in Orange county. Enthusiasm and determination to make it a success were evident at last night's meeting.

The executive committee is composed of Mrs. F. E. Coulter, president of the Ebell club; Mrs. A. G. Flagg, F. C. Drumm, former superior judge and Linn Crawford.

Eugene Kahen, who took an active part in arrangements for the recent aeronautical breakfast at the Martin airport, has been selected as chairman for entertainment, Fisher announced. It is planned to have some of the best acts available in the interlude between dances.

The orchestra which will play for the hundreds of noted guests, uniformed military and naval celebrities and hundreds of Orange county citizens, is to be selected by Linn Crawford, and may be chosen by the end of this week. Crawford also was named publicity chairman. The orchestra will have the honor of playing the grand march which may be led by General John J. Pershing, who has been invited to attend the affair and is expected to be the honored guest.

Mrs. Fannie Reeves was named chairman of the committee on decorations and will be assisted by Mrs. R. L. Bisby in developing the color effects which are to be the background for the affair. Massed colors will be featured in the arrangement, it is expected. The Legion auxiliary will co-operate in carrying out the decorative scheme.

As soon as the orchestra is seleceted Mrs. A. G. Flagg will arrange a suitable program of music and dances for the affair, beginning with the grand march.

Carl F. Burns was selected as chairman of the ticket selling campaign and will select a group of other members of the organization to work with him. A. G. Flagg is to be in charge of all printing for the dance. All committee chairmen will select those who are to work with them.

A large group of patrons and patronesses will be chosen by the executive committee to aid in making the affair a success and in welcoming the honored guests who will be at the dance.

CITY COUNCIL GETS PETITION FROM CITIZENS

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 6.—A petition asking the removal of all oil derricks and the plant of the Orange County Refining company near the western entrance to the city was presented to the city council last night. The petition characterized the refinery and the oil wells and the conditions existing around them as unsightly and requested that they be cleaned up. The papers were signed by owners of more than 500 lots in the West Newport section of the city and held nearly 1000 signatures.

E. A. Russell, of Newport Beach, presenter of the petition to the council and spokesman for the signers, stated in a short talk to the council that the signers of the petition did not wish to do anyone in business any harm. He later stated that if the refinery could be induced to move and would sell its holdings for a fair price the signers of the petition might purchase the property.

The petition voiced the belief that oil used at the refinery is not produced in Newport Beach but is hauled to the plant from Huntington Beach. The main protest against the refinery, according to Russell, is the stench which comes from the plant. The odor is said to be so strong at times that residents of the West Newport section are unable to sleep with the windows of their homes open.

That many persons have refused to build in the section because of the unsightly conditions was the declaration of Russell, in pointing out that present conditions are hindering the development of that district of the city. Russell said that pet cats and dogs had been trapped in the sumps.

The matter was placed in the hands of the city planning commission.

PLANNING BODY IS BACKED BY C. OF C.

SUNSET BEACH, Nov. 6.—Unanimous support of a planning commission for Orange county was given at a meeting of the chamber of commerce here at its last meeting.

The need of such a commission was brought out in a discussion that occupied the greater part of the session. Among the reasons advanced for the forming of such a body was the rapid increase in population in Orange county and the many improvements that are planned for the immediate future.

Two of the improvements contemplated are the widening of the Coast boulevard and the conservation of water and flood control.

The motion to place the organization on record as favoring the forming of the commission was made by Director Earl and was seconded by Director Drake. The secretary was instructed to communicate with the Orange county board of supervisors informing them that the local chamber of commerce favored a master plan for the county.

With the new improved coaches in service every effort will be made to improve the service along the coast of Orange county, officials of the company reported to G. C. Macleod, secretary of the local chamber.

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 6.—Plans and specifications for the building of two new bridges on Balboa island were approved by the city council last night and the resolution declaring the intention of the city to do the work was passed for its first reading. The two bridges will cost approximately $89,640, according to an estimate submitted by R. L. Patterson, city engineer. A permit was issued for the bridges by the government and the war department some time ago.

One of the new bridges will connect Balboa island with the mainland. The structure will cost approximately $62,680, according to the report. The other bridge will connect a small section of Balboa island known as Channel island to Balboa island proper and will cost $26,960. Protests on the proposed improvements will be heard by the council at its next meeting, November 26.

H. L. Sherman was appointed as a sixth member of the city planning commission last night. The appointment was made by Mayor Mark Johnson. His appointment followed the adoption of a new city ordinance adopted recently placing the city planning commission on a legal basis.

A communication from the Airport Chamber of Commerce was referred to a committee composed of Harry Williamson and Paul Ellsworth. An appropriation of $300 was made by the city council to the advertising fund of the Orange County Coast association. The appropriation was made at the request of the local chamber of commerce and was made on the condition that other cities along the coast donate a like amount.

A resolution waiving city claims to the section of Central avenue which is to be improved was adopted by the council.

The Golden State Holding company, of Los Angeles, again renewed its request to be permitted to fill in its holdings in the bay, and asked for a hearing before the council. The city clerk was asked to write a letter to the company informing it that the council was unalterably opposed to allowing the fill to be made and informing the company that its representatives could appear at any council session.

W. L. King, of Pasadena, praised the city camp ground in a communication to the council.

Another communication referring to the unsanitary conditions prevailing near the pier where fish is sold was read by the council. The letter was from the state department of public health. Paul Ellsworth and Lloyd Claire, appointed to investigate the matter some time ago, gave a report on conditions and were reappointed to investigate the matter further. A communication from K. I. Fulton regarding parking and traffic conditions in Corona Del Mar was read and filed.

Health Authorities Urge Precaution to Prevent Epidemic

If all colds were checked at the beginning, influenza, pneumonia and grip would be greatly reduced. It takes quick action to get ahead of the germs of these dread diseases. Many cases of flu start from germs breathed in. The effective way to attack them is direct—with vapors of Vicks VapoRub.

When rubbed on the throat and chest, the ingredients of Vicks are released in the form of vapors which, being breathed in, carry medication to the inflamed air-passages and lungs direct and instantly. In addition, it acts like a poultice and helps the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

While grip and influenza are so prevalent, local people are urged to keep Vicks VapoRub ready at all times for instant use.—Adv.

NEW PRESIDENT OF FULLERTON CLUB ELECTED

FULLERTON, Nov. 6.—Ted Corcoran, young business man of Fullerton, has been elected as president of the Fullerton Kiwanis club for the coming year, it was announced today by Louis E. Plummer, president for the past year. The new president was named by the board of directors of the club. Corcoran will be installed at a future meeting of the club.

The main speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday at McFarland's cafe was Dean Thomas G. Burk of Occidental college. He talked on "Psychology of Business."

The outstanding factor in business success is memory, the speaker declared. Memory should be idealistic, helpful, progressive and clean, he said. Imagination was another factor that was emphasized by Dean Burk. This, he said, should consist of ideas to link up the past with the future and should be a perpetual challenge to the young man or woman to become what they wish to be.

Dean Burk was introduced by Dr. Arthur Coons, executive secretary of Occidental college, and a former instructor in Fullerton union high school. Dr. Coons was introduced by Dean W. T. Boyce of the local junior college, program chairman.

Is the WRINGER really obsolete?

WILL the modern woman continue to slowly feed clothes... piece-by-piece... through an old-fashioned wringer, when the EASY Wringerless Washer will whirl the water from a whole tubful of clothes in less than two minutes?

Just watch a woman as she slowly feeds clothes through the ordinary wringer . . . wringing out piece-by-piece, first, the soapy water . . . then the rinse water . . . and finally the blue water. A total of 300 or more laborious hand operations for the average family washing!

Then watch the modern woman as she quickly transfers her clothes, altogether, from the washing tub to the drying compartment of the EASY Damp-Dryer. A flip of a lever and, in less than two minutes, the soapy water is whirled from the entire tubful. In the same way she handles the rinsing and bluing operations.

No more torn clothes

No more buttons off

And how the EASY Wringerless Washer does save clothes! No more torn clothes. No more buttons off. No strain on fabrics; no cracking of silk or rayon garments; no stretching nor distorting of blankets and woolens.

Removes more water, too, and drying in the sun is quicker. Evenly damp and free from deep, hard creases, the clothes are easier to iron. Feather pillows, blankets and bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer are easily handled.

Washes like human hands

Famous for its gentle washing action, the EASY Vacuum-Cup Principle has never been equaled.

Up and down and around . . . sixty-six times a minute . . . its three vacuum cups move. Like human hands, they cleanse away every particle of dirt and grime.

Speedy, because it does two things at one time. Eight full-size sheets, or their equal, are washed in the wash tub, while eight other sheets are quickly dried in the drying tub.

Clothes are on the line earlier. You are less tired.

No more buttons off

There are still EASY Washers with wringers . . . good, efficient machines equipped with every known safety device. But no wringer-equipped machine, not even our own, can compare with the EASY Model R, with automatic Damp-Dryer.

Week's washing done free

Simply call us. We will bring the new EASY to your home and show you a miracle in washing clothes. You can own an EASY on easy terms, with low monthly payments.

HE HAD TOOTHACHE, BUT HE ARGUED OVER WHAT DENTIST WANTED FOR 'PULLING JOB'

If there is any time when a man will not fuss about price, its when he has an old molar rocking inside his gums and feeling like the nerve in it is as big as a Russian revolution—and yet there actually are persons, who, when a tooth starts aching, go from one dental office to another, shopping for prices.

"Say Doc, I gotta terribul toothache. How much is it going to cost me to have the tooth yanked out?" asked one would-be patient as he walked into a dental emporium here yesterday.

"From $2 to $5, depends on the tooth," the "doc" answered.

"Nothing doing. I read in the papers where I could get—ouch, this thing hurts—it yanked out for $1. Guess I am in the wrong office."

"There are scores of persons who shop for their dental work," stated the dentist. "Every day we have persons come into the office in pain and walk out, still in pain, because they do not feel they can pay the price. At the same time many teeth are extracted free of charge, because I size up the patient and understand that payment would work a hardship on him.

"These people we are only too glad to help, but at the same time we have our eyes open to the professional shopper."

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last chapter of "The Presidential Parade" series, reviewing politics of other days.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The presidential year 1924 is famous in political history for the bitter battle of Madison Square Garden, the unprecedented third party protest vote polled by La Follette and the overwhelming endorsement by the people of Calvin Coolidge and prosperity.

It was remarkable for the fact that the voters, provided with evidence of the most wicked administrative scandals in recent years, saw no use in punishing the Republican party for the corrupt acts of a few of its discredited leaders.

If President Harding had been renominated he doubtless would have been defeated, for it was Harding's most intimate friends who betrayed his trust and the country's. It is supposed that Harding, shortly before he died, realized the perfidy of his friends.

Coolidge Untainted

Calvin Coolidge, however, bore no taint. While the oil, Justice, alien property, veterans' bureau and the other scandals presumably would have beaten any president who tried to run on such a record, the Democrats failed utterly to make political capital of them against Coolidge.

Even more importantly, while hard times and great unemployment had marked the early part of the Harding-Coolidge administration, the country was riding on a high tide of prosperity late in 1923.

Coolidge was easily and enthusiastically renominated. Senator Hiram Johnson had entered the field, but Coolidge swamped him in the primaries; even in California. The Cleveland convention was peaceful.

The senatorial Old Guard finally picked Charles G. Dawes to run with Coolidge, after Frank O. Lowden had been nominated and refused to accept.

Democrats Bitter

William Gibbs McAdoo, a strong progressive with a strong record as secretary of the treasury and director of railroads during the war, had long before started after the nomination. Unpopular with the New York politicians, he had moved to Los Angeles so that he might have a home state delegation behind him. His strength was great in the dry south and west. The Klan made him its candidate.

In the east Gov. Al Smith of New York was being groomed to stop McAdoo. He had run a million votes ahead of the national ticket in 1920, had been overwhelmingly elected in 1922 and had made a spendid record as governor.

Suddenly McAdoo's campaign for pure politics and against the corrupt interests was robbed of much of its steam. E. L. Doheny testified before the Walsh investigating committee that he had hired McAdoo for a yearly $50,000 retainer for five years after he left the Wilson cabinet.

The Democrats could hardly nominate Doheny's high-priced lawyer in a campaign with administrative corruption as the big issue, even though McAdoo had not been connected with any dishonest transaction. The Doheny retainer really killed him, though his followers doggedly stuck by him and he cleaned up in the southern and western primaries, charging Wall street plots.

The galleries were packed to holler "Oil! Oil! Oil!" at McAdoo whenever given the word and to provide an hour's claque demonstration for Smith, but the climax came and the cops were called when a resolution was introduced denouncing the Ku Klux Klan by name.

Beaten by One Vote

Again Bryan took the platform before a howling, cursing mob of eastern politicians. He opposed the resolution and again he told them that the issue was not religion but Wall street and the trusts vs. the people. The convention was in no mood to heed him. The resolution was voted upon and beaten by a single vote, 542 to 541.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

The cleavage made, the east was more than ever determined to beat McAdoo. The first ballot gave him 431½ to Smith's 241, with 17 favorite sons in the field. Bogged in religious hatred, the convention staggered on for 16 days, breaking all records in a terrific heat. The vote for a choice was 732. Neither McAdoo nor Smith ever had a majority.

There were 103 ballots cast and McAdoo led by 93. On the 30th McAdoo was down to 415 and Smith up to 323.

Smith offered to withdraw if McAdoo would. He wouldn't. McAdoo told Senator Underwood of Alabama that he would make him the nominee if he could get two southern states beside his own. Underwood asked for 24 hours to get them and failed.

Reaching their peak of 530, the McAdoo men were frantic for a majority. They went after the 24 Virginia delegates, who were voting for Senator Carter Glass and could have given McAdoo more than the majority, but Governor Byrd of that state held it tight—Glass might yet be the compromise.

About the 80th ballot the candidates agreed to release all delegates from their instructions and see what happened. McAdoo suffered. Still leading but dropping on the 86th, he was passed by Smith on the 87th—368 to 333½, only to regain the lead on the 94th and hold it for six ballots. Smith passed him again on the 100th and as California, Tennessee and Washington finally left him, McAdoo withdrew. The two-thirds rule had defeated him.

Swings to Davis

Leaders then offered the vice presidential nomination to Walsh, Meredith, Newton D. Baker and others to conciliate the McAdoo faction. When those men refused, they nominated Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska.

Disgusted at the two "Wall Street" candidates, progressives met at Cleveland in national convention to nominate Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, a Republican and a Democrat. The platform demanded numerous progressive reforms, proposing a congressional check on the supreme court.

Davis, excellent presidential timber, was a poor man on the stump. Presumably he would have had more votes if the conservatives hadn't instilled a widespread fear of La Follette. He was enormously handicapped by the sorry Madison Square Garden spectacle.

Prosperity was the dominant issue and the great majority, led by business, wanted no change.

La Follette polled nearly 5,000,000 votes, five times as many as any other protest party had received before. Davis had the solid south, with Oklahoma and Tennessee; La Follette only Wisconsin.

Coolidge	15,725,000	382
Davis	8,386,000	136
La Follette	4,823,000	13

If the old progressivism of the Roosevelt, Bryan and Wilson days figured at all, it took bad lickings both in June and November.

SPORTS through Edgren EYES

By Robert Edgren

Joe Dundee, somewhat synthetically welterweight champion of the world, fights Young Jack Thompson of San Francisco in Mr. Rickard's garden November 16. Should Jack Thompson knock out Dundee again as easily and quickly as he did in Chicago, or for that matter should he knock Dundee out at all or even take a 15 round decision, Thompson will become a somewhat synthetic world's welter champion.

The Dundee-Thompson affair is a bit scrambled. Dundee has been pottering around safely for a couple of years by dodging dangerous matches or making his opponents sign a cast iron agreement to fatten up and come in overweight so that "the title won't be at stake."

The fattening process works two ways. It slows a man up. Usually this operates to Mr. Dundee's entire satisfaction, as he had at least avoided being laid on his shoulder blades. It didn't work with Thompson in Chicago. The husky welterweight fattened up according to agreement and weighed in a pound over the limit in the afternoon, but dropped to his normal weight of about 143 pounds an dregained his normal activity in time to knock Joe out in two rounds.

Many people regarded Thompson as the champion after that fight, because he is a real welterweight when not compelled to fatten up and he was a real welterweight in the ring, a few hours after the "official" afternoon weighing. The public knows the only true test is ringside weight.

But a couple of weeks or so later Mr. Thompson disregarded all the usual practices of those who find themselves suddenly "up in the money," and kept his agreement to meet Jackie Fields in a 10 round San Francisco bout. And although Thompson is a corking fighter against a slower man like Dundee. He was badly beaten and barely able to stall through without being knocked out by Fields, who is the fastest and most aggressive welter of the season.

Gig Rooney, Fields' manager, is going around claiming the welter title for Fields. And there is enough justice in his claim to at least force the winner of the Dundee-Thompson mill to meet Fields. This works in well with Tex Rickard's regular campaign. Tex is a wonder in the art of making two gates grow in place of one. He never puts on the real event until he has cleaned up with the preliminary matches leading to it. At that the Thompson-Dundee fight will probably be worth the money.

Such was the verdict of the famous Stanford football magician himself, as expressed here and at San Clemente where Warner has been visiting since the big Coliseum contest.

"Only one Stanford team that I have coached, the 1925 eleven, approaches the versatility of the present varsity," Warner declared. "The 1925 team beat U. S. C. but the 1928 squad didn't because it erred on several occasions while its opponent played perfect football, a full game without a single mistake.

The Perfect Eleven

"U. S. C. on Saturday was the perfect eleven, or as perfect as football teams can be made. In fact, it was the most perfect game of football from a Trojan viewpoint that I have ever seen played. There were no mistakes. The team was well coached and was efficient in all departments. The work of Don Williams at quarter was above reproach. Linesmen were working in unison, Hibbs punted like a veteran and the pass attack and offense were all that could be asked of such modes of the game."

Pop Warner

Warner was loud in his praise of the sportsmanship of the Trojans and lauded the coaching ability of Howard Jones, whom he said had perfected a strong second half defense for Stanford's running attack.

"The battle at Los Angeles," continued Warner, "did not reveal any weakness in my new offense. Formation B as it's known. Many of the sport writers wonder why I shifted to this style of attack. Having big, strong men to work with I was forced to develop a formation that could use them to the best of their ability. There is nothing radical to the formation, either in construction or execution, and it is simply one of a number of good offensive formations."

Will Make No Changes

"Pop" declared that he will make no changes in his lineup or formation. Outside of the fumbles and one or two errors in judgment he was satisfied with the playing of his men, he said.

"One thing the Trojan game revealed," he mused. "It showed that when two teams evenly matched take the field errors of judgment, fumbles and a few costly mistakes can easily swing victory to one side or the other. The Jones eleven played perfect football, Stanford made mistakes so victory went to U. S. C. All year we have had but few fumbles. On Saturday fumbles came in bunches and we lost. That's how it goes."

The veteran mentor had little to say of the California or Army games coming up.

COMPTON J. C. HAS BIG, FAST SET OF BACKS

Santa Ana junior college, twice tied but still tied for the first spot in the Southern California Junior College conference football race, will find out next Monday, Armistice Day, whether it has a team of championship caliber.

Coach Bill Cook's formidable Dons, just beginning to hit the stride which it has been thought they should hit, play Compton junior college at Poly field here on the holiday date and if Santa Ana gets by the Tartars it will see a pennant floating in the distance.

Compton has the best backfield in the conference, a veteran line from tackle to tackle, and an imposing array of reserve material. Herb White, 230-pound fullback, has knocked the stuffing out of every line he has bucked this year and the Don forward wall will have to be in top condition to slow him down. Vic Williams, Southern California's premier quarter-miler during the track season, plays one of the halfback berths. The other halfback job is attended to by "Goldy" Holmes, who was a crack sprinter himself while attending high school at Compton and who was an All-Conference back in 1927.

White, Williams and Howard give Compton a world of power and speed and their attack is deceptive and dangerous. Coach Cook has a real task in front of him preparing his charges for this next heat.

Compton lost a tough one to Fullerton early in the conference race, White fumbling on the goal line and Jewett, former Covina back who is quarterback for Fullerton, picked up the ball and raced 105 yards for a touchdown. The following Saturday the Tartars were held to a scoreless tie by Pasadena. Last week, however, Compton got going and beat by a large score Long Beach, which Santa Ana defeated, 6 to 0.

In practice yesterday Cook put "Venus" Harvey, who has been holding down the fullback berth during Bill Dugger's absence, back at his old position of guard on the line and in all probability will have Harvey there to stave off the Compton charges. Harvey, a bulky man, is good wherever he is put and has turned in some mighty fine performances both at fullback and guard. With Dugger back in the lineup, backing up the forward wall, it is expected that the Compton eleven will have difficulty penetrating very deep into Don territory on off-tackle plays or center smashes.

Marks, a colored boy from Long Beach with a world of boxing skill and a stiff punch in right or left hand, will battle Leo Hernandes in the "main" at Henry T. Foust's fancy place of business tomorrow evening. If Marks wins, he gets Chavez, according to a definite statement by Major Anderson, business director of the O.C.A.C. If he doesn't, he'll have to start all over again.

Hernandez is rated as a pretty tough sort of a hurdle, not a pushover by any means. The lanky welterweight votes at San Gabriel and he has knocked over all the opposition in that region as well as in other sections and he did all that could be asked of him here last week when he lulled the black Earl Long into unconsciousness in 30 seconds. Leo is a hard hitter, probably more dangerous with a right hand than Marks, but he probably lacks the all-around timing of blows and footwork of the flashy darky.

Two changes in the Wednesday card were announced today by Manager Anderson. The semi-windup between the popular Jack Gilbert, Western Amateur Athletic association champion at 125 pounds, and Richie Thomas, Hawthorne, stands. They fought a darby of a bout here recently and their rematch is by demand.

Unable to satisfy the management that he was in proper condition to make a proper showing, "Red" Blankmeyer, Anaheim light heavyweight, has been scratched from the card and that throws off also his proposed opponent, colored Louis Wilson.

In place of the Blankmeyer-Wilson shot, the O.C.A.C. signed Tony Morino, Placentia's gifted publistic prospect, and Morrie Nathan, a little Los Angeles workman who has always looked capable in previous appearances here.

Archie Mitchell, Garden Grove, also has been replaced by Max Hernandez, who will take Mitchell's bout with Romeo Lemon, the aggressive Fullerton high school Spaniard who will hake his first appearance at the Foust arena this week. Lemon's previous local starts were made at the Delhi "Barn."

TROJANS MEET ARIZONA TEAM NEXT SATURDAY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Football season at the University of Southern California, which came to a mid-season climax Saturday in the Trojan-Stanford game, will let down this week and start building for the 1928 gridiron grand finale, the Southern California-Notre Dame contest to be played at the Los Angeles Coliseum December 1. Building up for the new climax will start this coming Saturday, November 10, when the men of Troy will meet the University of Arizona Wildcats in the local Coliseum.

Four more games remain on the Trojan schedule, these being Arizona, November 10; Washington State, November 17; Idaho, November 24, and Notre Dame, December 1. All of these games will be played at home and at least one of them, the battle with the Irish, will be a sell-out.

Coach Howard Jones worked his regular so hard and speedily last week in an attempt to get them ready for the powerful Stanford machine that it is expected that he will let them coast along most of this week. The Arizona game Saturday is expected to be no push-over, but Jones will not risk causing his best men to go stale by trying to keep them on edge for the coming game. Although he has not yet announced his plans, it is considered likely that he will use numerous second string men against the Wildcats.

If Jones does use reserves for the most part in the Arizona game, the contest is expected to have more interest than it would have otherwise as the Arizonans may then have the edge and make the going tough for the local boys. The Wildcats have a great line plunger in Chief Stofft and a splendid open field runner in Captain "Silverheels" Diebold. On the fast Coliseum turf these boys may prove plenty of worry to the Southern Californians.

CHARITY SHOW BOUT CARD AT 'BARN' TONIGHT

They go to the polls at Boyd Ellis' Delhi "Barn" again tonight.

This time for the benefit of the Orange county children's health camp, a second charity boxing show will be conducted by Orange post No. 132, American Legion, to whom Ellis has turned over temporary possession of his arena.

Jimmie Rivers, who has not lost a bout at his favorite fistic retreat for many months, again headlines the program. He goes against Young Dempsey, the ace of the Main Street Athletic club's amateur stable in Los Angeles. They weigh 142 pounds or thereabouts.

In the first main event, Howard Johnston, undefeated locally in half a dozen starts, boxes Battling Rice, another Angeleno, at 158 pounds. Johnston is a real drawing card and should be ready for a top spot if he gets by Rice.

Mike Canneles vs. Young Franco 125 pounds.

Lavie Gatton vs Dannie Stewart 142 pounds.

Joe Garcia vs. Leo Dominguez 118 pounds.

Harry West vs. Kid Jalisco 112 pounds.

Mrs. Jones Leads L. A. Golf Tourney

FIGHT RESULTS

Chan, Fish And Game Man, Is Transferred

After two years of faithful and tireless effort in the Orange county district, E. A. Chan, deputy state fish and game commissioner, has been transferred to Long Beach where he will have headquarters at 1773 Orange avenue and from where he will have charge solely of ocean pollution investigations for the state.

While located at 615 North Bristol street in Santa Ana, Chan's duties necessitated that he work on game patrol as well as pollution cases and he was highly complimented on numerous occasions by his Sacramento superiors. Chan has been here two years.

CHAVEZ STAND IN RIVERS GO ROW EXPLAINED

BY RINGSIDER

"Please get us straight on this. Jimmie Rivers can have a match with Zenaydo any time he qualifies a san amateur and all that he has to do to be a legitimate amateur is to register with the Western Amateur Athletic association and box at houses officially recognized by that far-reaching organization."

This was the answer today of Major Anderson, business manager of the Orange County Amateur Athletic club, to the published desire by Boyd Ellis, matchmaker for Rivers, "for a four-round contest between Rivers and Charvez anywhere and at any place in Southern California except the O. C. A. C."

"We shall not enter into a controversy with anyone over this proposition," Anderson said. "This shall be our final word in the matter. Our stand is the same as it has always been.

"We are licensed by the Western A. A. A. as is every other amateur arena in Southern California except Mr. Ellis' arena. We use on our programs only boys who carry licenses of that body. Those who appear on cards at other arenas are not eligible to box in any of the some 20 houses under the Southern California district's jurisdiction. Rivers is a good boxer. We should like to have him with the Western A. A. A. But he is not at the present time and he will not be allowed to meet Chavez or any other Western A. A. A. boxer, of whom there are more than 400, until he qualifies with that organization."

Rivers, a Fullerton lad, and Chavez, a Santa Anan, are natural rivals and efforts have been made for weeks to have them matched. Rivers is a weekly main eventer at the Delhi "Barn" while Chavez often appears on the cards at the Orange County A. C. Both have a big local following.

DISILLUSIONED CARD SQUAD BACK HOME

NO CHANCE THIS YEAR

For the first time since Harry Kipke made the All-American team in 1925, Michigan hasn't a player this year who is likely to receive that coveted football honor.

CRITICAL WEEK IS REACHED IN PREP FOOTBALL

Now that "bye" week has passed on in the Coast Preparatory League football circles, interest centers around the eight teams in four games slated to take place Saturday or Monday afternoon.

Glendale and Santa Ana will clash at Glendale next Monday. After losing to Long Beach by two breaks which the alert Jackrabbit crew gobbled up and turned into touchdowns, the Glendale Dynamiters may prove the undoing of the Saint eleven. Santa Ana has a scoreless tie with Long Beach as the only blot on its record, except a 14 to 12 defeat by Covina in a non-conference contest last week.

Alhambra will battle Pasadena in the headline attraction. The Moors and Bulldogs are deadlocked at the to pof the Coast league parade with a perfect record. Each team has annexed three games in three starts. The game probably will decide the championship of the league unless a series of upsets breaks forth during the remainder of the ssason.

This game, to take place on Horrell field in Pasadena, will find the Moors against stiff opposition, bu the fast-traveling Riff squad is favored.

The Moors, tutored by Coach George Hobbs, have by far the most impressive record in the Coast Conference. Like Compton of the Bay league they have run amuck in every league start this season and Alhambra should walk off the field Saturday afternoon on the long end of the count. The three victims of the Moors are San Diego, Long Beach and Whittier. Four touchdowns in every league game so far this season is insurance enough to install Alhambra a prime favorite to take Coach John Thurman's Bulldogs into camp and continue on to a Coast prep title.

Cellar division honors will be at stake in a game to be played at Whittier when Coach "Mike" Morrow escorts his San Diego Hilltoppers to the Poet institution. San Diego may pull a surprise and thrash Coach Madden's Poets as eac hgame that the San Diego eleven plays is an improvement over previous battles.

Coach Sprong will take his Long Beach Jackrabbits to the lair of the South Pasadena Tigers Saturday afternoon in what promises to be a close argument. The Tigers have dropped all three of their league starts and are due to take on a new lease of life with the Long Beach game in the offing. After the loss of three games Coach Merle Green is conducting a shakeup which may strengthen the team for the Jackrabbit-Tiger tiff.

Emanuel Invades East In January

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Armand Emanuel, Pacific Coast heavyweight, will go to New York in January in quest of an opportunity to meet the leading heavyweight contenders for the championship vacated by Gene Tunney, he said here today.

THREE IN THIS RACE

All-America fullback honors for this year, according to many critics, will go to either Tommy of Stanford, Nagurski of Minnesota, or McLain of Iowa, with Hoffman having the choice.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 6.—Colonel Ed Fletcher may think in terms of millions for himself, but he thinks first of his sons' health when it comes to family matters.

As a result, all of his sons except the youngest are six feet tall or taller and all are proficient athletes. The youngest, Eugene, who is 14, already stands five feet, 10 inches in his socks and bids fair to beat his daddy at altitude.

The colonel, who has owned or controlled more real estate and water systems in this county than any other two persons, began early to plan his boys' physical career. He started early as a football player and breast stroke swimmer. Apparently the breast stroke idea "caught," for all the boys have demonstrated their proficiency in this sport.

Ed jr., now 28, won several medals in California for swimming before graduating from the University of California. Charles, 26, won and held for a year the national breast stroke title for 220 yards while a student at Stanford. Lawrence, 24, former member of the Stanford swimming team, won medals for the breast stroke and added basketball as a minor accomplishment. Willis went north to the University of Oregon, and now, at 21, has won his colors for breast stroke swimming at that institution. Steve, 19, enters college this year. What is his record? For two years straight he has won the Pacific Coast 220-yard breast stroke championship. He entered the University of Oregon. Even Ferdinand, 17, and Eugene, 14, have their quota of medals for breast stroke swimming in high school and grade school.

There's no secret formula for this family's phenomenal record. They're athletically inclined at the outset and the colonel has encouraged all of his boys to take plenty of rigorous exercise. Sickness here is not known.

The championship in swimming they hold number into the dozens. Charles possibly has won more fame than any of the others as a member of the star Stanford university swimming and water polo teams of 1923-24.

The younger ones are coming along, however, and Colonel Fletcher promises to give the world a few more broken records during the next few years.

FAST ON THE BASES

Wally Shaner, rookie outfielder bought by the Reds this year, showed plenty of speed on the bases in the Southern league this year. He pilfered 37 bases.

BEARS BEGIN WORK FOR HUSKY CONTEST

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 6.—Buckled down over the present situation in the Pacific Coast conference, the golden Bears of California today launched into practice for their game with Washington at Seattle next Saturday. If California defeats Washington, which is quite likely and wins from Stanford, which is not so likely, it will be tied with Washington for championship honors.

HOOT AND SLIDES

Henry L. Farrell

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Although Michigan is a bust in football this year, its wrestlers are the favorites to win the conference wrestling championship . . . The old stage coach at West Point has been condemned . . . And the victorious football players have to take their ride of triumph up the hill in a motor bus . . . Johnny Risko has raised his rate to 25 grand per show . . . Al Schacht and Nick will stay with Walter Johnson in Washington . . . Although "Bucky" Harris wanted to take Al to Detroit with him . . . Hornsby will get a swell bonus to help moving expenses to Chicago . . . "Bud" Sprague, the Army captain, tried to find out who busted his nose with the first punch in the Harvard game.

ON WITH THE ARGUMENT

It has been demonstrated again this season that players make a football coach. And it has been demonstrated also that a coach makes his players. So the argument stands as it always will stand.

There have been some pretty good examples this year, however, to support the contention that the greatest coaching skill cannot function without some good material.

Pop Yost took one good look at the squad which reported the first day at Michigan and decided he was not coaching the team. Tad Weiman, he decided, was to be the coach of that buncn.

Knute Rockne knew last spring that there weren't going to be any horsemen or horses at Notre Dame this fall and he interviewed himself plenty to that effect. He admitted modestly that he couldn't do anything with the boys.

Grand Old Man Stagg must have known that there was only a slight chance for Chicago to win a game, but there was no out for the grand old man. He said nothing and went into training to take it.

Michigan, Notre Dame and Chicago had no material to work with, it is apparent, but Harvard and Navy had much better material than the early season scores indicated and the old grads whimpered.

Lou Little at Georgetown and Chick Meehan at New York university continue to produce winning teams without any abundance of spectacular talent and Bill Roper somehow manages to win some games season after season at Princeton.

MOVE OVER, YOU WOWS!

He has shown that he can carry the ball in the open field with as much skill as the other red head and in addition he can charge, kick, pass, block and tackle as well as the immortals with whom he is being mentioned.

There is no doubt that Cagle gets help past the line of scrimmage and well through the secondary by magnificent interference, but the Illinois "7"

WALSH THINKS PAOLINO, OTTO BOTH TERRIBLE

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Among those present at Madison Square Garden last night, for no reason at all, were 14,356 persons who won't be heavyweight champions of the world. At that they didn't differ very radically from a couple of chumps they were looking at, except in one detail. The chumps didn't pay their way in. One of life's minor absurdities is that they didn't have to pay their way out, either.

As a matter of fact, everything was taken in good part as Paolino Uzcudun, the well-known human being, just managed to stay in front of Otto Von Porat at the bell, ending the tenth and final round, for the chumps had put on a good show, even if it was strictly five-a-day stuff heavyweight champions in prospect—not even in sarcasm.

Paolino never will be champion because a champion must fight and this guy can't. As for Otto, he can't fight because he won't. He simply was afraid to let a punch go until Paolino was in there with one eye and then it was the eighth round and too late for anything practical to be done about it.

He Hit Floor Nicely

They said before the fight that Otto was the hardest hitter in the world and maybe that is so. Personally, I want to know about the way he hit the floor for the second of two knockdowns scored by Paulino during the fifth. I have seen a lot of weak hitters sock the floor much harder than that.

Otto undoubtedly has come a long way since that night in the same ring several years ago when he decided to tender his resignation in the eighth or ninth round because that awful rough fellow, Martin Burke, was dusting him on the porcelain with his brutal finkertips. But that's one thing about Otto. He could come a very long way and still be approximately nowhere.

The meek may possess the earth, but never the heavyweight championship.

The conspicuous commentary of Paolino's ability is that, even though he scored a knockdown in the first few minutes of play and obviously had his man thoroughly impressed, he needed the bell in the last round to make him the winner. Another round, maybe another punch, might have changed everything, except the writer's mind. Chumps, they were, and chumps, they remained.

Otto let the Basque maul him vigorously for a minute or so of the first round and then made the first of two mistakes. I think the other was that he ever went in there in the first place. Anyhow, he slipped a long left swing and then remained with his chin teed up, instead of countering or covering.

"Ooze" Lets One Go

Then he got up and up and rode rapidly away on his kiddie kar. He was still sight-seeing at the end of the round. Some prefer walking tours in Europe, accompanied by popular novelists.

Anyway, Otto visited everywhere for the next two rounds before he discovered that this strange looking specimen in front of him, and maybe I mean behind, had nothing but a grimace. He ventured to let go a right hand near the close of the third round. Two more followed and neither was of great benefit to the recipient. Whereupon, Otto's heart expanded to its maximum limit of an inch and a half and he won the fourth round away off by himself.

He also was doing well in the fifth, having stung the human being with a left hook, when he nearly blocked a left with his countenance, accepted another in the same place and then took careful aim at the floor. His accuracy was beyond reproach.

Sight-seeing, in consequence was Otto's program for the next three rounds. He was just about to climb forward to the driver's seat with the megaphone man when in the eighth a hard right hand closed Uzcuzdun's eye.

Thereafter he couldn't go wrong and didn't. He won the last two rounds without a contest. Maybe some day this will turn out to be not quite so terribly unimportant as it seemed last night.

TENNIS CHAMPION LABORS

After he had become the undisputed world's tennis champion, Rene Lacoste was ordered to go to work by his father, a multi-millionaire French automobile manufacturer. After taking a course in the factory he was sent to the United States to study airplane motors. He is shown at the right in the photograph below. With him is Louis Viking, Jr., son of the designer of the Hispano-Suiza airplane engine.

FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(INS)—Fordham and West Virginia, two young elevens which have been travelling at top speed after receiving a disastrous but valuable baptism of fire early in the season, clash at Yankee stadium today in the leading grid-iron engagement of the day. West Virginia is a slight favorite, owing to its impressive victories over the strong Pittsburgh and Lafayette teams.

Fordham has defeated Holy Cross and Washington and Jefferson, but lost to New York university. The attack of the Maroons is based on the sensational forward passing of Quarterback Larry Dallaire, who has averaged three successful passes out of every five attempts this season. This is the first meeting between the two teams.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Despite the fact that Army is favored to defeat Notre Dame decisively in New York next Saturday, Coach Jones is not taking the Hoosiers lightly. The Soldiers, all of whom are in perfect condition, will get plenty of hard work this week in preparation for the classic. Only a light kicking and passing drill was held yesterday.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 6.—Harvard's football warriors are practicing several new running and passing plays for use in the Penn game Saturday. Arnold Horween, head coach, saw the Penn-Chicago game and has explained to his men just what kind of an offensive they can expect.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Leon Westgate, Penn varsity center, has recovered from a finger injury and will start against Harvard, but Gene Kuen has supplanted Ralph Monk, injured guard.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 6.—While Navy rooters are cheerful because of the team's excellent showing in its last two games, the coaches realize that the Midshipmen will have a tough customer on their hands next Saturday in Michigan. Two Navy scouts saw the Wolverines trim Illinois and were greatly impressed by their showing.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—Georgetown, which defeated one unbeaten team last Saturday when it vanquished New York university, is working hard this week to defeat another unbeaten eleven, Carnegie Tech. All the Hilltoppers are in good shape.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 6.—The tables have been turned on the Gopher "Bone Crushers." Practically the whole team is suffering from major or minor injuries. Coach Spears was forced to abandon practice yesterday.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 6.—Despite the fact that Chicago has lost every important game this year while Wisconsin remains undefeated, the Badgers are taking no chances on an "upset" when they meet the luckless Maroons here Saturday, the Badgers are training hard.

CALLAHAN KNOCKOUT IS ALMOST FATAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Billy Showers, St. Paul middleweight, who was carried from the ring unconscious last night after being knocked out by "Shuffle" Callahan, was reported resting comfortably at a hospital here today. Showers' improved condition fostered the hope of friends that no serious consequences would result from the terrible beating he received.

Callahan, a Chicago boxer, was taken in custody by police following the bout and held pending the outcome of Showers' injuries.

The bout, scheduled for 10 rounds, ended dramatically in the sixth when Showers stumped from his chair to the floor in a coma after his seconds had thrown a towel, signalising defeat. In that round the St. Paul fighter had been floored for three nine-counts.

Ad Wolgast, recently in a sanitarium, has recovered and is out again, and working on a farm.

Jimmy Coffroth, racing magnate at Tijuana and Tanforan, likes to talk about the days when he promoted championship boxing. Jim says the best fight of his time was between Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast at Point Richmond in 1910. Wolgast was nearly out in the twenty-third, but recovered and had Nelson helpless in the forty-second, when Referee Eddie Smith gave Wolgast the decision on a technical K. O.

"Nelson was so far gone I was afraid that if he did go down he would never get up again," Smith sai dafter the fight. The Dane was a physical marvel in the matter of assimilating blows and there seemed no limit to his endurance, until that Wolgast bout. It's possible the strain of that long struggle wrecked both men. Nelson was afterward knocked out by Owen Moran, and Wolgast was twice hammered up by little knockout Brown and then lost the title to Willie Ritchie.

Coffroth recalls that he paid elson the big purse of $12,500 to fight Wolgast, and that although Nelson was a little shy of a Wolgast match "he couldn't resist grabbing all that dough." This sounds funny in a day when champions of half Bat Nelson's reputation and ability think their services are worth at least four or five times as much, an dthen insist that their opponents must come in overweight so there will be no title "risked."

A funny thing in Western football developed recently when U. S. C., two to one favorite, played a 0-0 game with California. Next day appeared a vociferous alibi. U. S. C. claimed that California had sprinkled the gridiron too liberally the night before, so that the fast U. S. C. backs would slip too much in the mud to play their usual game. This sounds funny in the east, where any college football team expects to play in rain and mud, and perhaps slush an ice, sometime during a season. A team that must have a hard dry field to play on wouldn't do much scoring through a season east of the Rockies.

The film, "Football Commen Sense," directed by "Chick" Meehan, famous football coach, revealed the play, now illegal, that enabled Georgia Tech to win from the University of Georgia last year. The play, which is very complicated, was made clear by the use of slow-motion photography.

Another feature of the picture was the showing of the work of each linesman. As each play was shown, the particular player was dressed in white. The use of slow-motion was also helpful in making these plays clear.

CLASS HONORS EVEN IN AQUATIC TURNOUT

Class honors are just about even as far as representation is concerned in the girls' swimming turnout at Santa Ana high school. In fact, the seniors have only one more team member than the other two groups, which are tied.

Out of the 25 mermaids competing, nine are seniors, and the juniors and sophomores have eight apiece. This looks good for the "Lady Saints," especially for the next season of tank competition. Interclass rivalry is very strong at present and many matches are being scheduled.

Fernandez Scraps Mancillas Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Joe Mancillas, undefeated Mexican featherweight, will make his debut as a head-liner here tonight when he clashes with Ignacio Fernandez, the Filipino, in a 10-round bout.

GREAT ON DEFENSE, TOO

Tad Jones says that Cagle has football sense to an amazing degree and that on the defense he is uncanny in placing himself in the path of a play or a pass. West Point records show that he has knocked down and intercepted more passes than all the other Army players combined.

Cagle can throw a ball with such precision that an observer remarked about the Harvard game that if each man at whom he had tossed a pass had stood at attention the ball would have hit him between the eyes. That's shooting.

From the evidence and testimony then it would seem that Cadet Cagle is really very good.

IT DID BUST UP

Years ago in the infant days of the Walker boxing law, the New York Boxing commission was asked to join the National Boxing association. Joseph Johnson was then chairman of the New York commission, and he declined.

"Those things always end up with an inside political fight," he said.

The national association seems to have ended just that way.

Before the recent annual meeting of the association, which caused the internal dissensions, one of the officers asked a prominent sports writer for some suggestions to place before the meeting.

"Bust it up and all of you mind your own business," the writer suggested.

		TOTAL ELECTORAL VOTE—531								382	136

Here is a radio score card for your use as election returns come to you over the radio. It tabulates the states, their full electoral count, and leaves blanks for the Hoover and Smith votes.

As a state seems certain for either candidate, its apportionment of electoral votes may be inserted into his column, and so the national trend may be discerned.

In order to make this more interesting and instructive, the electoral votes for the candidates in 1924 are given alongside, so that comparisons can easily be made.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The nation will be able to remain at home tonight and listen to the greatest coverage of an election ever attempted by air.

From 4 p. m., coast time—when the first returns are available in the east—until the presidential election is determined, the National Broadcasting company will report to the remotest regions of the United States the progress of the voting.

A coast-to-coast network has been established for this major reporting effort, with KFI the official broadcasting station in Southern California. Several other stations, however, will broadcast returns.

From returns received from the United Press, Associated Press and International News, a large editorial staff, assembled by the NBC under the direction of David Lawrence, noted political writer, will edit the election news into a form easily understandable over the air. Figures will be kept to a minimum, according to NBC officials, the accurate interpretation of returns being the chief consideration of the radio news staff.

The New York studios of the NBC will be transformed into a huge "news room" for tonight. In addition to the editorial staff, a corps of tabulators with adding machines and huge ruled-off sheets will keep close check on the progress of the voting. Four leased wires of the United Press have been installed in the rooms where ordinarily prima donnas and violin virtuosos hold forth.

The United Press was the first American press association to permit its returns to be broadcast. In 1924, WEAF and a small network of stations in the east and midwest broadcast United Press returns of the Coolidge-Davis campaign.

The list of stations broadcasting the NBC election program tonight includes, in the far west, KOA, KPO, KGO, KFI, KGW, KOMO, KHO, KSL.

British Scribes To Be Guests Of Breakfast Club

The 14 visiting British newspapermen will be guests of honor at tomorrow morning's meeting of the Los Angeles Breakfast club, but whether they will make a few remarks over the radio from the meeting had not been revealed today.

However, the musical program arranged for the meeting and radio broadcast therefrom promises to be an exceptional one with the following artists representing the various nations:

France, Mme. Mureal Real, famous dramatic - tragedienne; Sweden, Mrs. Lalla Hicks, notable Swedish contralto; Spain, Senorita Gaby Koppes and Senor Erminio Valdes, dancers; Mexico, the famous Mexicon prima donna, Alma Real; Russia, Simon Gest, tenor, and Mme. Tumanova, contralto; Italy, Ludovico Tomarchia, leading tenor of San Carlo Opera company; Hawaii, Pauline Steele, composer, and "Lana," solo dancer and Hawaiian chorus; America, Mrs. Hennion Robinson's famous Madrigal Octet.

If some one tells you that he saw it in the Register's Classified section, it was well advertised. Phone 87.

Transported by Mrs. Samuel P. Nau's gift for description and happy phrasing, members of the Business and Professional Women's club yesterday in fancy trod the highways and byways of the Old World, pausing to enjoy the quaint sights of Madeira, gazing out over the Straits of Gibraltar from that huge fortified mass of stone, the Rock of Gibraltar, looking with awe into the famous Valley of the Kings in Egypt, and comparing the Amalfi Drive with the Grand Corniche.

Mrs. Nau has appeared at several meetings of the B. and P. W. so announcement that she was to tell of her most recent journey, when she and Mr. Nau and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Boyer took the famous "Mediterranean Cruise," attracted a large attendance yesterday at the weekly luncheon in St. Ann's inn.

After entering the Mediterranean, the party stopped first in Spain, where, according to the speaker, they felt decidedly at home, since the country was so similar to California. One point in particular reminded them forcibly of Brea canyon, so they were scarcely surprised to reach a little hamlet and see "Brea," as the name of the village.

Crossing from Algeciras in Spain, to the African coast, the Santa Ana travelers visited Algiers, which has developed into a very modern and beautiful city. But for the sake of contrast, the travelers visited the native portion whose squalid sights were only equalled by its terrible odors.

Sicily, Naples and the famous "Blue Grotto," the Adriatic and Venice the beautiful, to the eastern coast and Dubrevnik, to Athens (where they were made homesick by eating Sunkist oranges from California) and the Holy Land, Mrs. Nau led her hearers in fancy.

While all details of her trip were of much interest to her hearers, Mrs. Nau's account of the Madeira Islands was of especial charm, and it was easy to picture the quaint bullock carts, the rock inclines of the mountains, a visit to the inn high on a mountain top, and a thrilling descent to the coast again, via a toboggan slide whose tracks were kept greased by a native with a can of grease!

To complete her talk, Mrs. Nau presented each member with an artistic post card of some Italian scene, and showed examples of various kinds of handwork.

Mrs. John Tessmann, president of the club, made several announcements including that of the district meeting at Downey next Saturday afternoon and evening. At that time Miss Emily Knoubuhl of New York City, national executive secretary; Miss Annie Woodale of Berkeley, a national vice-president, and other distinguished women, will be present. A number of members from the Santa Ana club plan to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Mildred Reinhardt was introduced as a new member, representing the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, where she is in the cashier department. Two guests were also welcomed, Mrs. Barnard and Mrs. Frances Beeson.

MAY AND MITCHELL, HEADS OF G. O. P., DEMOCRATIC GROUPS HERE, BOTH CLAIM VICTORY

With 266 votes in the electoral college necessary to win the presidential election, Herbert Hoover will catch at least 336 ballots as a result of the nationwide voting today. That's the way W. C. May, in charge of Hoover headquarters here, outlined the situation on election day. On the other hand, May predicted, Hoover may gain as many as 382 electoral votes.

Both men agree that Herbert Hoover will carry Orange county by a safe majority, May placing it at 15,000 and Mitchell hooking his estimate on the 8000 notch.

May predicted a majority of 250,000 to 300,000 in California for Hoover. But Mitchell stated that he believes the contest will be very close with Smith carrying the state by a small lead.

Both estimators claimed Nebraska, which has been regarded as a contested state since Senator Norris gave his support to Smith.

The postoffice this holiday season will have more reason than ever before to shout its Christmas battle-cry, "Mail Early," it was stated at the Santa Ana post office.

The reason is that Christmas comes on Tuesday.

"The day of the week on which Christmas falls has quite a lot to do with deliveries," said T. E. Stephenson, postmaster.

"Christmas coming Tuesday means a heavy concentration of deliveries on one day. Everything that comes Sunday and Monday will have to go out on Monday or hold over until Wednesday, for the postmaster general has issued an order to all post offices that there will be no deliveries on Christmas day excepting special delivery. Postal employes are to have the whole day off, just enough force being kept on hand to make the regular dispatches of mail.

"In our office, arrangements will be made to make complete deliveries every day of the holiday period, excepting Sunday and Christmas. We will meet whatever congestion occurs. However, anyone sending mail from Santa Ana must keep in mind the probability of delays along the way and delays in securing delivery at the other end. I'd advise everyone to mail their parcels early enough to reach their destination not later than Friday, December 21. Greeting cards for Santa Ana delivery should be in our office not later than the evening of Friday, the 21st."

The postmaster urged that everybody who has not his mail address on file at the post office should immediately write a card to the office giving the address. He said that scores of newcomers have not filed their addresses, and trust to luck that their mail will reach them. It is especially important, said Stephenson, that all changes within the city be listed in the post office directory.

DON AWARDED HIGH HONOR AT JAYSEE MEET

The paper rated second in front page makeup but as San Mateo, which received first place, is situated in the northern section of the state, the Don had the best in Southern California.

This is the second year of the association in California. At the election of officers, San Mateo was awarded the presidency and the next convention. Other officers were Compton, vice president; Long Beach, secretary, and Pomona, treasurer.

Among different things discussed during the meeting was the idea of developing news service by radio. San Mateo and Santa Ana have been transmitting college news regularly by radio and are making a success of the venture.

Santa Ana was represented at the convention by Ray Lindman, editor of the Don; Adelaide Mueller, news editor; Terry Stephenson, business manager; Ruth Ann Walker and Jane Stewart, associate editors; William Roach, sports editor; Carl Bergman, circulation manager; Myron Dungan and Dorothy McDonald, advertising managers, and Lois Allen, proof reader.

SUNSET BEACH, Nov. 6.—Clifford Neill is building an artistic studio on the ocean front. Mr. Neill studied painting a year and a half in Paris and in San Francisco. He was a newspaper artist three years in Los Angeles.

COMMITTEE TO BACK PLAN FOR VET HOSPITALS

The rehabilitation committee of the state organization of the American Legion passed resolutions urging the veterans bureau to locate two general hospitals in California, one in the northern section of the state and one in the south, it was revealed here today by Charles Van Wyk, immediate past commander of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, upon his return from San Francisco, where he attended the committee meeting as the only representative present from the southern part of the state.

Pointing to initiation by Orange county chapter 23, Disabled World War Veterans, of the movement to secure location of a general hospital in Orange county, Van Wyk said that American Legionnaires throughout the state have taken up the proposition and are solidly behind the program of more hospitals in California.

Agitation started by the county body, it was said, has served to impress upon the public and war veterans alike the fact that hospitalization in California is inadequate for the needs of men who have served the nation in past wars.

It also has served to reveal in an impressive way the fact that many wounded men have come into California because of the climate and better living conditions obtaining here. Many of the men need general hospital service at times, and Van Wyk said it is intention of the American Legion to work energetically for at least two more general plants in the state.

In the opinion of local men, Orange county will have an opportunity for selection as the location of one of the plants if favorable action is taken by the bureau and congress.

VICTIMS OF AUTO CRASH IMPROVED

The conditions of Walter Pixley, Orange furniture dealer, and E. E. Piper, 1014 West Walnut street, Santa Ana, a salesman in the Pixley store, are reported as satisfactory today. The men were injured when a car driven by Piper crashed into a parked truck on North Glassell street, Orange, as he avoided hitting a dog that ran in front of the car.

Pixley had just purchased a large new sedan and had had it less than an hour when the accident occurred. The car was wrecked. Both men were badly cut about their faces and hands. Piper was not so seriously hurt as Pixley but is suffering from shock and bruises. Pixley's leg was caught in such a way that the gears had to be shifted in order to release him.

Junior College To Have Outside Student Center

Planned to relieve congestion in the halls, the junior college is going to have an outside student center for the use of all students.

Cement benches and walks will be provided by the board of education and work will be started soon. The site for this campus improvement will be in the grove of trees east of the junior college building. In the center of the space, a glass covered bulletin board will be erected for general use. This will be protected from the weather and rain.

The cement benches will be placed at convenient places around the center. A small bench also will be provided for the use of the executive board and will bear a special insignia.

COUNCILMAN DELAYED

SEAL BEACH, Nov. 6.—Councilman E. J. Hughes is detained in Kansas on account of the illness of his wife and was unable to return in time to cast his vote at the general election as he had expected to do. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and son left Seal Beach the first of August on a two-month visit with relatives in Kansas and Illinois, making the trip by auto. Mr. Hughes has been manager on the Bixby ranch north of Seal Beach for a number of years.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

ORANGE, Nov. 6.—A meeting of the American Legion auxiliary will be held Wednesday afternoon in the American Legion clubhouse to complete plans for the American Legion Armistice day parade. The auxiliary expects to serve between 250 and 300 at the dinner in the Legion clubhouse.

Plans Made For Student Loan Drive

Arrangements are being made for the 1929 student loan fund drive, to be held early next year, according to an announcement made today by E. M. Nealley, chairman of the student loan committee.

Since its establishment, in 1921, the student loan fund has made contributions of $5479.97 to 25 students. Five students have repaid $1200 to the fund. At the present time, $4,279.97 is out in loans to students.

Last year the high school penny drive for the fund netted $43.69 and the junior college drive netted $48.17. Loan officials have expressed the wish that the coming campaign will exceed previous attempts.

At the present time there are several students of superior ability who will be unable to complete their education unless assisted by this service and according to Nealley, there is no money in the fund at the present time.

JAYSEE ROUND TABLE TO HOLD MEETING HERE

The San Bernardino representatives will discuss the question of the junior college as a two-year institution. Pasadena delegates will discuss the six-four-four plan of student classification. The topic chosen by citrus regards financial problems of junior college. Santa Ana representatives will talk on the Y. W. C. A.

Delegates first will meet in college hall at 3:30 and will adjourn at 5:30. At 6:30 the group will meet in Ketner's cafe for dinner and a second session.

KNX DEDICATION TO BE HELD SOON

Scouts Pass Out Election Handbills

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 6.—Newport Beach Boy Scouts are doing their part toward getting out the vote today. Troop No. 5 of the local Scouts recently had a large number of hand bills printed and today the Scouts were making a house to house canvass of the harbor district passing out the bills.

The bills read: "Remember to vote."

WANT OLD BLADES

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The British Isles have ceased worrying about what to do with old razor blades and graphophone needles. They send them to the Church Lads' Brigade. Blades still in good condition are resharpened and sold.

SOUSA HARP SOLOIST

When she joins the big "Sousa family" which travels in four luxurious Pullman cars whenever John Philip Sousa and his band appear in concert, Miss Winifred Bambrick, harpist with the organization, is accompanied by her mother, who comes from their home in Quebec to chaperon her daughter on her travels. Miss Bambrick will be heard as harpist when Sousa's band appears in the Santa Ana high school auditorium Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Word received here this afternoon from L. E. Behymer advised W. S. Spicer, president of the Santa Ana Lions club, that John Philip Sousa will not arrive in Los Angeles Thursday until 1 p. m., and that it would be impossible for him to be in Santa Ana in time to speak at the luncheon club meeting on that day.

Just two more days, and then Santa Ana is to have the rare privilege of hearing that master composer and director, Lieut-Com. John Philip Sousa, America's beloved "March King," who will appear Thursday with his band organization, in a matinee concert at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Polytechnic High school.

This nation-wide tour with which Sousa and his band are celebrating the conductor's fiftieth year as composer and conductor, is the twentieth transcontinental trip for the organization, and is proving the most popular in point of general interest. For wherever the band and its famous conductor pause to appear in concert, they are met with wild enthusiasm and interest.

It was in 1878, during the presidency of Rutherford B. Hayes, that Sousa, then a young man 24 years old, first wielded a baton as leader of a Washington orchestra. Two years later in 1880, Hayes appointed him as director of the United States Marine band. For 12 years, Sousa directed this famous organization, and then President Benjamin Harrison regretfully accepted his resignation that he might form his own musical organization, and ever since that time, Sousa has been appearing at the head of his own band.

Probably the most popular of his hundreds of compositions is the "Stars and Stripes Forever." It is interesting to learn the history of this famous march.

Sousa was returning from Europe and as he was pacing the deck of the steamship he sensed the rhythmic beat of a band. There was a sort of tom-tom cadence. It persisted. Gradually the march took form. Throughout the voyage the band seemed to be playing—ever taking on some definite march melody. Not a note was put on paper but when New York was reached the march was complete. He set it down on music sheets and "Stars and Stripes Forever" as it is known today by millions of people was written. Not a note was ever changed.

Harp Soloist Popular

Of the soloists and artists that accompany the Golden Jubilee tour of the composer, none is more popular than the harpist, Miss Winifred Bambrick. Miss Bambrick hails from Quebec, and is a soloist who has appeared with orchestras of leading musical comedy and operetta productions of New York City.

Thursday's concert in Santa Ana will begin at 3 p. m. and seats may still be obtained from the Santa Ana bookstore. The famous conductor is expected to reach the city in time to be guest of honor at the mid-day meeting of the Lions club at St. Ann's Inn. The club is making the luncheon an open meeting, and those wishing to attend may secure tickets by telephoning the Inn at 626.

CIANFONI PLAN IS INDORSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Organization of a boys' band of 50 pieces was authorized by the city council last night following presentation by D. C. Cianfoni, leader of the Santa Ana municipal band, of plans he has for creation of such a musical unit.

"Within five years I believe we can build here in Santa Ana a group of at least 250 good band musicians, in which event it will not be necessary for us to go to outside points to get good players to take places on our senior band when it is needed for a concert or parade," Cianfoni said, in explaining one of the features of his proposition.

Pointing out that it is expensive for the city to present the municipal band in public, the band leader said that with the organization of a musical unit of boys ranging from 10 to 20 years the city would have a band available for small celebrations and without cost to the municipality.

Boys Will Pay Dues

As outlined to the council, the band director proposes to charge the boys dues of 50 cents a week for identification with the band and for the instruction they will receive. The members also will have to provide their own uniforms and instruments—except, in the latter equipment, two or three pieces that the city will be asked to pay for because their cost is more than could be afforded by the boys who probably will play them.

Cianfoni explained that the dues will take care of the major costs of maintenance of the boys' band, and commented on the possibility of the council being asked for $300 to $400 a year with which to buy music and meet expenses of other types that would be too large for the boys to carry.

"A splendid proposition and one that will benefit the city in many ways," the council members chorused, as they voted unanimous approval and directed the bandmaster to proceed with the proposed junior band.

Adopt Paving Plans

Plans and specifications were adopted and a resolution was passed declaring intention of the council to order paving on a number of the streets in the eastern section of the city, the paving cost being estimated at around $40,000.

Asphaltic concrete, five inches thick, will be laid on the following streets: Poinsettie, Sixth to Washington; Garfield, First to Sixth; Sixth, Stafford, Brown and Vance, from Poinsettia to Garfield.

Application of J. A. Kyle, of 319 South Broadway, for permission to make improvements at 209-11 West Chestnut was referred to the planning commission.

Request of Guy Matics that the property at 1249 South Van Ness be changed from the residence to the neighborhood business zone was denied.

J. T. Van Why was granted permission to erect an oil station on the northwest corner of Fifth and French streets and Utt and May were granted permission to establish a nursery sales yard on property of M. Nisson, at Main and Santa Clara.

Using quantities of yellow dahlias, Mrs. W. F. Long of Laguna Beach decorated her house in charming manner for the pretty bridge luncheon with which she entertained yesterday in honor of her sister, Mrs. E. E. Keech of this city whose birthday anniversary it was.

Gay little doilies in yellow, blue, and green, completed the color scheme used at the luncheon table. Following the serving of a delicious luncheon, a large birthday cake, topped with 21 candles was presented Mrs. Keech. Each guest blew out a candle and made a wish for the honoree.

Bridge was enjoyed in the afternoon and resulted in attractive gifts being received by Mrs. E. M. Nealley and Mrs. Roy Hall, holders of high scores. After the hostess had awarded the bridge prizes she presented Mrs. Keech with a basket of lovely handkerchiefs which were the gifts of the friends gathered at the Long home for the luncheon.

Mrs. Long's guests included Mrs. E. E. Keech, Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh, Mrs. J. E. Gowen, Mrs. A. M. Gardner, Mrs. E. M. Nealley, Mrs. Roy Hall, Mrs. W. E. Otis, Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie, Mrs. Charles Carothers, of Santa Ana and Mrs. Ruby Hickox of Laguna Beach.

Executive Board Members Are Luncheon Guests In Placentia

Members of the executive board of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs were guests yesterday at a meeting of the Placentia Round Table club when several talks on the modern trend of art and music were given. The affair was presided over by Mrs. Joseph Thurston of Laguna Beach, vice president of the county federation.

County presidents were asked to tell of the outstanding programs that have been given by their clubs recently, which brought out the fact, that while women still enjoy programs devoted to music and the arts, they are beginning to study civic affairs, not only for their own community betterment, but for that of the state and nation as well. A number of the clubs had emphasized welfare programs, it was pointed out.

Mrs. A. P. Nelson of Santa Ana, who is state chairman of cooperation with war veterans, and law enforcement committee chairman, thanked the women for their co-operation, reporting that 18 veterans who do not receive any other compensation have been adopted by as many clubs in the district, that extend them cheer in many ways.

Mrs. Ida Randall Bolles of Laguna Beach, county chairman of art, brought an interesting and diverting message, showing the modern tendency of art. Mrs. Bolles said that she believed that the tendency to pervert and distort everything from the beautiful to woodenness was unhealthy. She added that from the present maze of socalled art there would emerge a school much better than anything that has gone before. She illustrated her talk with drawings of some of the best examples of the impressionist style, ending with an amusing one of her own.

Mrs. Harry Sears of Anaheim, county chairman of literature, read a group of modern poems, from different writers, and compared them to the older writers.

Following luncheon, which was served in the Presbyterian church, by the members of the Social circle, Miss Elnore May Spencer of Laguna Beach, recently of the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston, told of the modern trend of music.

Mrs. Albert Launer, county president, announced the Southern District convention which will be held at Del Mar November 19 to 24.

The Buena Park club will be hostess for the January meeting.

BRIGHT COLORS FOR FALL

Bright colors are doing their share toward the glorification of the American girl this fall. Sportswomen have adopted a new medium of brightness that has the advantage of welcome warmth —the big woolen scarf, in checks, stripes or geometric designs. Frances Stevens, member of a Broadway musical show, displays one here.

I think that cream tomato soup, tomato bisque if you would be real swanky, is just about the most inane flavor conceivable. I face it with the fortitude of a martyr and get the job over as quickly as soup acoustics will permit.

But—a delicate, thin cream of tomato soup with the subtle flavoring of a small quantity of minced clams is something else again. You taste it....taste it again....and wonder if the thick part is rice or corn.... and what IS that different and delicious flavor?....And then your sense of taste wakes up and announces it as nothing but a little bit of canned, minced clam added to the soup just before serving.

VEAL BIRDS

1 pound veal steak
Sliced bacon
1 tablespoon chopped onion
Flour, salt and pepper
Paprika and parsley

If you have a friendly butcher he will cut the pound of veal steak almost as thin as chiffon..if he isn't that kind, you'll have to pound it thin. A pound will serve three people.

Cut the veal in 2-inch squares and pound each piece as thin and flat as possible. Dust with pepper and salt and on each piece lay a strip of bacon just the length of the veal and over this a sprinkle of the minced onion.

Roll up and fasten with a tooth pick. Have some melted butter and bacon fat ready, dip the birds into seasoned flour, then into the melted fat. Have a frying pan hot with a little fat in it, brown the birds quickly, pour in enough hot water to nearly cover them, cover the pan tightly and simmer until the veal is tender. This takes 3-4 of an hour. Lift the bird onto a hot place, thicken the gravy, strain and pour over them, garnish with paprika and minced parsley.

The Veal Birds and the gravy that covers them have a calory value of 1500, or 500 for each of the three portions. Half of the quantity is found in the proteins, the rest in the bacon fat and the little bit of starch in the gravy.

THE SKIN ONE LOVES TO TOUCH

Have YOU that kind of skin? At some time in your life you did have, but as time went on and your habits of diet settled into place, something happened to that lovely skin—it was gone before you woke up to the fact. It took time to destroy it and it takes time to even partially replace the damage, but a good deal can be done by persistent use of iron-bearing foods, the tonic that produces good blood, pink cheeks, and skin that is NOT the season' newest shade in beige.

The very best of these foods is SPINACH, with its high iron content and its other mineral elements. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this valuable leaflet, GOOD COMPLEXIONS FROM SPINACH.

Miss Merle Ryan, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Ryan of Garden Grove, who has been employed in Santa Ana for the past two years became the bride Sunday evening of Earl Walker of Corona at a pretty ceremony which took place at her home.

When a congenial little group of friends last night motored down to the ranch home of Mrs. Robert Jeffrey at Irvine, for an informal evening of bridge, the guests staged a little surprise on their hostess by appearing in curious and amazing costumes.

The effect, especially as the group gathered around the bridge tables, was amazing to say the least. Her Chinese costume seemed to bring good luck to Miss Beth Phillips, who took first prize, while prizes for second and third scores were presented Mrs. Henry Williams (Elaine Wharton) and Miss Janey Wilde.

To complete the evening, Mrs. Jeffrey served a two-course supper.

Founder's Day Committee Will Meet Friday

In anticipation of the annual Founders' day of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, which is an event celebrated with much enthusiasm each February, Mrs. H. L. Backs of Anaheim, chairman of that department in the Fourth District P.-T. A. (Orange county), has called a meeting of the Founder's day or program chairmen of all the associations comprising the Fourth district.

This meeting is to be held Friday afternoon, November 9, at 2 o'clock, in the Girls' League room of Anaheim high school, and is called for the purpose of starting plans for a program which the chairman hopes to make an outstanding event of the year. Mrs. C. C. Noble of Los Angeles, will be introduced as principal speaker.

She was the "guide, philosopher and friend" of the Santa Ana organization, working here with Mrs. Earl Morris and other of the pioneers in the association.

Household Suggestions

SAL-SODA WATER

CURLED EDGES

If your rugs curl at the edges or if they have become ruffled by cleaning, you can resize them easily. Prepare a solution of one pound of glue and one gallon of water. Dissolve over hot water and paint the back of the rug with it. Using a large brush. Leave the rug on its face until thoroughly dry.

SOFT BLANKETS

If blankets, after being washed and dried, are beaten with an ordinary carpet beater, the wool will be light and soft.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

Come to think of it, have you seen a beautiful and delicate heroine rescued in the movies for a long time? Can you remember the first movies with the entire plot consisting of getting the fragile flower of womanhood off the track just before the fire-breathing limited snorted around the corner, or the stalwart hero dashing from one cake of ice to another just before the fainting bud of peerless womanhood was dashed over the waterfall onto the cruel rocks below, to say nothing of lusty firemen picking said buds off fiftieth story window sills just before the wall toppled over, and other trifling situations fraught with grave danger?

A New York newspaper comments that "movie rescues now are no longer necessary, and if they exist at all it is quite possible that the strong male is the recipient of the favor rather than the poor, weak, gingham-clad girl. For the fact is that the movies, in common with the rest of the world, have come face to face with the great feminist movement."

And again pops up the old question—are women, and men, too, happier now than in the day when it was a taken-for-granted thing that the fragile bud should be rescued by the strong oak in the last reel?

HER RING

There's a happy little housemaid in East Orange, N. J., these days for her fiance came over on the Graf Zeppelin as a machinist, bringing her engagement ring with him. Other girls, wealthy girls, have been busy all week buying the souvenir handkerchiefs and boutonnieres and other trifles that continental buyers sent home to their firms on the G. Z. But not Miss Dora Stoecke, wearing the first engagement ring ever so transported.

It just reminds one that it's becoming increasingly difficult to have a romance in an unusually romantic manner, what with captains refusing to perform marriages at sea, and with every Tom, Dick and Harry getting married at a world's altitude record height in an airplane. Now who'll go Dora one better?

Speaking of the Zep, the nonchalance with which women are clamoring for berths on the return trip, regardless of the S. O. S. call sent out because of the limping fin on the way over, is just one more evidence of modern woman's poise and preference for the adventurous to the safe.

Yesterday's woman wouldn't have ridden first on anything, even if she had the price of a ticket, and even if there had been anything spectacularly first on which to ride. She didn't yet have a background which fostered a yen for the unusual. Or, am I all wrong? Do reports of the first balloon trip, the first auto ride, the first airplane flight, include Women as passengers? I think not.

If some one tells you that he saw it in the Register's Classified section, it was well advertised. Phone 87.

Shows Style

Now that so many girls are allowing their hair to grow again, this style of "bob" is to be seen, in increasing numbers, on Fifth Avenue daily! The lovely New York girl, illustrating the new style, is Myrtle Miller, of 325 West 89th Street.

She says, "I am certainly delighted that my hair has gotten so much fluffier and more vigorous. And I am not troubled with dandruff any more. At the time I started letting my hair grow, I began caring for it, the way which is all the rage among New York girls, now; and I attribute its improvement to this method. All I do is put a little Danderine on my brush each time I dress my hair. It makes my hair easy to arrange and holds it in place. It soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month, now. All my friends admire the way Danderine makes my hair look so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes all dust and refreshes the scalp, gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the big 35c bottles. A delightly fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl! —Adv.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinymites, high on the mast, all wondered, while the time flew past, how soon they'd be discovered by the captain down below. They felt that he would look around until the Tinymites were found. Then, what would happen to them all, of course they didn't know.

Said Coppy, "Well, we all can rest away up in this queer crow's nest. That's what they call this place we're in. My, what a funny name." Just then the captain shouted, loud, "Hey! Way up there! You Tiny crowd had better come down here on deck. Just what is this, a game?"

"Whoops! We're discovered!" Clowny said. "Oh, my, oh, my, I really dread to climb down to the deck again. I wonder what's in store. The captain sure will start a fuss, if he is still real mad at us." But Scouty snapped, "Oh, let's go down ere he begins to roar."

So, down they started, very slow. The captain watched and laughed, "Ho! Ho! You thought I wouldn't find you," he exclaimed. "Well, we shall see! I'm not a very ugly gent, but you deserve some punishment for causing me to take a flop, and playing tricks on me."

Soon they were down, right by his side, and promptly little Carpy cried, "We're really very sorry. Please forgive us, just this once." "Oh, no!" the captain answered. "You shall all have bits of work to do. If you should go unpunished, you would think that I'm a dunce."

So, everyone was put to work and warned he shouldn't try to shirk. "Now first of all," the captain said, "I'll have a job that's neat. 'Twill just take one, so Clowny can step out and be a waiter man." Thus Clowny served the captain bold, when he sat down to eat.

FULL BACK

A red, black and white homespun frock has a circular back to its skirt, with a curved and pointed bodice and skirt yoke in front. The cut gives it exceeding animation.

FUR FLOUNCE

A wine red velvet ensemble has its coat flounced in broadtail fur. The frock has circular bands of fur on the sleeves, posed at high cuff height.

SATIN BOW

A pearl grey satin scarf that completes a grey jersey silk sports suit, ties in a huge bow, with ends hanging, under the chin.

DOTTED PEPPERMINT

A peppermint green chiffon frock has polka dots of silver. They are of infinitesimal size in the bodice, larger over the hips and from the hem depth of the full skirt they grow to coin dots.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

How often do we hear parents say, "Our children are so discontented, always wanting something they don't have. We're doing everything in our power to make them happy but it seems they are never satisfied."

Perhaps they may be doing too much.

Just as hunger is the best sauce, a little wanting is likely to give the greatest zest to a present or a party or a new dress or a movie.

The children who are satiated with gifts are seldom happy. Yet take a child who never possesses a new toy from one month's end to the other and watch his eyes shine if he is given a ten-cent ball or a horn or a whistle.

I know a family of children who have been handed the good things of life on a silver platter. They have always been overdressed, overfed, overindulged, and waited on by their patient but mistaken parents to the point of martyrdom. Yet a more dissatisfied, pouty bunch of youngsters I have seldom seen.

The worst of such spoiling is that if by any trick of fate all these indulgences should be taken away, they would be miserable without them.

That is a dreadful tangle for life to get us into. To be unhappy with what we have and to be more unhappy without it.

Another thing—as indulged children get older, their demands increase. Their taste in toys will be their taste in cars, in trips, and week-ends, and fur coats and all sorts of extravagances. And with it all they won't be happy.

The thirst for thrills is only an aftermath of indulgence in childhood. It isn't the happy young people that go on madcap chases as a rule, but the unhappy ones, forever hunting the chimera that always seems just around the corner.

It's a great mistake to give children too many things, no matter how much money there happens to be in the family. And it is a mistake to plan too much for them. Let them have the thrill and effort of doing their own planning, at least part of the time. If you don't they will develop an inertia that is deadly.

All children should dress simply, and be kept busy. They should not be given new toys constantly. Their thrills should be few and far between.

America has a peculiar habit of boiling up from the bottom. It is safe to say that a large proportion of our leading citizens in 1950 will be from the children who today are learning to depend on themselves, to think for themselves. I wonder how many of today's satiated children, victims of their own inertia and boredom, will have places in the sun then.

AT THE THEATER

YOST BROADWAY

A neatly-wrought melodramatic plot, an exceptionally capable and well-chosen cast, and all the thrills which made the old-time play famous combine to make "The Whip," First National's current production at Yost's Broadway theater, one of the most entertaining of the season.

Based on the old Drury Lane melodrama first produced almost a century ago, "The Whip" is brought up to date in settings and dress and its multitudinous thrills are magnified by modern technical skill and photographic ingenuity.

It all revolves around a horse-race of course, as the title indicates, with a great deal resting on the proper horse's winning the big derby and a great many people interested one way or another in having it either win or lose.

Dorothy Mackaill brings her beauty and charm to the leading feminine role and Ralph Forbes proves an excellent foil in the masculine lead.

WEST COAST-WALKER

This ultra-modern Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture is a tale of a man without a soul; a super lover who stole hearts and stooped to knavery without a thought for ideals or religion.

Naturally his career comes to tragedy. As the young Viennese nobleman, he wins the love of the Countess Zellner, the wife of one of Vienna's social leaders. After winning her love he casts her aside in favor of the innocent young fiancee of his best friend, Manfred.

It is only when the Countess Zellner attempts suicide and blurts out that Gilbert is responsible for her downfall that tragedy arrives. Her husband attempts to kill the young aristocrat and is himself killed in the struggle. With his dying breath he calls Gilbert the devil himself. The subsequent climax makes "The Masks of the Devil" perhaps the most unique story ever brought to the screen.

WEST END

The Archduke Leopold of the Imperial family of Austria is seen in the role of Chief of Detectives in the Tiffany production "Night Life," which is now showing at the West End theater. His Imperial Highness has been in the United States for some time and was much intrigued with the making of moving pictures. While on the Tiffany lot during the filming of the scenes in "Night Life" with the action taking place in Vienna, he was asked by Director George Archainbaud if he would like to accept a small part. The Archduke accepted the offer with alacrity and was cast as the Chief of the Vienna detectives, playing the role to perfection.

Sixty miles an hour is considered fast enough for an express train at a steady gait. An automobile is going about its limit at seventy miles an hour, although under pressure they have reached the hundred mark. In the filming of "The Flying Fool," which features Dick Grace, with Wanda Hawley and Gaston Glass, the director, Frank Mattison, was compelled to employ the services of a racing auto with a platform built for the camera, the cameraman and the director, so that Dick Grace's change from an automobile to a racing airplane overhead might be properly photographed.

JULIA LATHROP

Club Day

Wednesday at Julia Lathrop was club day. With an omission of the regular sixth period classes the clubs were able to carry on their activities at this time.

Reports from the various club show that their work has actively begun. Miss Nora Reid's section of the Girl Reserves folded a large number of Christmas seal sheets, planned their part in the Armistice Day parade and arranged for an overnight hike to the county park.

Miss Foster's art and needlework club boasts of 38 interested girls who are already making hemstitched handkerchiefs, yarn purses, quilted and embroidered pillows, buffet scarfs, and felt, ribbon and bead flowers.

Members of the tennis club under Mr. Cain's direction have been playing a singles tournament in the form of a round robin. There are twelve members in this club. These twelve students enjoyed the privilege of going to the Southwest Tennis Tournament which took place in Los Angeles several weeks ago.

The Newspaper club, with Mr. Baker as advisor, is composed of seven boys, several of whom have fathers interested in, or working with the press. This makes the work of the club doubly interesting to the members who plan to make same visits to the Santa Ana newspapers sometime in the near future.

Since the Kodak club had such a large enrollment it has been divided into three sections with Mrs. Wolff, Miss Carl, Miss Swales and Miss Young as faculty advisors. Officers for Mrs. Wolf's section were elected at the first meeting of the club. These are: J. D. Parsons, president; Norma Thatcher- vice-president; Mary Eudaley, secretary; Clois Purvis, reporter. The second meeting of the club was a union meeting at which Robert Quail talked. He had many valuable suggestions to offer to amateur photographers, emphasizing especially the point that we must not cheat Mr. Eastman by putting two pictures on one film.

Cooks?

Mrs. Sinke's boys' cooking club is perhaps one of the most enthusiastic of all Lathrop's clubs. There are 27 high seventh grade boys who want to learn to cook. They have white aprons and chefs' caps to give their work a professional aspect and they have as an aim, to learn what foods should be eaten and why these are chosen; how to follow recipes and how to cook simple meals at home or out camping. Officers for this club are as follows: president, Leroy Levens; vice-president, Richard Holmes; secretary-treasurer, Marvin King; sergeants at arms, Preston Piper and Myrl Garner. These five officers with the assistance of Holmes Chambless and Willard Dolman form a governing board which will draw up rules and plans to be followed in the meetings of the club.

The section of the Drama club under Miss Blythe's direction chose four plays to be purchased with money earned from the candy sale and tried out for parts in the play, "Little Women" which will be the first one to be presented by the club.

Mrs. Drake's section of the Drama club read and discussed a play and later decided on parts to be taken by the various members.

W. H. SPURGEON TELLS ROTARY OF EUROPE TRIP

Reciting to the Rotary club today some of the highlights of his recent trip to Europe, W. H. Spurgeon, past president of the club, declared that he had found Italy a much cleaner country than he anticipated and asserted that cleanliness in the cities and suburban districts was due entirely to orders of Mussolini.

Asserting that he had been warned by friends never to mention the name of the dictator of Italy while in that country, Spurgeon said that there is no question but that Mussolini has effected a wonderful change in that nation. Pointing out that he saw Fascisti soldiers wherever he went, he said there are no policemen in that country except those officers.

Rural France the Santa Anan found to be many years behind the times in living conditions, as compared with the standard of the United States, the speaker commenting particularly on the custom there of housing domestic animals and families under the same roof.

Spurgeon gave interesting details on museums and historic points visited in Paris, Rome, Naples and other cities in the foreign lands. He will continue his talk at the meeting of the club next Tuesday.

selects its pastor," the superintendent commented, in pointing out that the congregation of the local church next Sunday morning would be given opportunity to vote on the selection of a pastor recommended to the church board by the standing committee on pastor. The name of the minister recommended has not been made public and will not be known generally until Sunday morning, according to the Rev. Mr. Porter.

The Rev. Mr. Porter will take up his new duties on November 14, and will have his headquarters at 302 Trinity building, Los Angeles. He and Mrs. Porter will move to Los Angeles just as soon as a suitable residence can be found.

Recalling that he came to Santa Ana from Salem, Ore., in 1918, the retiring minister said that the membership of his church had doubled in the period of ten years, the active members numbering at this time 724.

The minister said that his associations in Santa Ana had been of the most pleasant character and that harmony reigned supreme in his church. Opportunity to be of service to the churches of the state was a factor influencing him in decision to accept the position

Seven Hi-Y groups of Santa Ana met at the Y. M. C. A. at 6:30 p. m., yesterday, for a dinner and monthly program, at which considerable interest was taken in a debate based on the necessity for war in the modern world.

Although the affirmative was upheld by able speakers, Lecil Slaback and Cardwell Oglesby, the negative triumphed in the argument. The judges awarded the decision to Wesley Wallace and William Hawk, who argued that war is a necessity. Following the announcement of the unanimous decision a vote was taken among the boys present and 50 per cent stated their belief that war is necessary, thus dividing opinion equally.

Judges for the affair were Homer Cain, Leon Lauterbach and R. H. McArthur, club leaders.

car and his death may have been caused by drowning, it was said.

A coroner's inquest will be held in Oceanside tomorrow, after which the body will be returned to the Smith and Tuthill Funeral parlors here for funeral services.

Lazenby's relatives here reported that he left Santa Ana early yesterday morning with Farrar for San Diego. The two were returning to Santa Ana at the time of the accident. Lazenby is an automobile salesman here.

EXCHANGEITES EARLY VOTERS, POLL INDICATES

All but two members of the Santa Ana Exchange club had cast their ballots and had registered their choice for president when the organization met at noon in Ketner's cafe. When Gene Douglas, president, asked all those who had voted to stand up, only two men remained seated and they headed straight for the polls as soon as the session adjourned.

Considerable political banter skipped into the meeting and then skidded out again the early stages of the session.

The club decided to hold a bridge party on November 14. The idea was introduced by Stanley Clem and approved by the members.

Sol Gonzales, who has been absent for several months, was welcomed back to the meeting.

After the regular session, the nominating committee met and made plans for announcing the candidates for club offices at the meeting next week.

MESA AND TUSTIN 4-H CLUBS MEET

The Costa Mesa and Tustin 4-H clubs held meetings yesterday and last night at which enthusiasm for the coming year of activity was evidenced. At Costa Mesa 21 boys and leaders were present.

Movies of the recent trip to Davis, participated in by 45 Orange county 4-H representatives, were shown by Eric Eastman, assistant farm advisor. Plans for the coming year were discussed.

Boys of the Tustin club featured a swimfest in the high school pool at their session. Approximately 25, including Eastman, enjoyed the "splash."

according to reports filed at Democratic state headquarters here today.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Eight precincts in scattered wards of Oklahoma City on an unofficial count at 1:30 p. m. gave Herbert Hoover 582; Alfred Smith 453.

Four other precincts without definite figures reported Hoover in the lead. Smith led in three precincts and broke even in another.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Governor Smith was leading his Republican opponent by a vote of 863 to 37 in the second district of the 11th ward here when the voting machine was opened at noon because of mechanical trouble. There are 751 registered voters in the district.

HOUSTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Houston and Harris county, long a Democratic stronghold, appeared to be giving Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential candidate, a majority over Governor Alfred E. Smith.

At noon the unofficial and incomplete count from 44 of the 133 precincts gave Hoover 1929, Smith 1753. At the same time the total vote, all of which had not been counted, was 7198 in 65 precincts.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Democratic campaign headquarters here said the first tabulation of votes at Sandersbille, Ga., at noon today gave Smith 201; Hoover 15.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Casaba, first state capital of Alabama, gave Governor Alfred E. Smith a majority of four votes today, it was learned when complete returns from the little town were announced.

REHEARSAL FOR PLAY ARRANGED FOR TOMORROW

Tomorrow night's rehearsal of "Seventh Heaven," November dramatic offering of Santa Ana Community players, will take place on the stage of Yost's Spurgeon street theater, where the members of the cast will be given the opportunity to familiarize themselves with the surroundings in which they will make their public appearance on the nights of November 22, 23 and 24.

"Seventh Heaven" promises to be one of the best drawing-cards in the history of the players, for various reasons. One is that the stage version of the play by Austin Strong, with Helen Mencken as "Diane" and George Gaul as "Chico," achieved a tremendous success. This was equalled if not surpassed by the screen presentation when Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor made such an appealing pair.

Naturally Santa Ana theatergoers are interested in seeing what their own young people are able to achieve in the same dramatic roles. Then to add the final touch of interest, the play will serve to introduce a whole group of young people who have never before appeared in a Community play. Aside from Valmer Clark in the feature role of "Chico," and Mona Summers Smith as "Nana," every member of the cast will be new to the general public!

To Miss Clara Kate Owens has been entrusted the part of "Diane," playing opposite Clark. Miss Owens has appeared in different plays at Santa Ana high school, where she is a student. Probably one of her greatest incentives to present an outstanding characterization, will be the fact that she has a family standard to maintain. She is a sister of Mrs. Maurice Enderle, who as Harriet Owens and later, as Harriet Owens Enderle, has starred in various Community plays, including "The Country Cousin," "R. U. R.," and most charming of all, as "Moonyeen" in "Smilin' Through." Another sister, Mrs. Horace J. Howard, formerly Miss Kathleen Owens, showed a pronounced dramatic ability in minor roles.

Miss Loretta Spangler, another young student, will make her bow as "Arlette." One of her teachers, Miss Mabel Whiting of the mathematics department of high school and junior college, also is taking her first part with the Players, although she has been a member of the organization for a long time, and her sister, Mrs. Edith Thatcher, has played in different successes.

Mona Summers Smith in the character role of "Nana" is no stranger to local audiences, but her part will be a far cry from her brilliant characterization in the title role of "Enter Madame," and her work as principal in other successful Communtiy plays.

Frank Lansdown, while a member of the Players' association for a number of years, is making his dramatic debut as "Pere Chevillon." Albert E. Stuelke will play "Boul;" Wylie Carlyle will play "The Rat," and William Holman will take the part of "Maximillian Gobin."

Harry Edwards will play "Recan;', Kenneth Adams will take the role of "Brissac;" Wilbur Hoke will play "Blonde," Jack Baker, "Sergeant of Police;" Lawrence Phillips, "Uncle Georges," and Robert Quail, "August Margo."

TELL POSITION OF RIVERSIDE IN SIERRA'S FIGHT

Norman M. Blaney, secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau, announced today that he has received information which makes clear the position of the Riverside County Farm bureau in regard to the proposed right-of-way htrough Orange county of the Southern Sierras Power company.

This position, Blaney explained, has been in doubt since reports were published recently to the effect that the neighboring county bureau had indorsed the present route on which the power concern is seeking condemnation.

H. W. Postlethwaite, vice president of the Riverside Farm bureau, informed Blaney that "we were very careful not to indorse any particular line in our resolution but merely requested the Orange county board of supervisors to cooperate with the Southern Sierras Power company in securing the necessary right-of-way to build a transmission line along a route which will not be financially burdensome to the company and consequently to the Riverside county farmers."

Blaney pointed out that this action, taken by the Riverside organization, does not necessarily constitute an indorsement of the line now under consideration, to which farmers in the Garden Grove region are strongly opposed.

Section 1. That there is hereby created the office of City Forester of the City of Santa Ana, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the City Council and who shall perform his duties under the supervision of the City Planning Commission of said City. That until such time as an appointment shall be made for said office, the Street Superintendent of said City shall serve ex-officio as City Forester.

Section 2. It is hereby declared to be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, or their agents or employees, to cut, trim, remove, mutilate, injure or in any way impair the growth of any tree, shrub or plant being or growing in or on any of the parking strip, business square or public park in the City of Santa Ana, or to cause or permit the same to be done; provided, however, that in the event any person, firm, association or corporation desires permission to cut down, trim, remove or in any way interfere with the natural growth of any tree, shrub or plant within the places hereinbefore mentioned, application shall first be made to the City Forester for a permit therefor. Upon receipt of such application the City Forester shall cause an inspection to be made, and may thereafter issue or refuse to issue a permit for the execution of said work; provided, further, that whenever it is deemed necessary by the City Forester he may require the work specified in said application or in any part thereof, to be done under the supervision of the City Forester, and the cost of such supervision shall be borne by the applicant, if so determined by the City Forester.

Section 3. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation to plant any tree, shrub or plant in or upon any of the avenue, parking, strip, public square or public park, without first having obtained permission from the City Forester, who shall subject to the Supervision of the City Planning Commission of the City of Santa Ana, designate the kind, variety and size of the three, shrub or plant to be planted as aforesaid.

Section 4.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation to attach or to be attached to any tree or plant in a business square or highway in said City, or in the ground or stake intended for the protection of such tree, shrub or plant, or upon wire, placed or any

Section 5. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, without the written permit of the City Forester to place or maintain, or cause to be placed or maintained, upon the ground in a public highway of or in said City of Santa Ana, any stone, cement, or other sidewalk, or any stone, cement, or other substance, which shall impede the free access of water and air to the roots of any tree or plant in such highway. Unless otherwise provided for in such written permit, there must be maintained about the base of the trunk of each said tree or plant in the streets of the City of Santa Ana four (4) square feet of open ground for a tree of six (6) inches in diameter, and for every three (3) inches of increase of such diameter, there must be an increase of at least one (1) square foot of open ground.

Every person, firm, association, or corporation, having any wire charged with electricity running through a public highway in said City, shall securely fasten such wire so that it shall not come in contact with any tree or plant therein; and no person, firm, association or corporation shall, without the written permit of the City Forester, attach any electric wire, insulator or any device for the holding of any electric wire, or for bracing the poles which carry the same, to any tree growing or planted upon any public highway of or in the said City of Santa Ana.

Section 7. In the erection or repair of a building or structure, the owner thereof shall place such guards around all nearby trees on the public highways as shall effectually prevent injury to them.

Section 8. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, to place, or allow to be placed in or upon any parking strip, parking area, or public plot, any salt, oil, herbicide, or any other material deleterious to the growth of plants, or in close proximity to such public square, parking area, or public plot that such deleterious material will permeate the soil thereof.

Section 9. That any person, firm, association or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00), or by imprisonment in the County Jail of the County of Orange, not exceeding thirty (30) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 10. That all provisions of ordinances that conflict with any portion of this ordinance are hereby repealed. In case of litigation regarding the validity of this ordinance, any section or portion of this ordinance found to be invalid shall not invalidate the balance of this ordinance.

Section 11. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this ordinance and cause the same to be published three (3) times in the Santa Ana Daily Evening Register, a daily newspaper printed and published and circulated in the City of Santa Ana, and said Ordinance shall take effect thirty (30) days from the date of its final passage.

EVENING SALUTATION

Wouldst thou fashion for thyself a seemly life?
Then do not fret over what is past and gone;
And spite of all thou may'st have left behind
Live each day as if thy life were just begun.
—J. W. von Goethe.

THE CONTEST WILL CONTINUE

We are glad that the campaign is over. We believe that the politicians of the committees, those who have been endeavoring to make issues and to declare what the issues are, and what they are not, have not realized themselves what has transpired in the country.

The contest has been one over issues that the politicians have had little to do with. They have tried to stress the issue of prosperity and tariff, and have been harking back to the traditions and history of the parties. But the millions of the voters have been considering matters that enter into their personal, their social, and their religious life, things that had to do, in their minds, with deep convictions upon what the one side felt was moral conviction and the other an interference with personal liberty.

It has been a contest really between two civilizations, the Latin and the Anglo-Saxon, taking it by and large. There has been a marked change in our country during the past 150 years. The great cities have reared themselves on the plain and by the rivers, and into these cities masses have congregated. Very largely these masses have represented entirely different ideals than the Pilgrim fathers or than those the Covenantors brought to our country. There has been this contest going on—personal actions, conduct, habits of life, soberness as a virtue, personal responsibility, all of these are involved. The fight will not be over at the conclusion of today's battle. It will go on in some form or other continuously. It must go on as long as there are any who disagree with the majority, either to the end of them becoming converted or of them converting the major portion.

Neither side can rest upon its oars, nor will they by the victory of today. If the side that had won in getting prohibition enacted had not more or less imagined that it had won a victory simply because it had obtained legal enactment, the character of the campaign which has been going on for the past few months would have been different. The form of the campaign may change, but the character of it cannot as long as there are these serious differences in our country.

Neither candidate fully typifies or represents the complete views or the more pronounced of either side. We will gain lessons from the contest and learn more from it as we see it in prospective; as time passes, and as we study it further.

Scientists find that the earth has speeded up, making its accustomed rotation in less than 24 hours. Probably it's only trying to shake off the effects of a few political speeches.

A BOMBSHELL IN THE SILENCE

When Sacco and Vanzetti were electrocuted in August, 1927, after a delay of hearings and reprieves stretching over seven years, there were many who believed that the last word had not been spoken on the case. The leading papers of Massachusetts said when it was all over, "Let us drop it. The men are dead, and what is the use of keeping the matter stirring among the people." But there were many who felt that a great injustice had been done by a sovereign state, and that no stone should be left unturned to make it clear.

In the last issue of the Outlook, under a spreading cover lead, we read, "Vanzetti was innocent!" We read it with eagerness and some doubt. But after reading it, we are moved to say that the next move is for the officials concerned to make. A keen and well-known newspaper man, Silas Bent, who has written quite copiously on the modern newspaper, got a clue. The clue was followed up. Now it is known who engaged in the hold-up which ultimately sent Sacco and Vanzetti to the chair. It is a story that every open-minded man and woman should read. They owe it to themselves and to the abstract cause of justice to become familiar with the story.

We have no sympathy whatever with the political and social philosophy of the executed men. They were embittered and misguided fanatics. But the feeling will not down that the murder theory was only a pretext to send these men to the chair for their opinions. It will be a sorry day for any state when it kills men for holding opinions which may be uncomfortable, but which are not illegal. Such a violation of liberty will only eventuate in other men being framed when their opinions are not in accord with the great majority.

We would like to believe that even justice has been done in this case which aroused the interest and protest of the world. But if justice miscarried the quicker it is known the better, and they who were blind or prejudiced in the matter should be visited with that condemnation which a sense of outraged justice always administers when the truth is known.

A British publisher told an audience in Winnipeg that he found Chicago a nice and orderly city. Sure, you've got to be nice and orderly in Chicago—if you don't, the gangsters'll get you.

LOW BIRTH RATE IN BERLIN

There are some people still hounded by the bogey of Germany as the enemy of the world, preparing a come-back which will culminate in another war when circumstances are ripe. They will be relieved by the announcement of Dr. Burgdoerfer at the Eugenic Congress in Berlin that that city's birth rate is the lowest among world capitals. Though 2,000,000 children were born in Germany in 1900, the present total has dropped to 1,160,000 although the population has increased by 7,000,000 in the intervening period. The birth rate in Berlin was 9.9 per 1000 population, whereas that of London was 17 and that of Paris 16.

The figures evidence a terrific economic pressure in Berlin.

BROKERS' LOANS

We are hearing a great deal about Brokers' Loans these days in the discussion and news of the stock market. The Federal Reserve reported last week that they had reached a new peak. Nearly $4,700,000,000 have been loaned on stocks and bonds to holders of them. What would happen if the stock market should experience a radical slump? Would it create a financial panic?

There is a great deal of speculating going on. Never was the public at large so much inclined to stock speculation. Prices of stocks are high when judged by dividend returns. Some stocks are selling at prices that hardly yield much over 2 1-2 per cent. This does not seem to be hopeful. Yet there are financiers who are not appalled by it all. They tell us that the loans are so broadly scattered that even if all investors should lose, it would hardly be felt by the people at large. It would simply mean that the experience that some men have had of losing money is the experience that many more are having.

The only question that arises is, how much farther can it go? What will be the normal limit to which these loans can soar? There must be a limit, for it cannot go on at the present rate indefinitely. In the meantime it might be well to say to those who are in deep already that wisdom dictates caution if the crash is to be avoided.

A Chicago-Omaha air mail plane made a forced landing the other day at Cedar Rapids, Ia. Heavy rains came up, and when the pilot tried to resume his flight the plane was to deeply mired in the muddy field. He could not budge it.

How was the problem solved? With the aid of the horse! A farmer brought a team, which was hitched to the plane. A little sturdy pulling and the plane was dragged out to dry ground, from which it was able to take off successfully.

San Bernardino Sun

A radical and easily discernible change has come over the mind of mankind as to its attitude towards new and revolutionary ideas. The treatment accorded to Copernicus, Gallileo, Serverus and others who have given new and revolutionary thought to the world we have been accustomed to ascribe to religious bigotry. Such it was, but only secondarily. Primarily it was a manifestation of a universal human trait. We are all prone to hold that our own beliefs and the things we have been taught to be true are absolute. In consequence we are intolerant of anything to the contrary, whether it be in religion, art, music or science.

Perhaps men of science have been as bigoted and as intolerant of revolutionary thought as men of religion. Every new scientific theory—and they are all merely theories, no matter how much we may accept them as settled facts—has had to make its way against a solid wall of scientific conservatism and intolerance. The X-ray was scouted. Marconi's radio was doubted by all save a few of the leading scientists. The great change is that now a new theory—like the Millikan ray—is received with respectful attention if it comes from a really scientific source, no matter how much it may upset what has been considered fixed natural law. Theories long and steadfastly held have been overthrown in such numbers during the present generation, that both the scientific and the lay mind are expectant rather than repulsive in their attitude.

Just now we have two revolutionary claims. One man claims to be able to communicate with Mars and the other asserts he can neutralize the law of gravitation, and thus prove that it is no law at all as an absolute and unvarying rule. At least the claim as to gravitation has been received with so much respect, tolerance and absence of former ridicule, even in disbelief, that it indicates a great change in our instinctive attitude.

Radio Tricks Added to List of Great Hoaxes

San Francisco Chronicle

American campaign methods seem tame compared to what happens in Germany, if the kidnaping of a Berlin radio orator may be taken as a sample. Herr Schwartz was scheduled to talk for the Socialists on "Is Peace Possible?" Evidently it isn't. At any rate, that is what the radio audience must have felt as they listened to the speech of the alleged Herr Schwartz.

But, as the gentle reader has already guessed, Herr Schwartz did not speak. He had been spirited away and a bogus Herr Schwartz stood at the microphone. Herr Schulz, a Communist deputy—for it indeed was he—was delivering an impassioned denunciation of everything that the Socialist party stood for. He blasted the League of Nations, predicted bloody revolutions, praised Russia, and altogether made peace seem a remote prospect.

It seems incredible that he could have crowded so much into a brief quarter of an hour. Then he announced his identity, took a hurried departure and went into hiding in the Reichstag building while the police searched futilely. When the time limit permitted him, he came forth, claimed immunity as a member of the Prussian Lantag, suffered a black eye and a pair of broken eyeglasses and was challenged to a duel.

But beefsteak reduces black eyes, opticians are plentiful in Germany, and Herr Schulz doesn't have to fight a duel if he doesn't want to.

New York Times

Stilts are generally regarded as toys for children, absorbing but hazardous. Their nearest approach to usefulness has been when they have supported some exalted type of sandwich man parading up and down Broadway to advertise a restaurant or a play. Now they have actually entered industry. A firm of Toronto contractors has discovered that by putting six-foot stilts on their carpenters the cost of expensive scaffolding is saved.

The carpenters were both surprised and indignant. Two of them threw up their jobs rather than mount the stilts. The question is now being investigated by the Secretary of the Building Trades Council to see if the use of stilts is a "contravention of city or provincial statutes."

Probably the carpenter has not found himself in such an equivocal position since Lewis Carroll put him in a poem with the walrus and set him to eating friendly oysters. Carpenters apparently do not wish to have their trade confused with athletics or stunts. If the enterprising Toronto contractors should introduce movable traffic towers, several stories high, to reduce still further the expense of temporary scaffolding, they would probably find their entire force walking out.

Those Anxious Moments---Just Before the Verdict!

By James J. Montague

EXPERIENCE

As a child I was told
That to gain a firm hold
On the things that
Are really worth while
I must never give way
To despair or dismay
But wear a contin-
Ual smile.
I was led to assume
That the shadow of gloom
If it fell on a young
Person's face
Would destroy every chance
That he had to advance
And eventually lose him
So I went through my work
With a gay, trustful smirk.
Which for years I
Habitually wore,
And, believe me or not,
Not a sou have I got
And the wolf sits and barks at
My door.
While the men of affairs
And the big billionaires
Wear deep furrowed scowls
All day long.
So I'll pass on to youth
A most valuable truth;
That stuff about smiles is

Dr. Frank Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

TRAGEDIES OF MISUNDERSTANDING

In the South, a few years ago, a toll-gate keeper in a lonely section of the country was awakened by a banging at his door late at night.

A series of robberies had been committed near the place so he shouted from an upstairs window:

"Get away from that door or I'll shoot," he warned.

The pounding went on. He fired and the black shape by the door fell without a sound.

Later it was learned that the man knocking at the door was a deaf mute, lost in the woods, seeking to learn the direction to town.

He had heard nothing, and if he had he would have been unable to make a reply.

When we come to cope with the needs and actions of others, we too often fail to see the struggle or handicap that has shaped them as they are.

A man irritated all who met him by a supercilious way he had of looking at people through his glasses. It turned out that it was all caused by the way his spectacles were focused.

An actress who had a reputation for being "stuck-up" said it all came about because she was near-sighted. When she passed people on the street without speaking to them it was because she could not recognize them beyond a few feet.

A man who was thought stern and cold had spent most of his life fighting the bad blood of his father. He had risen from nothing by his own efforts and had lived a clean, respected life by virtue of eternal vigilance and conquest. It took iron primness to do that.

The more we know of others the more we find to sympathize with, and the less to criticize harshly.

Charles Lamb was once asked if he didn't hate a certain man and he said he didn't because he knew him, and you can't hate a man if you really know him.

The real reason we are more lenient with our own mistakes and shortcomings than with those of others is not because we are not unfair. It is because we know ourselves better than we do others and see all the extenuating circumstances.

It is a good thing to get into the habit of othering ourselves, that is to say, imaging ourselves to be in the place of another person.

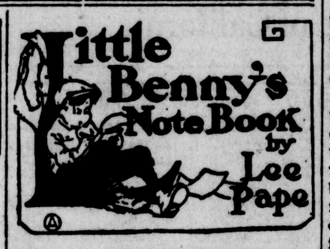
Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape



This afternoon my sister Gladdis was tawking to ma in ma's room, saying, Well mother, Harvey and I had a hart to hart tawk last nite, it was my suggestion and we told each other all about our former love affairs as far back as we could remember, a real hart to hart tawk, so now we have nuthing to hide from each other, I think thats the best way, dont you, mother?

Why yes I do, because now if anything crops up it will be a twice told tale insted of soiled linen, ma sed. Did you tell him about that army officer that gave you the diamond ring and insisted on having it back wen you broke off with him? she sed.

Well yes in a way. I dident axually mention the ring, Gladdis sed. It seems Harvey has had 3 affairs, it seems 2 were serious and one was serious on her part but not on his, she was a shameless little vamp and use to kiss him in frunt of people and all that sort of thing. Id like to slap her face for her even today.

Diskusting, did you tell him about that Sam Shepperd boy that I cawt kissing you under the apple tree at the picknick and you sed you were just going to call for help but you hadent quite started? ma sed.

Well yes, I mentioned him in a sketchy way, Gladdis sed. It seems Harvey was just on the point of marrying one geri but his parents dident think she was good enuff for him and I dont sippose she was, she sed.

Of course not, ma sed. How about that Lew Black boy that you use to get ingaged to every spring as reguler as a cold in the hed, did you tell him all about him? she sed, and Gladdis sed, Well I dident go so far as to mention being axually ingaged to him but of corse I told him about him in a genrel way. We were both quiet relieved wen we'd finished telling each other about everything and all the details and everything, but I think its the best way, dont you mother? she sed.

Yes I think it was a very wise ideer. I think you did quite rite, ma sed.

And her and Gladdis went over the list of people to send announcements to, being about the 10th time they had went over it.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

KNOWING WHEN TO QUIT

I have just spent an evening with a gifted Spaniard who brought back to me a delicate and delightful message from that brave exiled spirit, Miguel de Unamuno, the Spanish philosopher, to whom I had sent an invitation to spend a few weeks in an American university.

We talked of Spain, its history, its art, its literature, its days of greatness and its days of decline, the architecture of Seville, the harsh invasion of exquisite Spanish skylines by American office buildings, the spirit of Don Quixote, and the doings of Spain's dictator.

We talked of the forces of tradition and change that have marched across the soul of Spain during the thirty-two years since the Spanish-American war.

Finally my guest told this Spanish tale:

In a Spanish city where affairs were ordered with military precision, for years a sentinel had been assigned to patrol an area around a certain bench in an official court yard.

Years came and decades went, and sentinels accepted without question the duty of patrol around this bench.

Finally a military youth committed the heresy of thinking about the order that had been given to him by his superior officer.

He had been ordered to patrol the area around the bench.

He asked why it was necessary to patrol this area.

"It has been done for generations," he was told.

"Can we not find the original order?" he asked.

After weeks of arduous search in the archives, it was found that one hundred years before this bench had been painted and a sentinel had been placed there to prevent anyone from sitting down in the fresh paint.

By some oversight the order had not been recalled when the paint had dried, and for one hundred years sentinels had paced back and forth to keep men from sitting in paint that had dried the day after it was spread.

Progress consists in knowing when to quit patroling newly painted benches.

I leave it to the reader to figure out the number of useless sentinels we are supporting in church and state and school—men who are guarding benches on which the paint dried a hundred years ago.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"PICK THAT UP"

More trouble than a little has been caused between children and parents, between children and teachers by that irritated, angry demand, "You pick that up."

When a child is angry and throws something out of his hand, or shoves something crashing to the floor, he is too angry to hear what you say. Anger tenses the body and closes the mind. The more you hammer at the closed door the tighter it shuts. There is no use in shaking or beating the child. You will have to hurt him sufficiently to reduce him to submission and that is a very dangerous thing to do every way you look at it.

To beat a child into submission when he is angry and defiant is to rouse in him a resentment that rarely dies. For years and years that affront to the personality stirs the whole being to resentment. No good ever comes of that method, but much harm.

Frightening a child when he is in excitement only clamps the power of his mind down tighter. Fear renders him helpless. Anger and fear combined create such a storm within the child that he cannot hear your voice of reason, cannot look ahead and see what the result of his conduct is to be. He is blind and deaf to consequences because he is unconscious of anything but the storm within himself.

When a child throws something on the floor go to him gently and look at him steadily, kindly, and pick the thing up yourself. Say nothing to him. Silence is the very best sedative for such excitement. If possible leave him alone. Show no anger, no impatience. Be truly sorry within yourself for the child's misfortune. Be truly loving and understanding. When the mood passes and the child is himself again he will be very sorry. Then you can talk to him and teach him how wrong such an outburst of temper is.

But, if you meet his demonstration with a worse one of your own you emphasize his error. You teach him that temper tantrums are the usual thing. You fasten his chains upon him. In trying to discipline the child you will truly discipline yourself if you go about it in the right way.

But what will you do with a howling, kicking, punching child? And all the neighbors looking on, listening, and talking about it. First disregard the neighbors. If they have children they have their own troubles with them. Nobody has a monopoly on troublesome children. All children are troublesome one time or another, or all the time, according as you view it.

Pick up the howler, only if you must. It is better to leave him, to howl it out but if he has selected a crowded street for his demonstration you'll be obliged to pick him up, carry or hustle him toward home, escort him to the bathroom and wash his face and arms with cool water. Always without anger. Always knowing that your task is to HELP this child to conquer a difficulty. Always in the attitude of service, as when he has a case of measles. Don't try to fight it out. Train it out.
